SUPERINTENDENT OF CARNEGIE SCHOOLS 1911-1926

MR. GEORGE --- THE FOUNDER

EVERY true and devoted man builds during life his own memorial. The teacher works with human material and so builds his memorial in the minds and souls of those entrusted to his care. Mr. George was a teacher for almost half a century. For thirty years he served our own schools, first as high school principal and later as superintendent. During these years he inspired thousands of children and hundreds of teachers with his spirit of work, his moral seriousness and his splendid enthusiasm. In the souls of these, he erected a lasting memorial.

Mr. George was at all times a man of action, a worker. No man ever devoted himself to his profession with greater singleness of purpose. His great success hinged mainly upon his exalted notion of the value of work. He believed firmly that nothing of worth can be obtained except by strenuous effort. He led the way by working as few men are willing to work. No sacrifice was too great to be made for the welfare of the boys and girls. They were his consuming interest. He imposed discipline to the end that all children on the way to an education must acquire regular and orderly habits of honest work. This exalted idea of work set him apart and made him an outstanding teacher, a great schoolmaster.

It is a duty and a privilege to remind you, the present students, of the deep and abiding love that Mr. George, the founder, had for the Carnegie High School, and to call upon you to "carry on" in that fine spirit which characterized his life.

We who were privileged to work with him learned to respect and love him. Now as our thoughts turn back, we honor him for "the high stern-featured beauty of his plain devotedness to duty."

Foreword

THIS year marks the fortieth anniversary of the establishment of the Carnegie High School. In presenting this book, we have tried to give a brief summary of the history of this school and a few brief sketches of interesting events in the history of Carnegie; to do honor to those who struggled for the foundation of the high school and who guided it so well in its infancy, those who have guided it since, and those who are guiding it today. All have helped to give it the high scholastic standing which it now maintains. We of today should be grateful indeed to those who have charted the course of this school through the years and to the Board of Education in 1896 who, farsighted and broadminded, established the institution whose advantages, increased tenfold by the background and experience of forty years, we enjoy today.

The establishing of the Carnegie High School in 1896 was a venture into untried paths and that first Board of Education deserves much credit for their willingness to experiment. Before the Carnegie High School was established, there was but one high school in Pittsburgh—the old Central High School, and but one high school in the Chartiers Valley—at Washington. Before 1896, for those who wished an education beyond the grade schools, there were schools known as "Academies". One of these had been located in Carnegie occupying the basement of the old United Presbyterian Church which stood on a lot which is on the corner of Plum and Chestnut Streets. This building, however, had been destroyed by fire sometime prior to 1896.

During the first three years, the Carnegie High School occupied a building on Elk Street on the site of the present Elks Hall. This building was owned by the W. C. T. U. and was rented from them by the Board of Education. The faculty for the first year consisted of Mr. George and Miss Florence P. Davis. The following year the faculty was augmented by Miss Margaret McLaren who is now Mrs. L. B. Worley of Carnegie. In 1900, the first building was erected on the present site and in 1914 an addition was built including the new entrance on Broadway Avenue. This is the building as it stands today. Until 1914 a three year course was offered to the students, many of whom came from Scott Township, Oakdale, Bridgeville, and other surrounding boroughs. In 1914 it was decided to expand the high school course to four years. Those who were graduated that year were offered the privilege of returning for another year and a four year diploma, although each was given a three year diploma at that time.

The "Voyager" was first published in 1925 by the Senior class of that year. It has been published annually ever since by the Senior classes. The first publication sponsored by any group in the Carnegie schools was the "Comedia", published in 1896 by the graduating class of the Second Ward School. The first high school publication was the "Censor" published by the Senior class of 1915.

In keeping with the historical nature of the Voyager this year the theme of our division pages is "The Schools of Carnegie". Sketches of the original school in this district, the first high school building in Carnegie, the first building on the present site, and the present high school building in Carnegie have been included. However, the first sketch is of an oak tree, the landmark of the presence of the first white men in this district. This tree, only recently destroyed by storms, marked the corner of the McFarland, Ross, and Redman patents and was located on the farm now owned by Jesse Sanford. Tomahawk marks which were found on the tree are believed to have been made in 1769 in a survey made by John Campbell. It is believed that the tree also marked the western boundary of Pennsylvania in 1769. Surveyors recently went to this oak tree to start lines of survey.

