Foreword

It is the hope of the Class of 1934 that this Voyager will accomplish these things: may it present such a history of the past year that in future times it will bring back many pleasant memories; may it express our sincere appreciation of our faculty and townspeople for making these four interesting years possible; and lastly, may it serve as an inspiration to our underclassmen to make our high school essentially an institution of high standards and character-building.

Dedication

We, the Class of 1934, take great pleasure in presenting this number of the Voyager in honor of Mr. H. Howard Lee, in appreciation of his many years of productive service, his excellent training in the habits of study, his whole-hearted participation in student activities, and his work as the financial adviser of the year-book.

Principal's Message

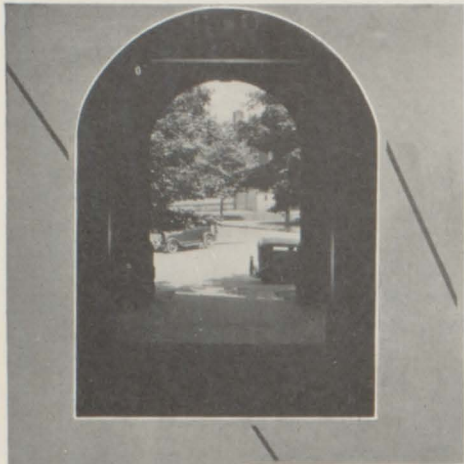

There are two kinds of citizens—those who look backward, and those who look forward. We rejoice that the class of 1934 belongs to the latter. You have faced the future with its obstacles. You have gone forward with courage and determination to carry on as others before you have done. This volume of the Voyager, with its excellence and beauty, is the evidence of your virtues, and a testimonial of your achievement.

As we take a panoramic view of the whole of Carnegie High School's Alumni, we see its graduates in the various useful vocations of professional and industrial life. They have been inspired to worthy achievement by the influence of wholesome environment. Soon you will be a part of the Alumni of Carnegie High School. The paths over which you must tread to win success are, perhaps, not as smooth as they were a decade or more ago, but the obstacles in your way are not insuperable. Keep that high courage which is your characteristic virtue. Continue to look forward, not backward. Let not a discouraging environment deflect you from the high purpose of usefulness and service. Then, in years to come, when we take a retrospective view and see Carnegie High's Alumni, we will find you, too, in positions of trust and service and a blessing to your community, state, and nation.

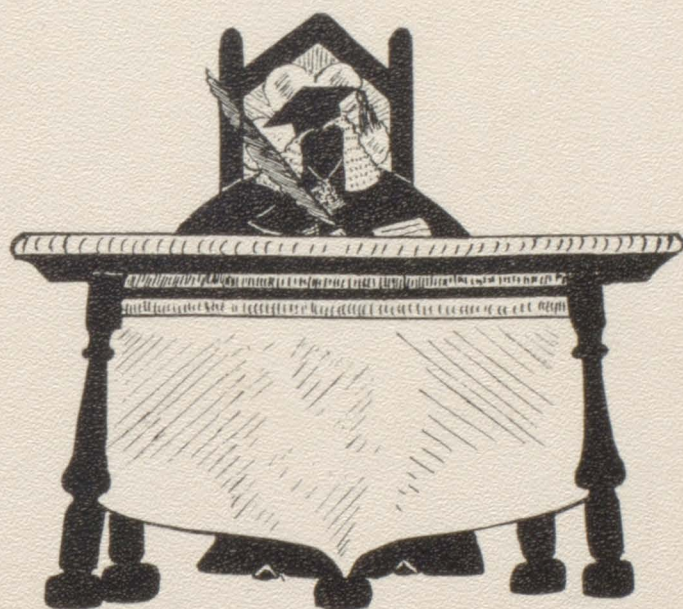

On behalf of the Faculty and myself, I wish you well.

ADMINISTRATION

Mr. N. L. Glasser, Mr. C. B. Nizon, Mr. W. C. Kearton, Mr. K. R. W. Ramsey, Mr. C. A. Foster, Jr., Mr. R. F. Bigham, Jr., Dr. H. R. Wilson, Mr. G. McFarland, Mr. G. E. Beadling.

Board of Education

No day of the school year is awaited with more enthusiasm than the day of the appearance of the Voyager. On its pages, every student finds something of interest. It shows a complete cross section of the life of the school. Its publication each year is the result of a very high type of student and faculty co-operation. It unifies spirit and sentiment to a greater degree than any other activity. The members of the Board of Education and the Superintendent take this opportunity to congratulate the staff, the advisers, and the students on the excellent character of this, the tenth volume of the Voyager. At the same time, we extend to the students our very best wishes for the continued success of this very worthwhile activity.

Class Poem

Commencement Day is drawing near,
It makes us wipe away a tear
To think we'll be no longer here
In dear old C. H. S.

We know you Juniors will do much
To keep the customs, traditions, and such,
While we have memories to clutch
From dear old C. H. S.

We've acquired a lot of helpful knowledge
That will aid us when we go to college
So that we could send a book of knowledge
To dear old C. H. S.

We've had such jolly times together,
Friends through fair and stormy weather,
And that's another crowning feather
For dear old C. H. S.

We've had such guidance from our teachers;
They helped and inspired us to be true seekers
In all the work and in all the features
Of dear old C. H. S.

And as our work in life we'll start
We feel an ache around our heart
To think that we soon must part
From dear old C. H. S.

We hope the God of all good grace
Will keep a smile on every face
Of those who occupy our place
In dear old C. H. S.

Absence makes the heart grow fonder,
So when we're travelling here or yonder
Our thoughts will very often wander
Back to dear old C. H. S.

And some day when our youth has flown
And some of us are quite well known
We'll remember that the seeds were sown
In dear old C. H. S.

Though Ruth's been with us only a year,
 We shall always keep her in mind;
 The reason why is simply this,
 Her manner is so refined.

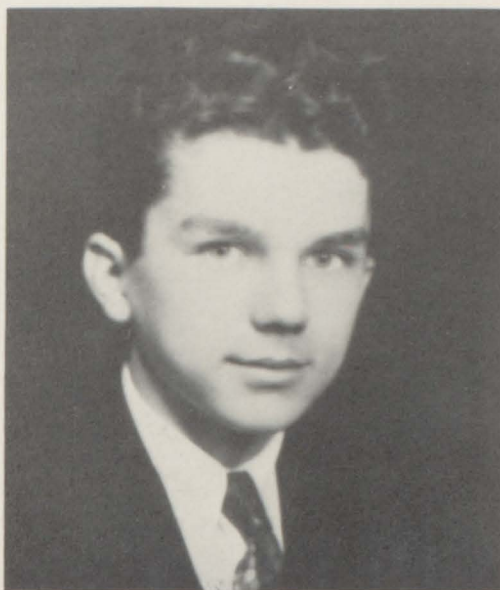

Private secretary and our adviser
 All rolled into one is she.
 She types away the whole day long
 As busily as a bee.

She mimeographs our examinations
 But the questions can never remember.
 She keeps a record of those who are absent
 To bright sunny June from bleak September.

She's helpful to teachers and students, too,
 Never known to complain or make a fuss.
 She's "Miss Boyd," the office girl, to some
 But she's "Lucy" to the most of us.

In Memoriam

Aloysius William Burdis

November 27, 1916—December 13, 1933

Sweet sleep has kissed his eyelids down,
Earth holds him to her tender breast,
It was so hard to see him go,
But this we know, God loves him best.

He left his pals, he left his home,
We watched him go—our eyes grow dim,
His loyal heart had heard the call,
His Master's call, His need of him.

His head straight up, his heart aglow,
He strove to reach the destined goal,
But death stepped in with quickly tread
And stilled the sweetness in his soul.

His sweet young life, a budding flower,
Has found, alas, a killing frost
And in our blind, unreasoning way
We cry aloud and think him lost.

He is not lost, our gentle pal,
We feel his presence everywhere,
In the glorious morning light of day,
In the twilight hush of evening prayer.