The Voyager staff wish to take this opportunity to express our appreciation to those who have aided in the publication of this book. Although it is theirs, we wish to thank Wesley Martin and the Senior class for the fine work which they did in the magazine and ticket sales to raise money for this book. We wish to thank Dorothy West and the girls who sold candy at the basketball games to augment the Voyager fund, the Monday Club of Carnegie, the Woman's Club, the Cavalier Club, and the Class of 1935 for their donations. We also wish to thank the faculty for their help in compiling the Alumni directory and Rosemary Hutchison and the Senior Commercial class for their help in the secretarial work connected with compiling this directory. We are grateful for the help of Mr. John Haudenshield and others in collecting old pictures and in writing a history of the school.

We hope that this book will bring back fond memories of school days to the Alumni into whose hands it may fall and that it will serve as a reminder of friendships, good times, and profitable experiences to the Seniors who will be graduated this year.

Dedication

*I*N deep appreciation of his twelve years of untiring work, his willingness to help, his desire to better the scholastic standing of the school, his patience, and, above all, his friendship and good nature, we, the class of 1936, with pleasure dedicate this "Voyager" to Walter B. Sterrett.

Greetings

CARNEGIE HIGH SCHOOL has lived through a period of 40 years. During that time hundreds of the community's young citizens have been graduated and sent on to further preparation for careers of service. Where these graduates serve is told in the directory found elsewhere in this volume of the Voyager.

This directory reveals most interesting data. One fact which impressed us most was the large proportion of graduates who entered higher institutions. Inspiration to do so must have come, in part at least, from contacts made during the years of secondary preparation. Years ago statistics disclosed that about 10 per cent of high school students throughout the nation entered a College or University. In the same years, from 40 to 50 per cent of Carnegie High School graduates entered higher schools. Today the per cent of graduates from our high school who go on to advanced schools still exceeds that of the nation. We are giving below interesting facts on this subject:

As the present principal of Carnegie High School I compliment the Alumni and extend to them my greetings. I am gratified that for the past decade it has been my fortune to be associated with them. I also extend to the class of 1936, which has sponsored this anniversary number of the Voyager, to the Faculty, and to all others who have assisted in the publication of this year book my hearty good wishes.

H. ALBERT STEWART

1882-1935

*M*R. STEWART was the very faithful custodian of our building and grounds for almost twenty years. He won the respect of both students and faculty, all of whom held him in highest esteem.

Things of the common hour:
Whence was the charmed soul brought,
That gave each act such power;
The natural beauty of a flower?"

ON July 15, 1896, the Board of Education of Carnegie entered into an agreement with the Woman's Christian Temperance Union for the lease of its building for a period of three years as quarters for the Carnegie High School. This building was located on the street now known as Elk Avenue on the site now occupied by the Elks' Hall. The Board, at this time, was composed of the following men: S. S. McCaughan—President, John L. Drake, George A. Marsh, Henry Mathews, George M. Carnahan, D. C. Turney—Secretary. On July 29, 1896, Thomas J. George was elected Principal of the Carnegie High School. On September 4, 1896, Mr. George reported the school well started with an enrollment of sixty-three students and at the same meeting asked for an assistant. This request was granted and Miss Florence P. Davis of Asbury Park, New Jersey, was elected as an assistant to Mr. George. These gleanings from the minutes of the Board give a brief, but accurate account of the founding of our school.

During the forty years since the opening of the school, a long succession of capable, earnest, devoted citizens have given their services as members of the Board. The student body has increased from sixty-three to seven hundred and the faculty has grown from two members to twenty-two.

The present Board of Education and the Superintendent are vitally interested in the welfare of the school. Our ambition is to carry on the fine spirit of devotion shown by those who have served in administrative capacity during the past forty years. We take this opportunity to congratulate the staff, sponsors, and students on the Voyager of 1936.

Junior History

WE, as Juniors of Carnegie High School, realize that three fourths of our high school course is completed. Looking backwards for a moment, it is with something like regret that we leave behind us the good, old underclassman days. In class competition our victories and our defeats have brought us into closer fellowship. As Juniors we have entered into a broader life, contributing more representatives to school activities. Our achievements in all that we undertook speak for themselves. In the early autumn the Junior class was organized. Under the guidance of our capable officers and sponsor, we held as our first social venture, a skating party. An interesting and entertaining literary program was presented on March 27. On April 24 the Prom took place at the Harding Gym, which was very attractive because of the clever decoration. Our aim as Juniors has been toward higher ideals. The spirit of the class of 1937 demands that every student turn his energies toward the glory of Carnegie High School.