If thoughts were flowers, his resting place
Would be with blossoms covered deep;
His friends were many, and their thoughts
Still wrap with love his quiet sleep.

Sweet sleep has kissed his eyelids down,
Earth holds him in her tender breast,
But, Oh, he lives again
Within the gardens of the blest.

Juniors

The Juniors began this school year with a wonderful spirit of co-operation and a determination to make it the best and most progressive Junior class Carnegie High School had ever had. This year, as in our last two years, we started our activities with a class meeting for the purpose of electing officers. Those elected were: James MacDonald, President; Anna Marie Brown, Vice President; Marjorie Darnley, Secretary; and Charles Stockum, Treasurer. The officers set out to accomplish many things and with the generous help of Miss Moore began to plan enjoyable times for the Juniors. They arranged for a Junior Party to be held December twenty-second. It was the first of its kind that had ever been held in Carnegie High School and the Juniors hailed it as a success. The second class meeting was held for the purpose of electing the Junior Editor and the Business Manager for the Voyager. Lee Campbell was elected Editor, and Hildreth Elwell, Business Manager. A committee was appointed by the president, with Paul Swentkosky as Chairman, to get prices for dinks and pennants. During the next few months the Juniors were very busily engaged in a selling campaign of Wonder Pads, the profits of which increased our treasury considerably. At the third meeting of the Junior Class it was decided that we should spend some of our money in beautifying the school grounds. A committee was appointed to make all arrangements for buying and planting shrubs and grass seed. It was also decided to have a Junior picnic at some future date. We ended the year with a grand and glorious Prom under the direction of Layne Craig. It proved to be a big social success and we considered it a very fitting close to our class activities for the year.

Sophomores

Sophomores! and haven't you been proud of us! You should not even be surprised to learn that our history is wanted, for when has there been a class like the class of '36? Yet we dislike to talk of our achievements and only the most earnest pleading of the staff caused us to allow this short history to be written.

Last year we allowed the Sophomores to beat us at the "ducking"—it was their last chance, but this year we were honest and defeated the Freshmen, just so they wouldn't get too "bigheaded." We lent willingly of our athletic stars to football and basketball, and our musical talent has added much to the band, orchestra, and singing clubs. The Sophomore horse, Primus, finished third in the Voyager subscription race, close behind the Juniors. On Friday, April 13, the Sophomore Party was held. This was the first party ever held by a Sophomore class. Neither the day nor the inexperience of the Sophomores could prove a jinz. The "banana eaters" and "peanut blowers" flourished and the "comic dressers" provided laughs for all. In the late spring, the Sophomore Hop was held. Any school might be proud of a dance such as this.

Next year, as Juniors, we shall go on to greater achievements and honors. So with all the grace and dignity we know, we bid our Sophomore Year adieu.

Freshmen

When we began our Freshman year, we were upon the advent of an experience which was new to us. We began to plan our careers and dream of our futures. Following our customary ducking at the fountain, we began to work toward the aims and ideals which were set by our advisers and by ourselves. The upper classmen, forgetting that they were once Freshmen, of course looked upon us as their inferiors. Our class was well represented in all the organizations in which a freshman might be enrolled. The Freshmen girls numbered about fifty in the Girls' Athletic Association; twenty-six boys entered such activities as football and class basketball. There were eight members in the High School Orchestra under Mr. Bryan's supervision. There were eight Freshmen in the High School Band. During the year a Junior Band was formed, in which a few Freshmen were enrolled. Both were under the able direction of Mr. Cameron. The domestic science classes under Miss Skewis helped a great deal by canning tomatoes for the Welfare Organization. The diet and cooking part of our course was climaxed by the serving of a formal dinner in January. The sewing and commercial dressmaking part of our course was completed in June. The manual training classes under the leadership of Mr. Robb undertook a new project this year. This was the building of a lawn chair known as a rockerless rocking chair. Our class began the year with two hundred and forty-seven members; there were two hundred and forty-eight enrolled at the end of the year. The final examinations brought about the close of our Freshman life. Next year will probably find us looking upon the newcomers as we were once looked upon.

G Clef and Glee Clubs

These two clubs, made up of those boys and girls in the Sophomore and Junior classes who have the best voices, met once a week for training in chorus work. The G Clef Club this year had twenty-five first sopranos, twenty-four second sopranos, and twenty-three altos. The Glee Club had fourteen first tenors, twelve second tenors, twelve first basses, and twelve second basses. The two clubs prepare for admission to the Choral Club in the Senior year.

As a decided change this year, the girls rendered the short, light numbers in the annual Spring Concert, while the boys gave a classical selection. An American folk tune called "Our Club Will Shine Tonight," a southern greeting song called "Howdy," a Creole folk tune named "Sweet Potatoes," and a college song "Good-bye, My Lover, Good-bye," comprised the girls' group, while the boys rendered "Soldiers Chorus" from Gounod's "Faust." The combined clubs gave a group of classics—Schumann's "Green Hat," Tosté's "Venetian Song," and Mascagni's "Intermezzo" from "Cavalleria Rusticana," closing the program with "Sanctus" from Gounod's "St. Cecilia Mass."

A short one act comic operetta called "The Dizzy Baton" was given by the Junior members of the two clubs at the close of the Spring Concert of all the musical clubs. The cast of characters was as follows:

Chorus—Members of Mr. Jolly's Singing School Junior members of G Clef and Glee Clubs

The members of Mr. Jolly's Singing School are awaiting his arrival when two eccentric individuals enter with the news that the director has been detained and that they are to take his place for the evening. As director and accompanist these two who introduce themselves as Professor Sforzando and Herr Glissando are quite unusual. On being asked why they are there they give the excuse that Mr. Jolly has been tied up with some business red tape. They have not practiced long when a knock on the door interrupts their singing and Mr. Rich and his daughter enter. Mr. Rich desires to enter Suzanne in Mr. Jolly's Singing School but leaves in a sort of huff after a silly argument over the payments with the professor. Their antics are most fantastic and they put the chorus through some strange maneuvers. All goes well, however, until Jake and his assisting guards interrupt by claiming Professor Sforzando and Herr Glissando as escaped inmates from a home for the feeble-minded.

Band

With the close of the school year of 1934 the Carnegie High School band brings to an end another year of training. Although they missed members from the previous year they still carried on with that high degree of dependability for which all organizations of Carnegie High are honored. In order to offset the loss of graduating Seniors the director has been holding a music class for beginners on Saturday mornings. These pupils, we feel sure, will carry on as successfully as in the past.

The band played at all the Carnegie football games which were at home and a few games that were away. They also participated in the Hallowe'en parade. Following the close of the football season preparation was begun for the annual concert. After much planning the concert was given May 14 which was considered more successful than any that has been given by the band. The program consisted of fine overtures: "Lustpiel" by Keler Bela, "Magic Garden" by R. L. King, and "Crown of Jewels" by Louis Panella; also, "Cheerio" by Goldman was played. The works of John Philip Sousa were included, such as his "Washington-Post March" and "El Capitan." During music week which is the first full week in May, concerts were exchanged with Mount Lebanon, Dormont, and Bridgeville bands combined.

As a farewell, the Seniors would like to extend to the members of the band a wish for success during the years in which they will serve in the band. You are giving your time to an activity which is fully appreciated and we feel sure that the citizens of Carnegie have a pride in the young people of their town who are willing to prepare for playing in this organization.

Orchestra

In our musical organizations probably the most artistic work attempted is done by the high school orchestra. The personnel consists of thirty-four musicians which includes violins, clarinets, flutes, trumpets, a trombone, saxophones, drums, and piano. It takes part in most of the major activities of the school's program. The students taking part in the programs of this musical club are usually those who have a small sense of the value and an appreciation of the beauty of music. In taking part in a program of any sort the musician usually enjoys providing the entertainment as much as the listener enjoys hearing it. Undoubtedly the most valued lesson received in taking part in an orchestra is that the member learns how to act in public. The members of the organization have learned at least one thing, for example, that stamping out the time with the foot is never indulged in by a player in a worthwhile orchestra.