The Sophomore Class

(Class Colors—Green and White)

AS Sophomores we began the current term, fewer in number, but much stronger in spirit and desirous of making this, the class of "'38", the most progressive and successful class Carnegie High School has ever had. It has been our privilege to make substantial contributions to the various fields of athletics and scholastic activities. We can be justly proud of our representatives who participated so enthusiastically. Our first social event, the Sophomore Party on April 17, was an enjoyable affair. Our business venture gave us high ranking in the sale of Voyagers. Musically, our class contributed its share to the success of the Spring Concert, for we had members in the Orchestra, G Clef, and Glee Clubs. To climax our eventful year the Sophomore Hop will live long in our memory of happy high school days. With all sincerity, nineteen thirty-eight pledges to uphold the best and finest traditions of C. H. S., and in so doing we modestly hope to leave a record throughout our school days which may serve as an example for the classes of the future.

The Freshman Class

(Class Colors—Red and White)

SEPTEMBER 3, 1935! It was the beginning of a new experience for 265 frightened, but enthusiastic and ambitious Freshmen at Carnegie High. We have been well represented and commendably so, in activities. In fact, two of the Freshman boys were given a letter in football this year, not to mention the other twenty boys who were on the squad. Basketball brought ten Freshmen boys to the Freshman Team and we are proud of their showing. On December 9, 1935 our class was organized with Viclet Renn as our chairman. The following officers have brought us through the year and we thank them for their leadership:

OFFICERS

President	Joe Wilson
Vice President	Rowene Barbour
Secretary	Margaret Rushnik
Treasurer	Charles McKelvey

The Freshmen are represented by Jeanne Huff and Ronald Snyder on the Voyager Staff. We greet the "new Freshmen" and wish them luck, for it's a rough road but a happy one, so

"As we have bravely started
We shall never grow downhearted."

Senior Choral Club

IN 1931 the Senior Choral Club made its debut with a membership totaling fifty.

Today there are enrolled seventy members who have had, for the most part, previous experience in the G Clef Club and the Glee Club. However, in the Choral Club they are given an opportunity to participate in mixed chorus work. The members include twenty-one sopranos, twenty-three altos, ten tenors and fifteen basses. Regularly, this group practised a forty minute period each week.

In accordance with an already established custom, a May Queen and two attendants were chosen by the members of the chorus. The Queen, Margaret Quinn, and her attendants, Adele Castellani and Virginia Bridge, gracefully reigned over festivities at the annual Spring Concert. As is customary, the Queen made her appearance as the chorus sang "Choosing of the May Queen" from "May Day Cantata" by MacFarren. Other selections offered by the chorus at the concert were folk songs from Finland, Russia and Tuscany, concluding with a four part "Lullaby" by Dvorák.

Senior Ensemble

THE Senior Ensemble first found a place in the work of the High School three years ago. The purpose of such a group is to further the promotion of a more appreciative feeling toward better music. The members were ever enthusiastic and accomplished much, notwithstanding the few times they were able to meet. Although the balance of instruments was not all that could be wished, all seniors who played instruments were used. The nature of the music used varied considerably. Although light works were studied conscientiously, it was with much more meticulous care that more difficult numbers were prepared before their presentation. Opportunities for proving its worth were provided at various public programs before outside audiences. At the Spring Concert the organization rendered "Valse Moderne" by Stoughton.

A foreign prince arrives whose duty it is to obtain the secret. Due to a bad case of rose fever and Hans' vigilance, he finds it difficult. To make matters worse, his men mutiny, led by Joe. To break up the mutiny, he has an operation of trephining performed on Joe. The Queen orders that the King be operated on also. Joe wakes up as docile as a lamb, and the King, his old self. The Princess promises to tell the secret if the Prince will stay. To the joy of the sailors, the Prince, really caring for the Princess, consents.

The first operetta to be produced by the high school was held in the spring of 1913. The first operetta produced by the senior class without assistance from other classes took place in 1929. Since 1931, an operetta given by the senior class alone has been an annual event.

G Clef and Glee Clubs

THE G Clef Club is composed of girls best fitted for chorus work from the Sophomore and Junior classes. It is in this organization that they study music of a more classical nature than that which they have previously sung. There are seventy-four members. Of these there are twenty-four first sopranos, twenty-five second sopranos and twenty-five altos. The Glee Club consists of thirty-six members of which number there are eight first tenors, ten second tenors, ten first basses and eight second basses. Both clubs were organized in the fall of 1915. Before that time, there were choruses which embraced members from the Senior class as well as those from the Sophomore and Junior classes. At the Spring Concert the G Clef Club sang a four part a capella number dating from the fifteenth century. The Glee Club presented Beethoven's "The Heavens Resound" and a number from Gilbert and Sullivan's "Gondoliers". The combined clubs rendered an arrangement of "O Star Divine" from Wagner's "Tannhaeuser".