The major event in which the orchestra took part was the annual Spring Concert. They entertained with a selection made up of melody gems from Sir Arthur Sullivan's Operas. Those represented were "His Majesty's Ship Pinafore," "Gondoliers," "Mikado," "Pirates of Penzance," and "Patience." The tempo of these strains varied from a moderate waltz to a strain which could have been taken for a march. The orchestra also presented music for the Gold Star Mothers' program which was held at the Carnegie Theater. This opportunity which is offered annually by this institution is fully appreciated by the members of the orchestra for who knows it may be at one of these programs that one of the world's future musicians may feel his first ambition for public entertainment.

Senior Choral Club

It has been the custom of Carnegie High School in the past few years to have a singing club in which Seniors only have the privilege of taking part. The Choral Club personnel consists of members who are considered a little more advanced in the study of music than those of the other singing organizations. The instructor strives to put more expression and beauty into their singing than in former years. We have decided that the students may have become so far advanced, after being trained in high school for three years, that in their fourth year of singing they have learned that chewing gum and singing cannot possibly be indulged in at the same time without catastrophe. We feel sure that the coming Choral Clubs will learn the same lesson in the same manner.

The main entertainment which the Choral Club sponsored was the Senior Operetta which is held annually. But this topic will be discussed in another place. The club also took part in the program of the Spring Concert. This year it presented entertainment that has never been rendered by a Choral Club. Early in the year, by popular vote a queen was chosen from the class. The girl having the highest number of votes was chosen queen and the two next highest were chosen for her attendants. Appalone Lafferty was chosen queen and Virginia Wilson and Wilhelmina Randecker as her two attendants. With these as a background the chorus sang "Choosing of the May Queen" from MacFarren's "May Day Cantata." They also entertained with a group of folk songs of the British Isles. Scotland was represented by "Turn Ye to Me"; England, by "The Friends We Left Behind Us," which was, of course, really the old time "The Girl I Left Behind Me"; Wales, by "The Rising of the Lark," and Ireland, by that beautiful old favorite, "Bendemeer's Stream." At commencement the club sang "From the Land of the Sky-blue Water" by Cadman, a Pittsburgh composer.

Operetta—Polished Pebbles

The scene is laid in a small country town where everybody knows everybody. The farmers about and the villagers make up the chorus.

Cast of Characters

Uncle Bob (Baritone) disguised as a negro in Act 1	Olive Danziger
Mrs. MacGullicuddy (Mezzo) widow, sister of Uncle Bob	Appalona Lafferty
Winifred or Winnie (Soprano) Daughter of Mrs. MacGullicuddy	Janet Pascoe
Millicent or Millie (Soprano) Daughter of Mrs. MacGullicuddy	Janet Brush
Mrs. Gabble (Soprano) town gossip	Lois Speed
Martha (Mezzo) country girl	Virginia Wilson
Nick (Baritone) country boy	Mike Wengryn
Boy	Robert Davies
Speaker from chorus	William Wellings, Jr.
Pianist	Lois Bernhardt

In the first act news is received that Rosalie's aunt and cousins are returning from abroad after having inherited an amount of money. To their astonishment they are severely snubbed but their anger is appeased by Rosalie. Mrs. MacGullicuddy proceeds to make matters uncomfortable and orders a negro servant discharged. The daughters awe the simple country people by the stories of their experiences in travel and by their expensive clothes. In her zeal to rid them of the servant she pretends that she has lost her jewels after hearing from one of the neighbors that the negro was merely masquerading.

In the second act Bob finally acknowledges that he had disguised himself as a negro in order to find out just how true the reports he had heard to the effect that Rosalie was being mistreated were. Mrs. MacGullicuddy had made a demand for money and he had decided to investigate and had found matters worse than he thought. This news completely staggers Mrs. MacGullicuddy but Rosalie begs him to forgive them. He then promises Rosalie a trip through Europe, at the same time declaring he will continue an allowance to his sister and her daughter.

Cavalier Club

Gay young fellows? Ah, yes, and ladies too! They numbered just about sixty this year. Ten of them were Juniors who will carry on next year. At the end of this second year we are still endeavoring to promote an appreciation of literary achievement, good fellowship, and desirable social contacts; and we feel that our efforts have not been without a pleasing degree of success.

Our programs have been so varied that each one was an attraction in itself. Enthusiasm never lagged. Among those who helped to make each program interesting were Miss Cochran and Mr. H. H. Lee who gave accounts of their trips to the World's Fair. Mr. Lee illustrated his talk on The Planetarium with a moving picture, and was called "an old meanie" because he failed to show a "Mickey Mouse." Dr. E. J. Bjelke, a teacher in China for ten years, made it clear to us why China occupying more than a hundred times as much territory and having five times as many people as Japan, cannot keep a place in the sun. Mr. Walter Rome, former Assistant Dean of Men at the University of Pittsburgh, gave a few pointers on how one should proceed in choosing a career. Mrs. Warren's talk on Etiquette was warmly received. The Senior Ensemble and Miss Martha Burry furnished musical selections. The final social activity of the Cavaliers was the annual club outing which is held not only for club members alone, but also for the entire student body.

This club under the able sponsorship of Miss Effie Milliren wishes to express its sincere hope that next year's club may enjoy being Cavaliers as much as we did in 1933-34. The time for parting has come, but we're without regrets. Yes, just gay young fellows and their ladies who are delighted to know that we may participate in 1934-35 activities as last year's "Grads."

The Commercial Club

Activities of the Commercial Department started when the club opened in September with a weiner roast which was enjoyed by all its members. The October meeting was a business meeting which saw the organization well on its way to a happy season. In November a Thanksgiving program was presented and it was one of the highlights of the year. December ushered in a Christmas party that was the meeting of meetings. The committee's splendid decorations made the gym glow with cheerfulness. In January, the members of the Cavalier Club were our guests and the Commercial members did their utmost to make it enjoyable for everyone present. Following the program the clubs spent a very pleasant evening of dancing and games. In February we were entertained by outside talent. This meeting was very interesting and the group of entertainers should be given much praise for their delightful program. In March the Commercials and Cavaliers combined with their friends and had a skating party. April was the month the Junior members chose to show their ability in handling a club. They did remarkably well and should be able to carry on the club's activities next year very creditably. May was picnic month and the picnic held at Mineral Beach was an event that will remain in the memory of everyone who attended as a day well spent.

Miss Cochran must be complimented for her zealous work throughout the year. The members of the Commercial Club wish to thank her for her competent sponsorship; and also, all others who contributed to the success and good times of the club.

Senior Domestic Science Class

A group of sixteen girls, fourteen of the class of 1934 and two of the class of 1933, made up the Senior Home Economics class. The year was divided into six weeks periods. The first period was spent in learning the fundamentals of canning foods. The second six weeks was spent in dress making at which time each girl made a dress according to her own tastes. The next section was centered around Christmas. Everyone made some kind of gift—fruit cakes, knitted scarfs, hats and gloves, collars and cuffs, and toys. The class gave a tea at which these articles were exhibited. Our mid-year examination was very different and much more difficult, also more fatiguing than a written one. A luncheon was planned and prepared by the class for the Junior Auxiliary when they entertained the Woman's Club. We prepared a luncheon for about two hundred guests. Our next training was in preparing and serving dinners. After two weeks of instructions, two formal dinners were served with much success. The next course was in child care. We had two very interesting lectures by Miss Weideman, the dental hygienist. Outside of class every girl made a certain article of a layette from material furnished by the Welfare Association. The last two six weeks were combined and two things were required. First, every girl was to do something in the way of redecorating or making something for her room. Some chose curtains, quilts, covering chairs, and similar tasks. The second was that every one draft her own pattern for a dress and make it. In the remaining time, each girl was to do something of her own choice.

The whole year was one of variety, planned very harmoniously by our sponsor, Miss Savina Skewis. By our year's study we have gained a wider view of life and know how to meet occasions when they arise. The time spent has been a great help in many ways and showed us the importance of such a class as Home Economics. We shall always be thankful to Miss Skewis for the excellent training she has given us.

Senior Ensemble

One afternoon early in the term everyone's ears perked up as strains of music were heard in the lower hall. Since it wasn't the regular period for any instrumental music all wondered from what source the music came. We are proud to say it was the Senior Ensemble. Ours is the first class that has had enough instrumentalists to have an organization of that kind. It is composed of four violins, four clarinets, an alto saxophone, a trumpet, and piano. The members, all Seniors, are some of the best players from the orchestra and band and have enjoyed practicing once a week on numbers rather more difficult than those usually studied. Occasionally a snappy march or a dreamy waltz lent variety to their study. Though they have played at no extra-mural events, music was furnished by them for the Senior Literary and for evening meetings of the Cavalier and Commercial Clubs. Their most ambitious performance was a "Petite Suite de Ballet" which they rendered in fine style for the Spring Concert. There were four movements: the first was a gay air from "Iphigenia in Aulis"; the second, a spirit dance from "Orpheus"; the third, a musette from "Armide"; and fourth, the "Finale", which is a return to the carefree spirit of the first movement. Their part on the Commencement program was "A Day in Venice" by Ethelbert Nevin, a Pennsylvania composer. Let us hope that the classes to come will have enough players to continue this pleasing Senior activity.