The concluding number at the Spring Concert was an operetta entitled "The Treasure Chest" by Carrington. The cast of characters, both principals and chorus members, was taken from the Junior Class members of the G Clef and Glee Clubs. When the play opens we find that Bob, a member of the Omega Phi Fraternity, has received a mysterious letter from an anonymous sea captain who signs himself "Uncle Bob". It contains a chart giving the location of buried treasure. Bob and the other boys are instructed to dress themselves in the costumes of pirates in order to frighten off the lingering ghosts of the real pirates. The boys prepare to undertake this new adventure.

In the meantime, Carol, a member of the Mu Zeta Rho Sorority, has also received a similar letter, differing in that it is signed by "Aunt Mary" and that they are told to wear gypsy costumes because of the fear which a pirate ghost feels for a gypsy. The other girls enthusiastically join her. The two groups meet and the girls are very frightened until the boys recognize them and assure them of their identity. A treasure chest containing glass beads is drawn in, much to the dismay of all. At this point, Flossie and Eugene enter and explain that the whole affair was vengeance because they had not been asked to join the Frat and Sorority. To be sure, the two were re-considered and the initiation started immediately.

Band

WITH a roll of drums and a crash of cymbals, the band of Carnegie High School marched to the athletic field, ushering in the football season. The band appeared at every game and contributed much to each success. During the half, it drilled, displaying its careful training. When the first band was organized in 1930, seventy-seven members were enrolled under the direction of Walter H. Cameron. It was soon prepared to hold its first concert. It also appeared at the football games the following season. Its success and rapid growth established it firmly, and the purchase of uniforms was warranted for the season of 1931. At present there are about eighty students of Carnegie who are enrolled in Mr. Cameron's instrumental classes. This membership includes players in and above the sixth grade. This year the band proved that it was capable of more than "marching up Washington Avenue". At a concert June 12, it rendered such numbers as an Excerpt from Schubert's Unfinished Symphony, the Angelus from Scenes Pittoresques, by Massenet and the Andante from Haydn's G Major or Surprise Symphony. The band also played for various dramatic presentations and patriotic parades. Because of the willing energy and cooperative spirit of the members, every classmate (as well as alumni and friends) feels this organization is a vital part of school life and wishes it much success in its many enterprises of the future.

Orchestra

ONCE more the orchestra has completed a successful year, proving its inestimable value to the school. It had a comparatively humble beginning under faculty supervision in 1912; however, there were various small groups of instrumentalists organized by students before that date. The orchestra was the first organization in the field of instrumental music which has continued to the present. Later came other instrumental groups which are equally important to the school. A Mandolin Orchestra flourished at one time for three or four years. Today members of the orchestra number twenty-five from all four classes. The personnel is ten violins, one flute, six clarinets, three saxaphones, three trumpets, one trombone, drums and piano. At the Spring Concert they rendered two quite difficult numbers, "Prelude" by the Russian composer Vodorinski and the "Rhapsody Hungary" by Koelling. Those not members of the Senior class played for the Senior operetta and, at Commencement, a march for the Seniors as they took their places on the stage.

FOR the second successive year, a double male quartet took its place with other prominent musical organizations. Its predecessor of the class of '35 set a high standard. The members are a select group chosen from the Senior Choral Club. They offered selections to appreciative audiences at various social gatherings in Carnegie and at the annual Spring Concert.

The Commercial Club

COMMERCIAL Club activities began with something entirely different this year, an honest-to-goodness "Tippecanoe and Tyler Too" election, with a convention, posters, parades, and primaries. At the October meeting the officers-elect were sworn into office by last year's officers. This was followed by an Inaugural Ball. With amateurs over-running the country, our club, too, had its chance to bring forth hidden talents and aspirations. Amateur Night and Depression attire resulted in an evening of rollicking good fun in November. Of course, Santa visited the club and its guests at the Christmas Party and distributed gifts to all. In February we held Open House at Harding. Our guests were the business men, faculty, and club alumni. Our pioneer undertaking was a remarkable success, due to the ever-present spirit of cooperation and appreciation which pervades our club. Our speaker was Dr. Whitley of the University of Pittsburgh. In April, with the Senior Class as guests, we witnessed an interesting talking picture sponsored by the Duquesne Light Company. As is our custom, the Junior members conducted our meeting in May, and a good one it was. Needless to say, we delighted in the dainties served at every meeting. June is the month of picnics. Our picnic was a happy affair which rounded up the club year.