T. M. T. M. Club

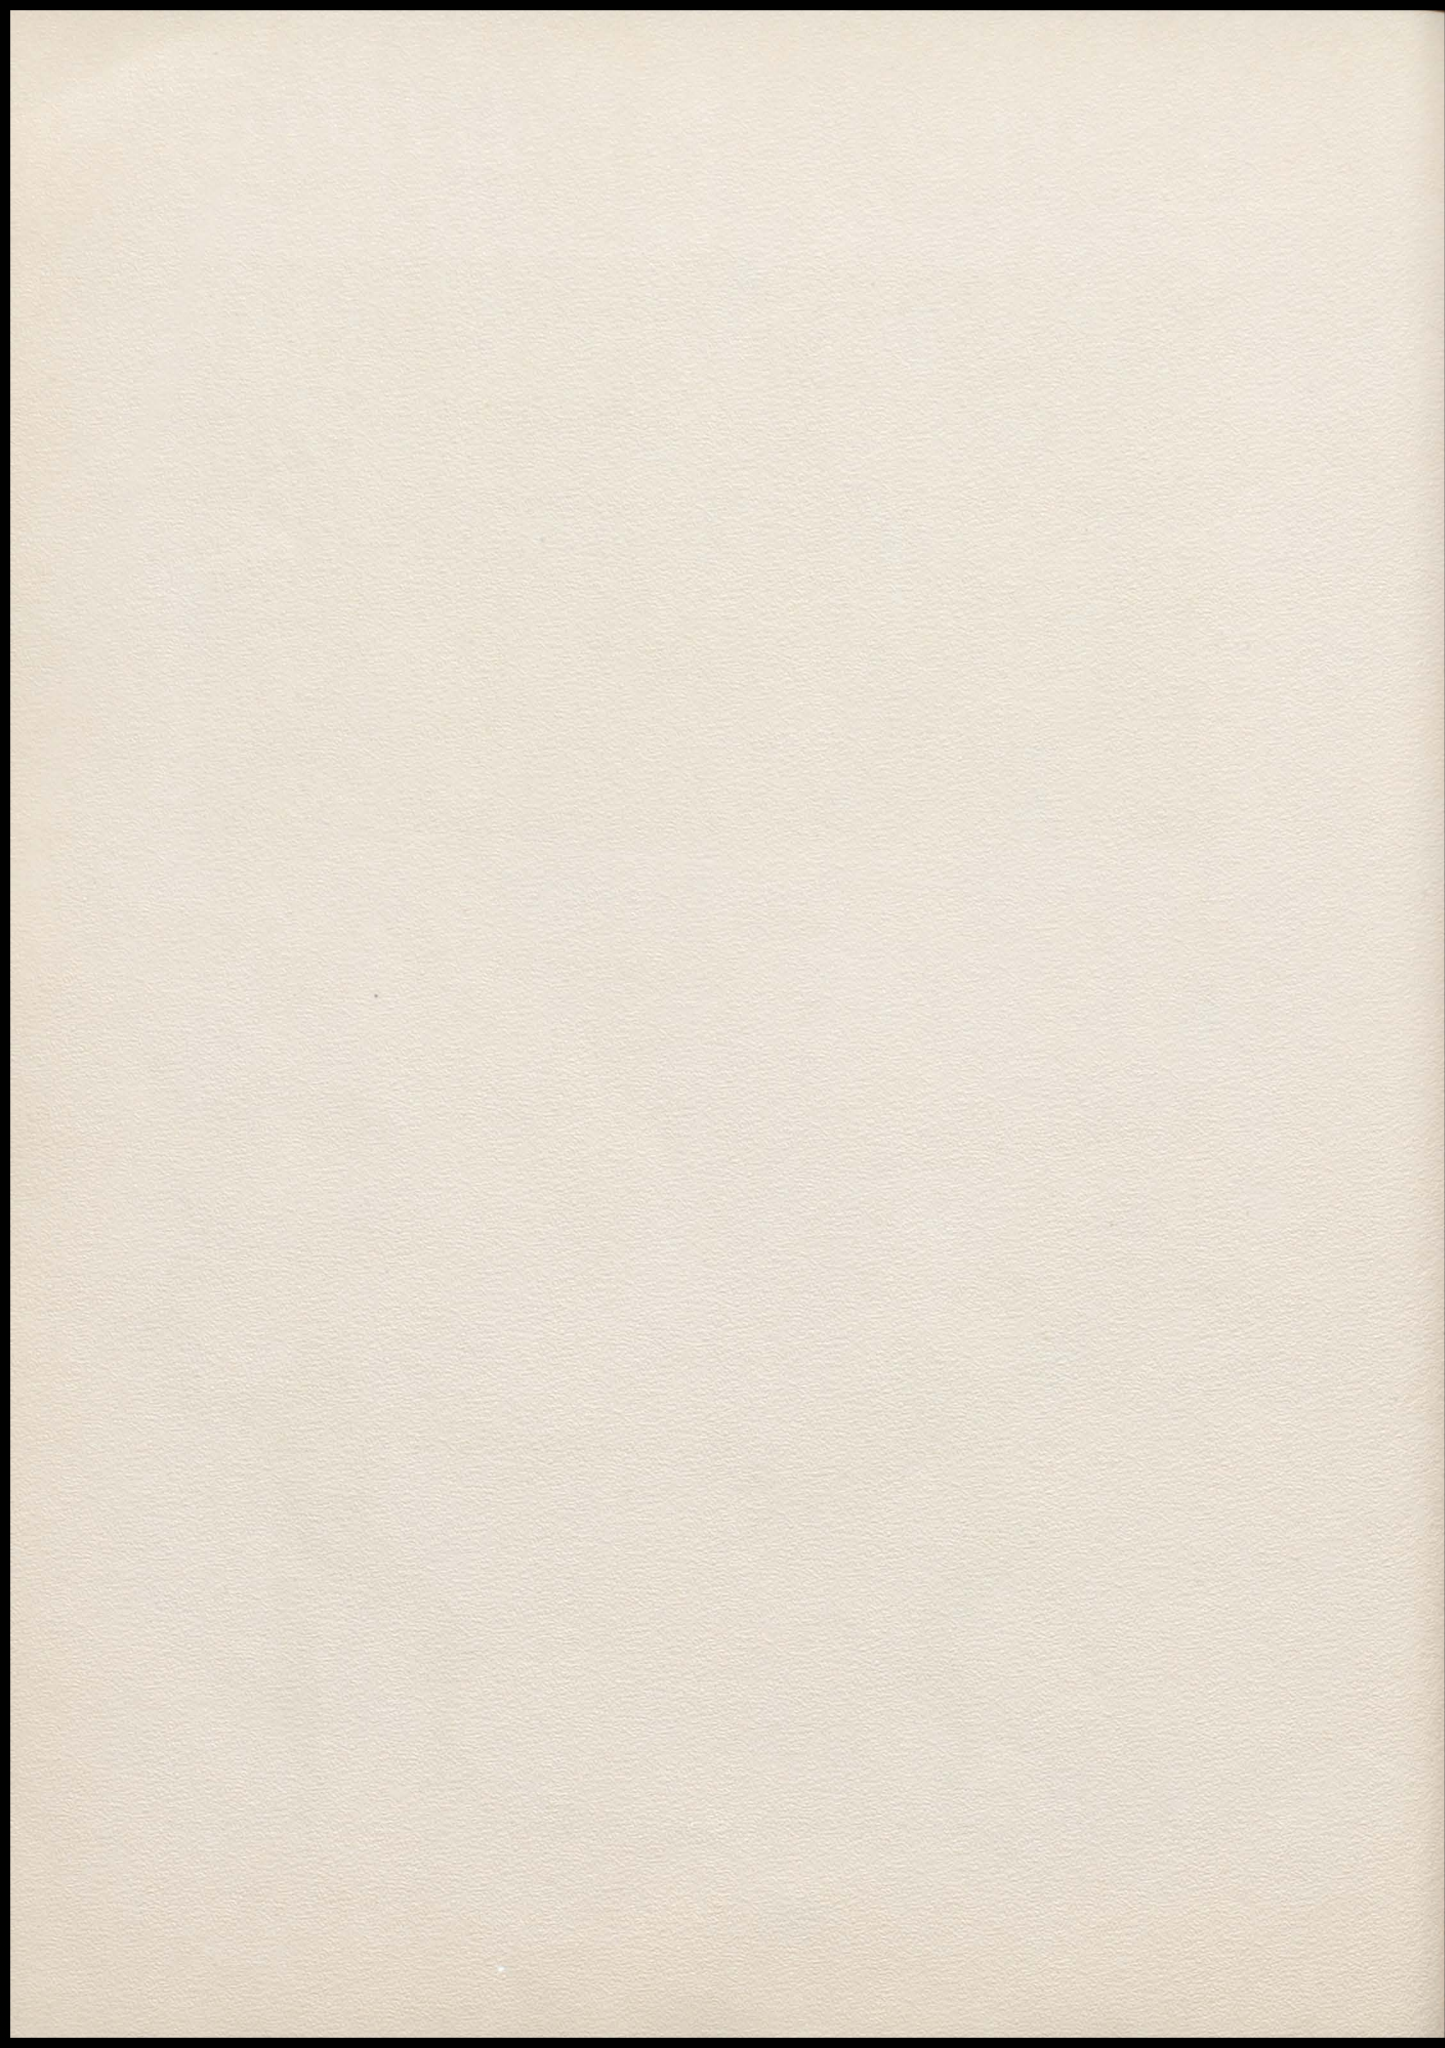

Organized four years ago by the present Senior class, this club through the co-operation of its members and the most diligent work of its sponsor, Miss Skewis, has continued as an active organization. The membership now consists of thirty-seven Seniors and thirteen Juniors. This club offers many social activities which are deeply appreciated by all. The one heading the list for this year was the annual dance, held October twenty-seventh. An enjoyable evening was spent in dancing to the delightful music of Howard Webb and his orchestra, and indulging occasionally in the delicious cider and pretzels. The Harding Gym was most artistically decorated in a Hallowe'en setting. The next event of the year was a tea held December nineteenth for the faculty and the mothers of the club members. Then came the second annual Kid Party, which was a great success. This was held March fifteenth in the high school gym for the girls of the entire high school. "Kids" of every description participated in the fun, and prizes were given to the most cleverly dressed. Next was a tea held in the Harding Gym in honor of the Eighth Grade Graduating class, at which the faculty members of the Harding School were guests. Then came the long expected picnic in June which was a pleasure to all. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed herself and was only too sorry to see the happy day draw to a close. Last, but not least, the girls served as hostesses at a farewell tea, given in June for the mothers of the members and the faculty of the high school. It is impossible to express how much the girls have appreciated this club and we are grateful to Miss Skewis for her excellent guidance and constant effort. We hope this club will continue to carry on, and be as beneficial to others as it has been to us.

During the school term just drawing to a close, the true value of the Athletic Association was again pleasingly demonstrated. Decreasing revenues, the result of the depression we are passing through, and weaker teams than the school has had for many years, did not stop a full program of athletic activities from being carried out. The Association equipped more than seventy-five boys for football and about twenty-five for basketball. Athletic equipment was also provided for the class teams and various independent teams within the school such as the Blue Streaks, Boy Scouts, and Alumni. Due to the loyal support of the students and townspeople, the teams representing Carnegie High School are as well equipped and travel as comfortably as any other team in this section. The aim of the Athletic Association is to provide for the comfort and convenience of its patrons at all athletic games. Progress has been slow, due to limited funds, in making some needed improvements on the athletic field and in the Harding Gym. However, as soon as circumstances permit, all plans of improvement will undoubtedly be carried out and the patrons of our games will be provided with the same facilities for enjoyment as exist in other schools.

The Athletic Association wishes to thank its Faculty Advisers—Mr. Knarr, Mr. Adams, Mr. Schumacher, and Miss Corbett, for their invaluable aid during the past year.

Varsity Football

At the beginning of the season when recruits were called for practice, seventy men responded. Among these were eight letter men from the previous season. These with the newcomers, were grouped into one great body on the gridiron.

After a few weeks of strenuous practice, Coach Shumacher chose his first eleven to uphold the honor of the Orange and Black against the Grey and Red eleven from Bridgeville. Carnegie was victorious, winning 13-0. The next week was spent in ironing out the rough spots which the initial contest had exposed. Canonsburg proved to be too powerful in the second game and Carnegie was defeated 13-0. This marked the beginning of a long series of Carnegie defeats. All of them, however, were lost by small margins and were due mostly to the "breaks" of the game. We bowed to Burgettstown 14-0 in the third game of the season. Stowe was our next opponent, and after a hard fought battle managed to cross the Carnegie goal line in the last few minutes of play. The boys were not able to break the long string of McKees Rocks' victories over Carnegie High teams and our traditional rivals handed us a 14-0 setback. At Mt. Lebanon, the following week, Carnegie bowed again 14-6. The game with Langley ended in a scoreless tie. Dormont succeeded in converting the point after touchdown which provided the margin of victory. The following day, we clashed with South Fayette and neither eleven was able to cross the goal line. The most important game of the season was played on our field, when our boys lost to the Crafton eleven, 7-0. St. Luke's, the first time on our schedule in the history of football, was defeated in a post-season game 12-6.

Captain "Toy" Peresman led the Carnegie players and set a splendid example both in victory and defeat. His work will be taken up next year by Joseph Krovchyshyn. Walter Krok, who played a consistently fine game throughout the entire season, received the cup given by Mr. E. J. Cole for being the most valuable player of the season.

Nine players will not return to the gridiron next season. These include Peresman, Spelar, Pretka, Aspinall, Bevard, Beadling, Davis, Krok, and Wilk.

At the banquet given in their honor by the Rotary Club of Carnegie, letters were presented to the following players: Peresman, Krok, Spelar, Pretka, Aspinall, Bevard, Beadling, Davis, Wilk, Stockum, Bevilacqua, Krovchysyn, Swentkosky, Bishop, Deschler, Cosentino, and Perilman—Manager.

Varsity Basketball

With no lettermen returning from last year, Coach Adams faced a difficult task of moulding together a quintet capable of competing with other rivals who were entered in Section IX.

Carnegie's opening game with one of the city schools, Allegheny Vocational, was successful for our boys. This game was played on the opponent's floor and no return game was scheduled. The second non-league game was at Burgettstown where our boys again were victorious. At the next game with South Fayette on our floor, the local fans had their first opportunity to witness their high school basketekers in action. The game was an easy victory for Carnegie, but when we appeared on their floor, although the game was a little difficult to capture, our quintet earned the winning score during the closing minutes of play. Bridgeville, after winning a few of her non-league games, was greatly surprised at being defeated in a hard fought battle. Carnegie had the lead until the last two minutes of play when Bridgeville came through with a field goal which put them ahead. As the seconds were ticking away at the close, one of our boys made a sensational shot which decided the ball game and again brought the laurels to Carnegie. The Alumni was the next foe. At this game the ex-varsity boys were the favorites but due to the hard and brilliant playing of the varsity, the Alumni were forced to bow in defeat. Since this contest closed the pre-season games, it meant that the locals were going into league competition without a loss. After these non-league games were played, Coach Adams spent the next few days on the court ironing out the weak points which had appeared during the non-league games.

Our high school opened up with Coroapolis in their first Section IX engagement. After nine years of travelling to Coroapolis and losing each contest on their floor, the Carnegie five decisively defeated the Blue and White. When the Coroapolis boys appeared on our floor, they were again defeated. Mt. Lebanon, which captured the Section IX title last season, gave us a defeat on our court and repeated it on their floor. The first game that was played with Mt. Lebanon was the most interesting game played during the season. Throughout the game both teams fought brilliantly; each rotated in being ahead, and when the closing whistle blew Mt. Lebanon was ahead by one point. Dormont, winners of the sectional championship this year, defeated Carnegie in their brace of games. Carnegie's two games with McKees Rocks resulted in victories for the locals. The first game on our own floor was won easily. When we met the Rocks on their floor the game was somewhat closer but our quintet was able to finish with a victory added to their credit. Crafton High, our greatest rival in athletics, handed us two defeats. The games were hard fought battles on both courts. Stowe gave us a setback in a thrilling contest on our court and we again bowed to them in an exciting game on their floor. This year Carnegie did not have an elected captain, so Coach Adams appointed one for each game. At the end of the year when letters were given out, Michael Wengryn, the only Senior on the squad, was elected Honorary Captain by the following who received letters: Michael Wengryn, J. D. Taylor, Paul Swentosky, Andy Salynski, Michael Mitchell, Charles Stockum, Thomas Jones, and Paul Eveson—Manager.

During the past campaign, the squad was composed of "A" and "B" groups. The "B" squad was made up of Freshmen and Sophomores who, it is expected, will develop into varsity performers in the near future. The boys played hard and capably throughout the season, and are eagerly looking forward to next season. The "B" team won thirteen games and lost five. The high scorers were Manion and Dunevich, Sophomores.

Girls' Interclass Basketball

The major class sports for the girls in Carnegie High School are volley-ball, basketball, and baseball. Volley-ball is the first one of the class sports played in the fall. The Seniors who had held first place last year were quite confident of keeping the title this year. They were greatly surprised when the Junior team quite neatly defeated them by a score of 37-28. The Seniors lost a second game when the Sophomores won from them by only one point 23-22. These two defeats to the Seniors gave the lead to the Juniors, and now placed the tournament between the Juniors and Sophomores. Both teams held a little pep meeting before the game which made it doubly interesting as both teams were all the more determined to win. Both teams starting out, having no luck with their serves, were down in spirit until the Sophomores pepped up the game by getting the lead. This aroused the Juniors' spirit and one of their outstanding servers, by scoring several times, won the game for them by points which could not have been made except by the rest of the team's cooperation.

Following volley-ball several weeks were spent in practicing basketball. Then class teams were chosen from the best material. While the Freshman and Sophomore teams should be commended for their good team work and the fine playing they displayed in their games, the outstanding game was that of the two upper classes. The championship game started out in the Juniors' favor, but it was not long until the Seniors began to surpass them and maintained the lead until the final whistle was blown. This victory gave the Seniors first place in basketball, which they had also held at the close of their Junior year. This team was composed of a few of the girls who played with the Girls' Varsity in 1930.

Class gym work gives the girls a well rounded physical program. Posture is stressed through marching and free hand exercises. Grace and poise is acquired through rhythmic and dancing. Apparatus work includes exercises on the horse, rings, ropes, trapeze, and parallel bars; besides, high jumping, standing broad jump, and tumbling.

The Girls' Athletic Association, which was newly organized last year, has been successful and has doubled its membership this year. This club, organized by Miss Corbett, includes girls who are members of inter-class teams and girls who excel in apparatus work, dancing, and general calisthenic work. The club has had several social events, besides sponsoring the girls' athletics. Committees appointed by the president took charge of all these social events. In the later part of May the club had their yearly hike and picnic. At the last club meeting of the year, letters were awarded by the club to those girls who had earned them in class sports or who had excelled in certain phases of gym work.

The officers of the club must be from the Junior or Sophomore class, as they are elected in January. The officers for 1933-1934 were: President, Lorraine Clatty; Vice President, Janet Brush; Secretary, Janet Pascoe; Treasurer, Louise Schempp.