But our year was not one of social entertainment alone. We looked to the literary side of club work and to the satisfaction of achievement of educational and scholastic betterment. The Freshmen Organization Committee did well in the instruction of the Freshman Class in the essentials of class organization and cooperation, and started them on their voyage in the good ship C. H. S. We feel that in our appreciation of learning we have accomplished something more than mere social contacts. The tireless efforts and patient guidance of Miss Cochran have been the largest factor in our success.

National Honor Society

IN the past, Carnegie High School has sponsored no organization whose sole purpose it is to honor students of high scholastic attainment. This year, however, saw the organization of a chapter of the National Honor Society. The original Honor Society and the pattern which the National Honor Society closely follows is the Phi Beta Kappa Honorary Fraternity organized at William and Mary College in 1776. In drawing up the constitution of the National Honor Society the Committee realized that the consideration of scholarship alone seemed too narrow. After much discussion it was decided that in addition to scholarship, character, leadership, and service were the virtues most useful to society, and therefore were the virtues most worthy of encouragement. All members of our society stand in the first fourth of the class, each has an average of 90 or above and has been recommended by the faculty for membership in the society.

No honor conferred by the school excels that represented by this society. Other honors at the disposal of the school are partial in the sense that they recognize some special ability, skill or talent. However the National Honor Society looks upon its members as those who during their high school education have reached most nearly their desired ends. For years man has honored those who excel. Ancient and medieval colleges and universities maintained coveted societies. Today the most coveted reward is election to the Phi Beta Kappa Honorary Fraternity. In an election to the National Honor Society the faculty has honored us for what we have already accomplished and has created in us the desire to excel.

Senior Magazine Campaign

AT the first meeting of the Voyager staff the possibilities of a Fortieth Anniversary yearbook were eagerly discussed. All anxiously anticipated a most successful edition. But at the same time the lack of funds to enable the printing of such a book as this year's caused fear and doubt about such an achievement. So once again the Seniors became magazine salesmen, and this time with a much greater incentive. The Senior Magazine Campaign has grown to be an annual event in Senior class activities. Since the publishing of the second "Voyager" eleven years ago, the annual deficit has been met by the earnings of each succeeding Senior class. The magazine business has proved a boon in securing financial assistance for this project.

This year the campaign rose to meet our increased need. In fact the Class of 1936 sold more magazines than had ever been sold in any previous year. Hustling ability, salesmanship, cooperation, concentrated effort, organization, and hard work achieved an encouraging profit. No class had ever been organized for a campaign as was this year's. Besides the business manager, Wesley Martin, and the two captains, Robert Barrett and Peter Morasca, of the two major divisions, two groups of lieutenants were appointed. The first group was the Town Lieutenants. Each locality was given to a lieutenant residing there. The second group of lieutenants was known as School Lieutenants. One lieutenant was appointed in each row. Each lieutenant had his assigned duties. The campaign was officially begun on Friday morning, October 11, when a class meeting was held to hear the representative from the Curtis Publishing Company. The following Monday the Crowell Company's field manager came to Carnegie and spoke to the entire class. In addition to these, the Seniors were salesmen for the first time for the International Circulation Company, and the McCall Company. The record of the class as a whole is one which future classes must strive to surpass. As for individual records the students pictured below were the best salesmen.

Dances

THE music of Herbert Fritsche went 'round and around in the Harding Gym, on January 17, when the Seniors entertained with their annual dance. The class colors, gold and blue, brilliantly decorated the ceiling, while the scales, in silver and black, added a touch of originality to the walls. Lustrous balloones, hanging from the ceiling, and gowns of bright colors, encircling the floor, added a touch of the Mardi Gras to a glorious and well planned evening.

YEA, Team, Rah, Rah, Rah! Football, and basketball players, and those who cheered them on, tripped the light Fantastic at the A. A. Dance. It was the evening of November 15 and Bill Barzan's Orchestra furnished the music in true teamlike fashion. Those present had an enjoyable evening, while those who stayed away—well, we're sorry you missed the fun.

SWEET ladies in brocade and lace. It was the night of April the 24th and the Juniors were hosts to the Seniors at their annual Prom. The Prom really went to the Dogs, with Scotties on the walls and lanterns. Amid bright colored balloons and blue and white streamers, the dancers glided to the tunes of Freddie Herrick. Beautiful ladies, beautiful music, it was a night long to be remembered.