Boys' Inter-Class Basketball

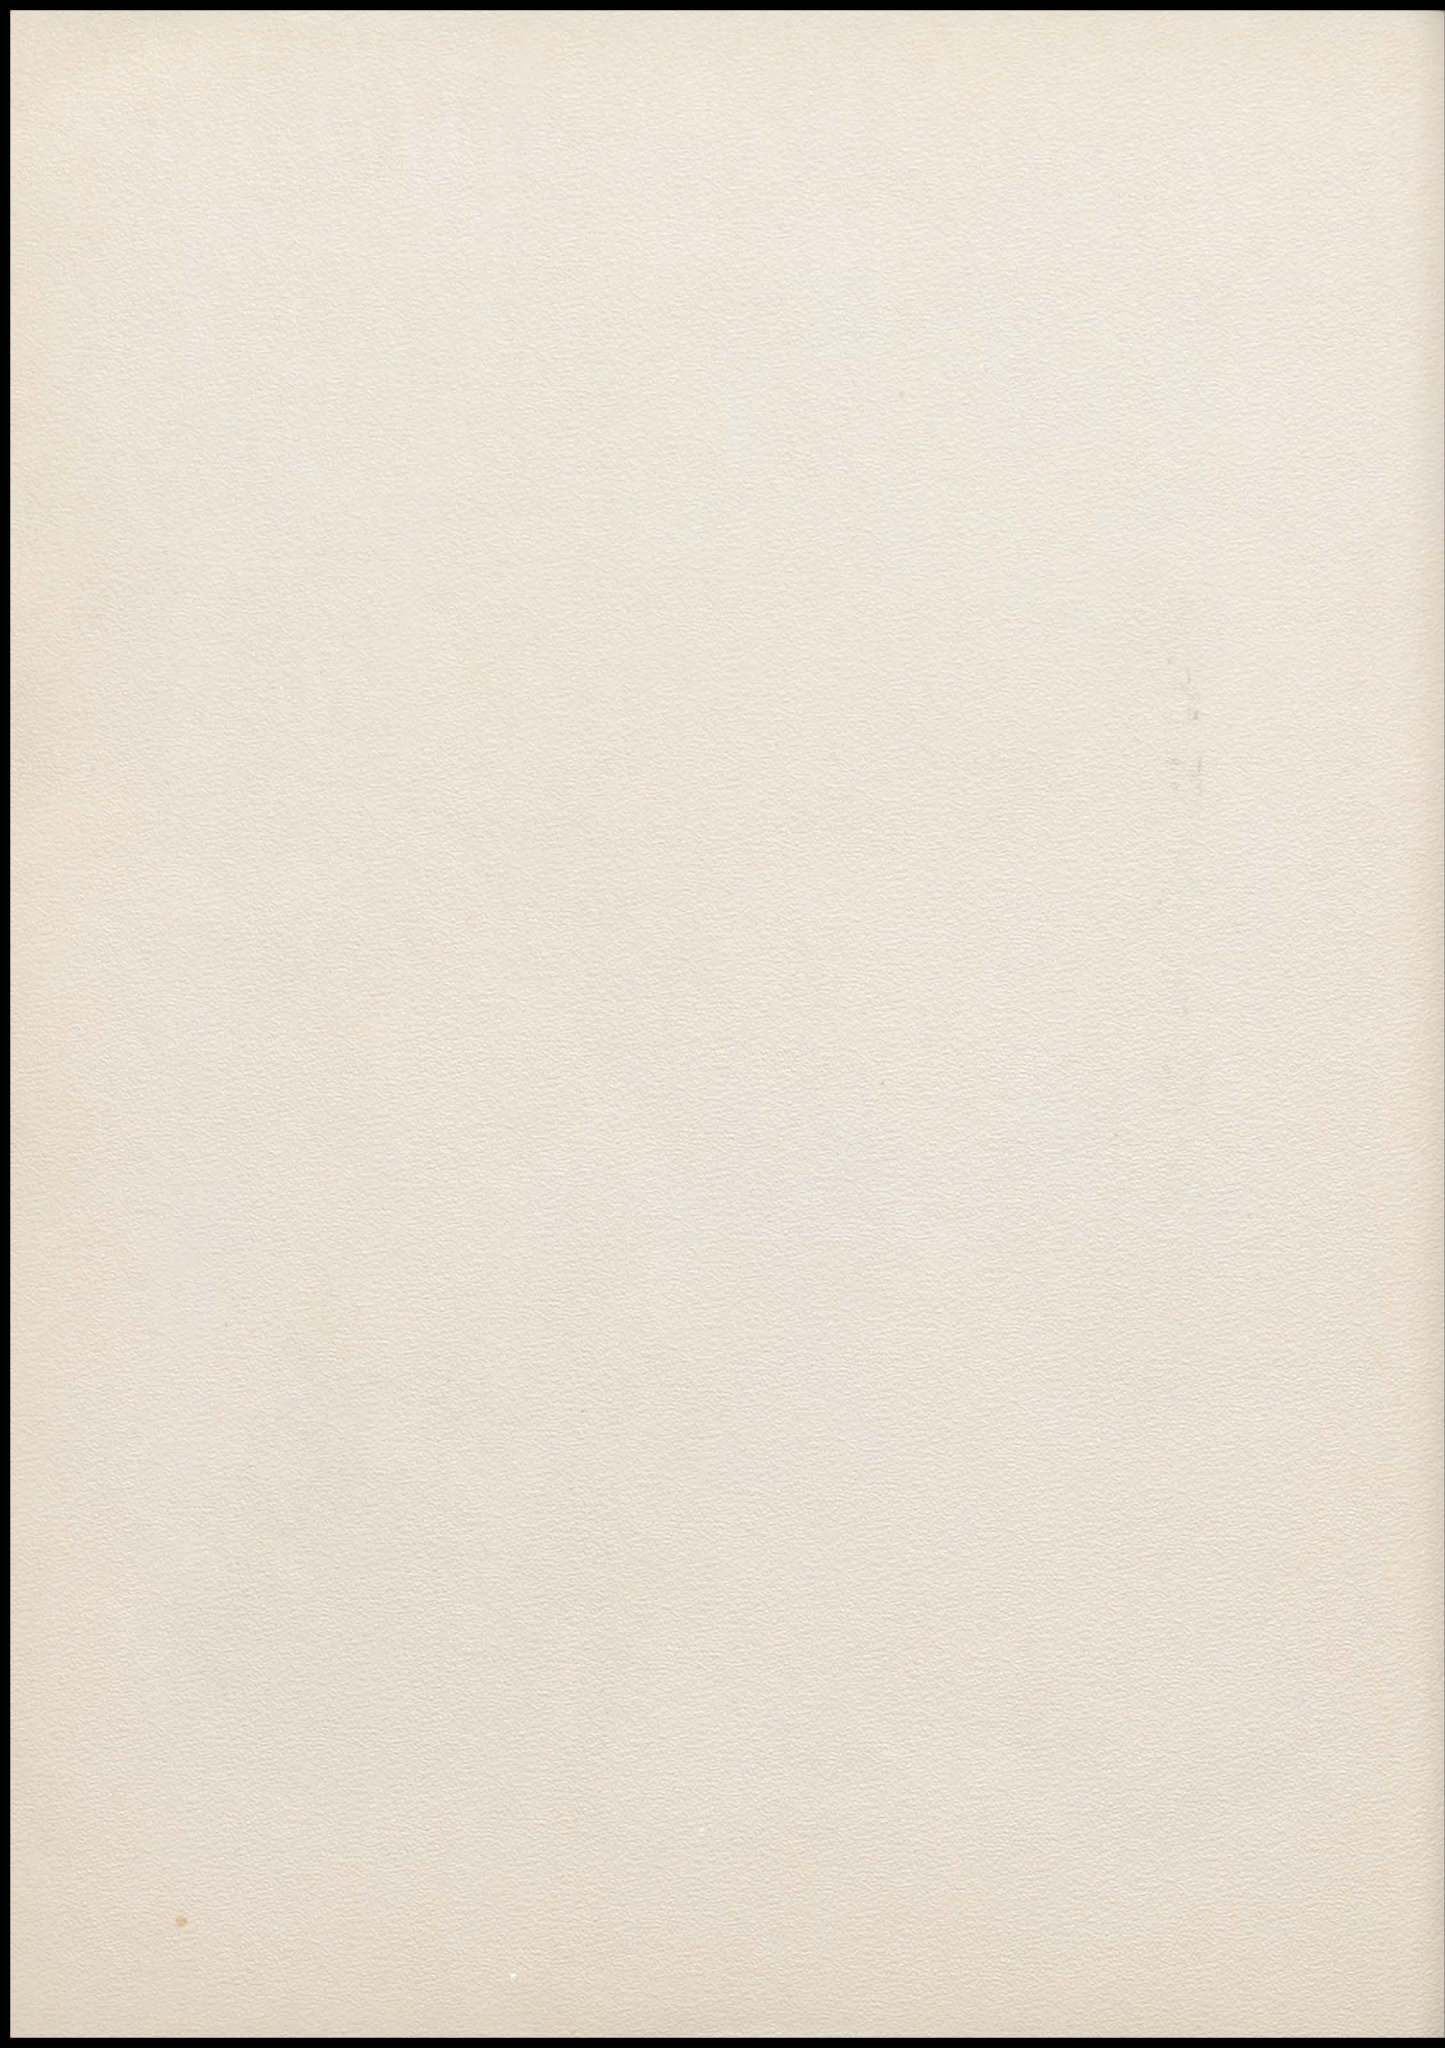

During this past season, Inter-Class Basketball was a more interesting attraction than ever. Each team was composed of players eager to bring the championship to their class. In preceeding years, the schedule required each class to play two games with each other class, but this year the teams were required to engage each other three times. The Seniors and Juniors were the most powerful in the group although the Sophomores and Freshmen gave much trouble to the upper classes whenever they met. The Seniors defeated the Juniors in two out of their three battles but lost one to the Sophomores. This made a deadlock for the championship. Later these two classes met in their final contest and the Seniors were victorious. The Seniors were the highest scoring team in the league, with Charles Froelich leading and closely followed by Bob Davies. For the past three years at the close of the season the Faculty have played the champions of the Inter-Class games. This year the champions bowed to the Faculty in one of the most entertaining games ever staged in the high gym; many fans turned out to cheer on their favorites. The classes enjoyed the games each week and will not forget the friendly rivalry which prevailed. All are looking forward to next year's contests with the hope of gaining the championship for themselves.

FEATURES

A. A. Dances

Each year the Athletic Association sponsors a number of informal dances. This year there were two,—one on October 6, 1933, and the other on November 17, 1933. These dances are always among the gayest affairs of the year, everyone being in the best of spirits and only too sorry to see the hands of the clock approach midnight. Both of the dances were held in the Harding Gym and Conley's Goliards furnished the entertaining music.

T. M. T. M. Dance

October 27, 1933 marked the date of the annual T. M. T. M. Dance. The decorations were much in keeping with the season—corn stalks, leaves, and lanterns, which gave the gym a decided Hallowe'en atmosphere. The large crowd which attended danced gaily to the music of Howard Webb and his orchestra, being refreshed occasionally by some delicious cider and pretzels.

Senior Dance

Beautifully decorated with blue and white crepe paper and balloons scattered here and there, the Harding Gym served as the center of amusement for all the students and alumni of Carnegie High, on January 19, 1934. The delightful music was played by Fran Eichler and his orchestra. This being the last dance of the class of '34 the Seniors were loath to have their pleasant evening brought to a close at twelve o'clock. However, they all went away with a feeling of satisfaction.

Junior Prom

Indeed, what a festive occasion was this dance given in honor of the Seniors! The Seniors all felt very proud to have such an honor bestowed upon them. The date chosen for this gala affair was April 20, 1934. The decorations, as well as the date, suggested the season of the year. The gym was artistically decorated with cherry blossoms and streamers of green and white among which many lanterns could be detected. The couples danced merrily to the strains of Lee Williams' orchestra. All of the classes were well represented and the evening passed all too quickly.

Sophomore Hop

Much credit is due the Sophomores for the success of their first dance, and may their success continue for all their future dances. Students and alumni from all classes shared in this frolic on June 1, 1934. The gym was most appropriately decorated with spring flowers and pastel colors of crepe paper. John Lorenzo and his Golden Gate Orchestra furnished the pleasing music. All in all, it was ideal for the last dance of the school year.

Cheerleaders

With the whole-hearted support of the student body throughout the season of 1933-1934 the cheerleaders have completed another successful year. They were saddened by the death of one of their most capable Senior members, Ollie Burdis, who had given his services for the two previous years. Martha Botsford, Bertha Graham, and Tom Gullette received their letters in recognition of three years' work as cheerleaders. They will be succeeded by Margaret Quinn, Mary Louise Harris, Naomi Jean Holmes, and Dan Morgan. Wesley Martin, a Sophomore, will be the veteran leader next season.

Varsity C Club

For the past three years, Carnegie High School has had an organization called the Varsity "C" Club. This club was organized in the fall of 1932 by Mr. Richard C. Schumacher. Any boy having earned at least one "C" in the sports of Carnegie High School is entitled to membership in this club. The boys endeavor to bring about close relations with other students and the Alumni of the high school.

Efficiency Tests

The physical achievement tests, as a part of the yearly program in physical education, were entered into this year more enthusiastically, and by a larger group of boys, than ever before. The first three weeks in April were devoted to them and the results accomplished were quite satisfactory. In five events, including the standing broad jump, the running high jump, pull-ups, push-ups, and the basketball throws for goal, the highest score was 394 out of a possible 400, made by Robert Joel, a Junior, Andy Pascoe, a Senior, was next with 390, while David Liveridge, a Sophomore, made 386, compared to 368, made by Joseph Tracy, a Freshman.

Domestic Science

The Freshmen girls feel that their work has been satisfactorily completed. A carefully constructed plan begun in the seventh grade and carried through the three years has been profitable to all. The first step in the plan included the making of an apron, and the preparation of foods for breakfast. In the eighth grade the plan was continued with canning, making of graduation dresses, and preparation of luncheon dishes and complete luncheons. The work this year has been particularly interesting. Individuality was much in view when the girls chose their patterns and material for their dresses. The first semester dealt with canning and the planning, preparing, and serving of a dinner. The next step was the making of pajamas, all the trousers being similar but the blouse and jackets being designed by the girls. At the completion of this work all types of dresses were made, the girls depending almost entirely upon their own ability. The conclusion of the three-year plan was a course of patching, darning, and mending. The girls have derived something substantial from the courses, which have been interesting as well as practical, and which will always be of benefit to them.

Girls' A. A.

Although the Girls' Athletic Association was organized only last year, it is perhaps the largest girls' organization in the high school. Approximately one hundred members are now enrolled, including representatives of all four classes. Originated for the furtherance of girls' athletics, it has sponsored a physical education exhibit, improvement in the equipment of the dressing rooms, and has drawn the interest of many of the girls to the pleasures and benefits of gymnasium work.

Senior Scientific Literary Club

This club, my friends, you all must see
Is a society of wits;
And each of us, with our brilliant minds,
For this club are excellent fits.

We are men of wit—of brain—
Of great mentality.
We strive to gain much knowledge
In science and philosophy.

We discuss our works with elongated words—
With stressed articulation.
We learn each scientific theory
By careful observation.

By what was said, we hoped to prove
That we are worldly wise—
Or in simple language, may we explain?
"We Are Wisdom In Disguise."

Fanned by the breezes of intensive research and study throughout the centuries, the minute spark struck by Samuel Johnson in originating the Literary Club of England has been kindled into that flaming orb of intelligence, the Senior Scientific Literary Club. This organization was founded on November 29, 1933, by the eleven boys of the senior scientific section.

The common public has often heard that etherial phrase "a chicken for every pot" but never, until now, in the history of the world, has any recognized society provided "an office for every member."

In order to honor the passed genii of science and literature, we have adopted their names, as club names, for our various philanthropic works.

John Falick, Junior, Esquire, whose nom de plume is Cicero, occupies the highly cherished position of president. He is distinguished for his notable researches on whether or not woodpeckers get head-aches from tapping upon tree trunks. He has delivered some splendid orations for the purpose of bettering the life of the woodpecker throughout the world.

Shady Sam, the vice president, who assumed the name Cotton Mather, is another member of prominence. His name shall live in the pages of history as the man who invented toothless combs for bald-headed men.

Michael Perch, the secretary, known as Edmund Burke, is noted for his highly developed mathematical mind. He has made the startling discovery that the mathematical value of the term "pi" is not 3.14159265358979323846264338328 but is 3.14159265358979323846264338327. Since he speaks only in very high mathematical terms, no one (including himself) can comprehend as to how he arrived at such a drastic conclusion.

Richard Abbott, the treasurer, called David Garrick, stands out from among his fellow men as one who is doing his utmost for humanity. He is trying to preserve our civilization in alcohol.

Arthur Aspinall, the Sir Joshua Reynolds of the association, has made no definite discovery of astounding facts but is working on other great problems confronting the organization, namely: How high is up? How full is a glass of water? How deep is a hole? How many hairs in a beard? How many bricks in a pile?

William Wellings, Jr., the chief justice, who is honoring Samuel Johnson by adopting his name and following his footsteps as a lexicographer, has compiled a brand new dictionary with an entirely different set of words to be used in spelling bees throughout the nation.

Paul Eveson, alias Oliver Goldsmith, has spent the major part of his time delving into theory. The two theoretical problems which he is trying to solve are: (1) why the sea is so close to shore, and (2) whether mortar holds bricks apart or whether it holds them together.

Joseph Masciantonio adopted Marconi as his club name in honor of his fellow countryman. He has invented a mechanism which winds spaghetti around a spool, enabling one to eat that delicacy with perfect facility and ease.

In the Research Department for Benefit of Insects we have Felix Kovanis, or Mendelssohn, who has invented that great boon to all insects—a wireless screen door.

Andrew Pascoe, better known as Elmer Zilch, not to be outdone by his colleague, has specialized in electromagnetic boots for flies in order that they may be warned when the ever impending danger of fly paper and spider webs confronts them.

Michael Zaletski appointed himself Rasputin, the Mad Monk(ey). He upholds the totally irresponsible position of janitor. In his wonderful treatise on "Why Most Men Shave," he has proved that we are not descended from, but are descending to the apes.

Although we think it highly impossible, we hope that next year's society will rise to greater heights than those attained by these genii.