APRIL showers bring May flowers. One of these flowers, late to bloom, was the picturesque Sophomore Hop held on May 29. The decorations were carried out in the class colors, green and white. A touch of the approaching June was added by the beautiful flowers here and there about the gym. The gay, happy, young couples danced to the tunes of Tommy Thirkell's melodious music, and all were reluctant to leave when the dance was over.

Home Economics and Manual Training

MANY pleasant hours have been spent in our Home Economics Classes. During the first semester we learned to prepare dinner courses. Enthusiasm ran high the second semester, when we were permitted to select our patterns and materials for dresses. Our "goal" was the Fashion Show held May 22 in the Harding Gymnasium, at which some of the girls modeled the dresses they had made. There was also a "still" exhibit where smocks, pajamas, suits, and other dresses were on display. The last month we received instructions in home nursing, an interesting course, a knowledge of which was valuable to all of us girls.

UNDER the supervision of Mr. Robb the manual training department has completed many varied types of projects. They range from checker-boards to a fifteen foot motor boat. The skis are a repetition of former years and a few Commercial's are preparing themselves for the future by making typewriting desks. Also there are office desks, ladies' writing desks, tables, bookshelves, and book ends. In addition, there are a fifteen foot motor boat and a nine foot outboard motor boat.

Athletic Association

THE present system of athletic management in the Carnegie schools dates back to the year 1931. At that time a Director of Athletics was appointed and to him were assigned the duties incident to the conduct of sports in both Senior and Junior High Schools. In carrying out this program he has had the able advice of the Superintendent and the Principal, and the cheerful cooperation of the coaches of the various sports. The student officers of the Athletic Association, also, have been of invaluable aid.

In keeping with the policy of the Athletic Council, the percentage of pupils engaging in physical activities of one type or other has increased each year. At the present time the high school is represented in the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League by teams in football, basketball, and baseball. It is probable, also, that by another year teams in wrestling and track will make their appearance. In addition to the interscholastic teams, there are those engaged in intra-mural competition. For these there are programs in basketball, volleyball, and soft ball for both girls and boys. The pupils of the Junior High School, also, participate in both interscholastic and intra-mural sports.

The funds necessary to carry on this program of athletic activities are secured through the sale of tickets to the games. In this matter the support of both students and townspeople through the recent troublesome years has been a great satisfaction to those in charge. The interest, cooperation, and support of the Board of Directors, also, have been of the utmost importance and have made possible the carrying on of this phase of work in the Carnegie schools.

Football

CARNEGIE High School's first football team—its members arrayed, according to the times, in overstuffed suits, nose guards, shin guards, and long hair—made its appearance in the fall months of 1897. It must have been a great organization. Written records concerning its exploits are meager, but old timers who saw it perform are unstinted in its praise. The whole team, they relate, was infused with a "never quit" spirit which brought rejoicing to its followers and dismay to the teams which contested with it on Old Southern.

The identity of those who first carried the colors of the infant C. H. S. into the push-and-pull struggles on the hill-top field is conjectural, since newspaper accounts of the games contained no line-ups. The names of those who played on the 1898 team, however, appear in the Signal Item of that year and are as follows: Heathcote, Simpson, Davis, Morgan, Hichman, Laban, Irwin, Pascoe, Curtis, Ramsey, Hesack, Terren, and Young. This bunch played great ball, and it is not unreasonable to assume that some of them, at least, were veterans of the previous year.

Down through the years since then, football teams representing the local high school have, for the most part, upheld the traditions surrounding those early organizations. Their "never quit" spirit, in particular, still remains a characteristic of Carnegie teams after almost four decades of battling with neighborhood rivals. Most ancient of these rivalries is that with Crafton, which extends back to the early years of the present century. Hardly less aged are those with McKees Rocks and Bridgeville. With Dormont, Mt. Lebanon, and Stowe the rivalries, while more recent, are just as spirited.

Football

WITH the opening of school last fall, the questions uppermost in the minds of sport-fans in Carnegie pertained to the high school football team. Would it be a worthy successor to the 1934 team which had won eight games out of nine played, numbering among its victims both Crafton and McKees Rocks? Could capable replacements be found for Stockum, Deschler, Swentkosky, and at least half a dozen others who would not return? Was Bishop likely to run wild again as he had done against all opponents the year before? These and countless other questions of a kindred nature kept followers of the team guessing until the very day of the opening game.

At the athletic field, in the meantime, and hard at work, was a squad of more than 50 aspiring candidates. Among them were only six who had earned letters the previous year. These were Rock and Weikel, tackles; Hull and Theiss, guards; Hall, an end; and Bishop, a back. Of the remainder, quite a number had gained some experience the year before in the role of substitutes, and on these the coach was counting most for replacements. The dearth of outstanding candidates for the vacant positions, however, was so evident that it was not until the final week of practice that a first team was picked. This team, which opened the season against Bridgeville, was as follows: Hall and Simon, ends; Rock and Wilson, tackles; Hull and Theiss, guards; Chirumbole, center; Weikel, quarterback; Bishop and Taylor, halfbacks; and Shiwarski, fullback. With some few exceptions, these boys continued as regulars throughout the season. First string substitutes at the beginning of the year were Marchesse and J. D. Taylor, ends; Fera, tackle; Bertenthal, guard; Fiola, center; Astorino, Sawicki, and Springer, backs. Of these, Marchesse, Fera, Astorino, and Springer earned starting places before the season was over. Others who did well when called upon were Gatz, Wengryn, Roth, Fairman, and Armes, to say nothing of a dozen others who were in their first season.

At the close of the season those who earned letters were, according to custom, guests of the Carnegie Rotary Club at a banquet in their honor.

Basketball

THE team which played the first half of the 1935-36 season was one of the best that ever represented the local high school. Had it remained intact for the second half play, its record for the entire season would undoubtedly have been better than 12 victories and five defeats.

On the team which opened the season against the Alumni were Manion and Taylor, forwards; Chirumbole, center; Salynski and Sawicki, guards. All had earned letters the year before and were regarded hopefully as the outfit that would bring to Carnegie its first sectional title. The enthusiasm of many was dampened somewhat when three of the first six games were lost, but quickly revived when the next six games were won. Among these was a 10 point victory over Crafton on its own floor. At this point, however, the team was disrupted and a new combination had to be formed. Games which should have been won were lost by two points each to Crafton and Dermont on the home floor and the team finished the season in third place.

A study of the score book reveals the following statistics: in the 17 games, a total of 539 points was scored—an average of almost 32 per game; opponents were held to 334 points—an average of less than 20 per game; of the five defeats, two were by two points, two by three points, and one by eight points; in three of the games, opponents were held to 16 points, or less, while the locals piled up more than 50; Manion was high scorer for the season, in both field goals and fouls, while Taylor was a fairly close second and Jones third.

Three members of the team were chosen on the All-Section teams—Manion on the First, Jones and Taylor on the Second. The latter two, with Sawicki, Chirumbole, and Astorino were playing their last season for the high school. Only Manion and Tracey will return to carry on.

Basketball

THE purpose of the B-squad is to develop players for the Varsity. It is made up of boys from the lower classes who show an aptitude for basketball. Those who improve are promoted to the Varsity as occasion arises; the others are dropped and their places filled by more ambitious ones.

During the past season 15 boys were members of the squad at various times. Of these 15, one was moved up to the Varsity at midseason, three were dropped, and 11 remained. The greater part of these latter ones will likely be on next year's Varsity; the remainder will be held over as the nucleus of a new B-squad.

Since winning games is not the primary purpose of the B-Squad, more time in the practice periods is devoted to the development of the individual than to that of team play. Despite this fact the team won 10 out of 16 games played during the past season. Three of these victories were over teams which had defeated the locals earlier in the year, indicating, perhaps, that the boys improved with time.

On the squad at the finish were Channas, Dazen, Plappert, and Wilson, forwards; Homa and Moehring, centers; Marchesse, Pica, Rueschman, Smith, and Springer, guards. All except Homa and Smith are expected back next year and are regarded as good basketball prospects. The majority of them are of the rangy type desired by most basketball coaches. All have a fair grasp of the fundamentals of the game and with more experience should become good players. Just how good, however, depends to a large extent upon themselves.

BASKETBALL TEAM 1909

Second row—Brownlee Wilson, Charles Husler, Robert Bigham.
Third row—Frank McNulty, John Hosack.

FIRST CLASS BASKETBALL TEAM 1904

Baseball

THE 1932 baseball team was the most successful athletic aggregation ever turned out by the local high school. It won nine out of ten games to win the section title, defeated McKeesport in the semi-finals, then won an easy victory over Ambridge in the final at Forbes Field to bring to Carnegie High School its first and only W. P. I. A. L. championship.

On the team were Medwig, captain and catcher; Jones and Klim, pitchers; Kuten, Pawlick, W. Medwig, and Stetsky, infielders; Fitzmaurice, Armes, and Pozzi, outfielders; Freshwater, Fritsch, and Jimmy Armes, substitutes. The pitching of Klim and the hitting of Fitzmaurice were outstanding throughout the season.

BOYS' INTER-CLASS BASKETBALL

AT the close of the inter-class basketball season in March, the standing of the teams was just about as expected. On top was the senior team, followed in order by those of the junior, sophomore, and freshman classes. The Seniors went through their games with very little trouble. They did not, however, play exceptionally well. Their experience proved to be their strong point and this, in addition to some rather fancy shooting at times, enabled them to emerge as the champions. From the spectators' standpoint, the most exciting games were those played between teams representing the lower classes, since they seemed to be more enthusiastic in their play.

The Juniors were probably the fastest team in the league, but were handicapped by the smallness of their players. Biggam, Seible, and Higley were outstanding in practically every game. Dazen, also, greatly strengthened the team near the close of the season. As Seniors, next year, they will be hard to beat.

Prospects for a winning sophomore team were bright at the beginning of the year, since several of the candidates for the team had played for some time on the varsity B-squad the previous year. The team, however, failed to live up to expectations and, after several of its players had joined the varsity B-squad, finished the season in third place.

The Freshmen again ended the season in their accustomed place, with only one victory over the Sophomores to brighten it. Cole and Yee were the outstanding players on the team.

Girls' A. A. Organization

FOUR years ago the Girls' A. A. Organization was formed under the sponsorship of Miss Corbett. It marked the beginning of a new spirit of companionship and friendly rivalry in interclass competition among the athletically inclined girls of the school. As a proof of girls' growing interest in athletics, the club has increased its membership from 45 to 170 girls in the past four years. Each month at a social meeting, in charge of a committee appointed by the president, the girls are entertained in some unique manner, and each leaves having discovered some new delight in her association with the others. This year's club made a needed addition to the girls' gym equipment by having some manual training students build a scoreboard.

The following are the girls who completed their terms as officers of the club during 1935: President, Suzanne Haudenshield; Vice President, Thelma Livermore; Secretary, Olive Louise Morgan; Treasurer, Jean Barry.

The officers for the year 1936 are: President, Ruth Inez Greer; Vice President, Betty Wagner; Secretary, Sylvia Cengia; Treasurer, Irene Hutchison.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS IN CARNEGIE HIGH SCHOOL

1916-17

PRIOR to 1916, girls' athletics had no part in the activities of Carnegie High School. In the latter part of this school year a group of interested girls gained permission from Professor George to form a basketball team. The team played a schedule similar to the boys' varsity, the girls' game being the preliminary game.

1924-25

Mr. Dovey organized the first girls' swimming team, which proved fairly successful in its first year, winning one out of two meets. Miss Agnes Stoughton, the Physical Education instructor in the elementary schools and coach of girls' basketball in high school, had a small turn-out for the team and as a result, they lost the majority of their games.

1925-26

The Basketball Varsity welcomed Miss Corbett as their coach. Miss Corbett continued the work of Miss Stoughton.

1926-27

The first Physical Education classes for girls began under the instruction of Miss Corbett, who in addition sponsored their entire athletic program. The Varsity tied with Crafton for the County championship.

1928-29

The Girls' Basketball Team again were runners up in the sectional championship.

1929-30

The Girls' Varsity had championship material, but lost to Coraopolis in the last few minutes of the play-off game.

1930-31

This marks the last year of a Girls' Basketball Varsity. The girls were most happy to finish the year by winning the Tri-State Championship game played in the McKees Rocks High School.

1931-32

In the spring the boys and girls combined their efforts in an exhibition. The profits were used to buy mats, ropes, rings, and various other equipment for the gymnasium.

1932-33

The Girls' Athletic Association was formed, membership being earned through activity on a class Volleyball or Basketball Team, or by outstanding work in class.

1935-36

Girls' athletics were more enthusiastically pursued than thus far in the history of Carnegie High School. Early in October there were try-outs for positions on the class Volleyball Teams. As the season progressed the Juniors and Seniors proved to be the evident competitors for the championship. It was not definitely decided, however, until the final game of the season when Juniors defeated the Seniors 45 to 34.

From the very beginning of the Basketball season the Seniors were eager to make up for their Volleyball defeat. As a result, they went through the entire season without a single loss. This year it was necessary for Miss Corbett to inaugurate a new method in order to give more girls an opportunity to show their Basketball ability. The outcome was the formation of six "Color" teams. These teams played a tournament among themselves, with the Yellow, the champions.

Captains of the various Basketball and Volleyball teams were:
