Carnegie, Pennsylvania

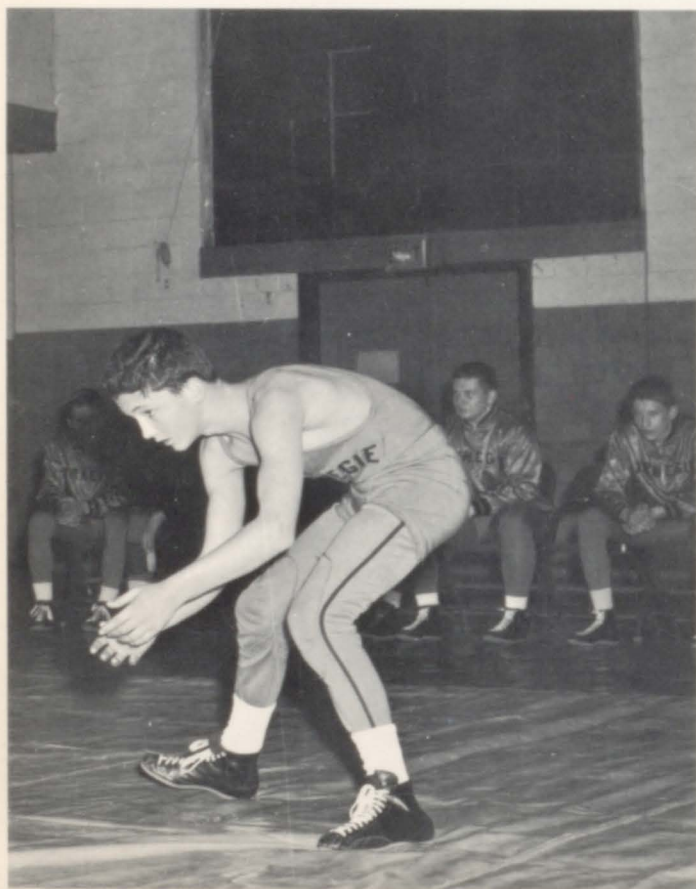

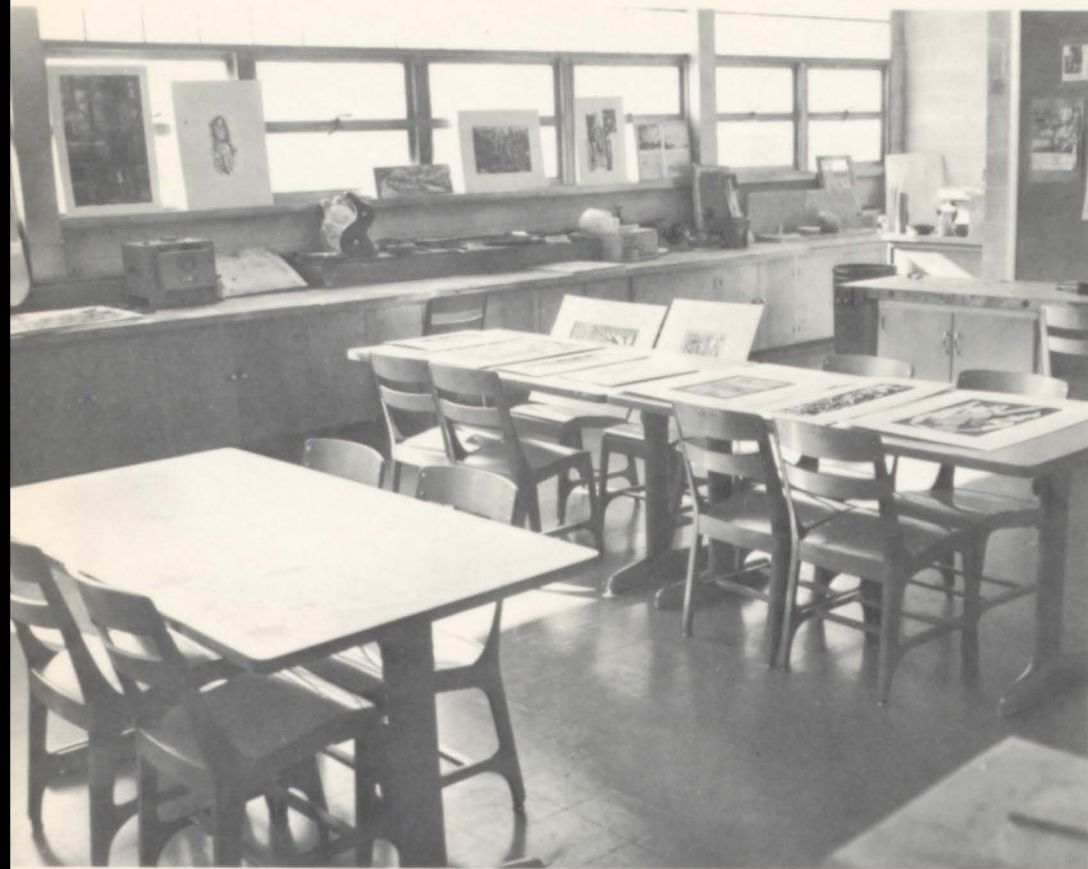

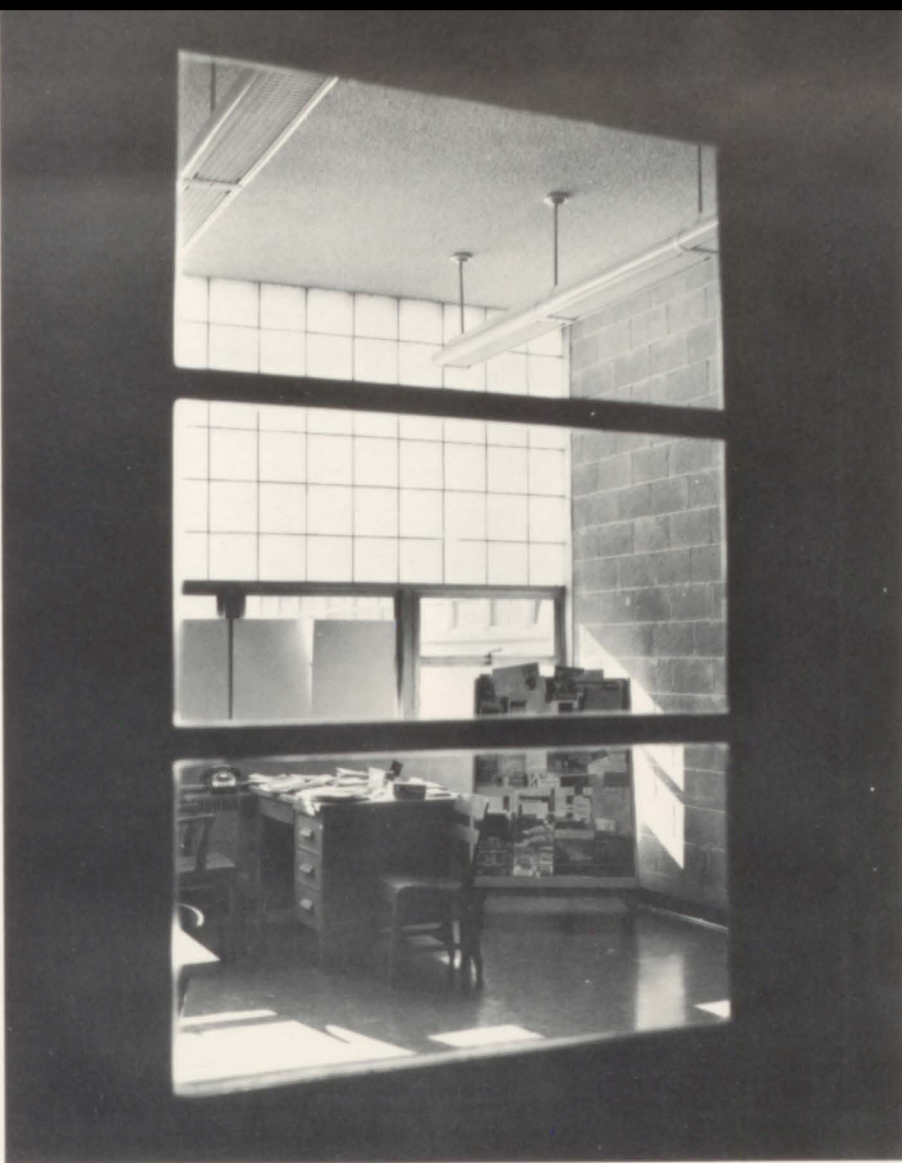

THIS . . .

IS . . .

CARNEGIE HIGH

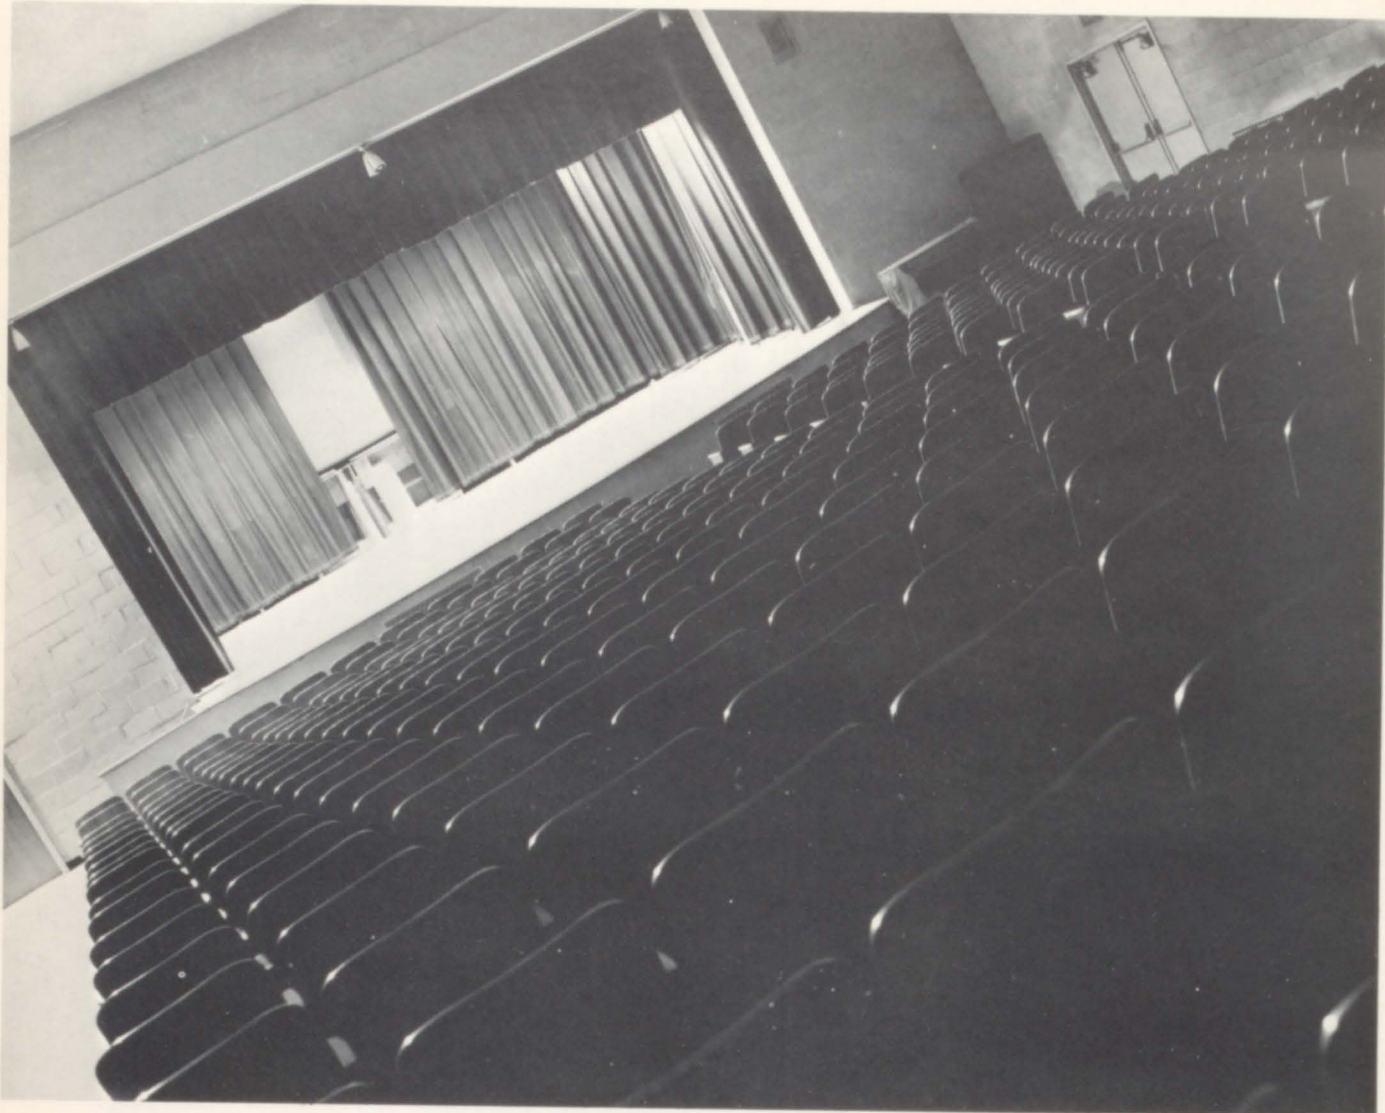

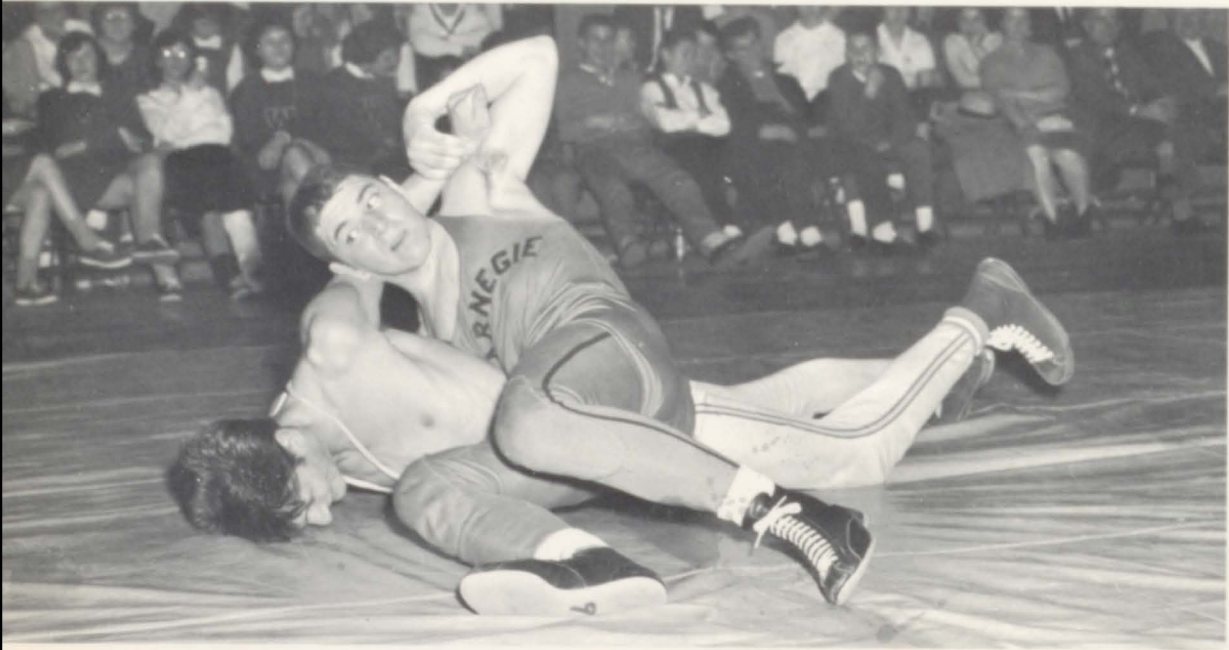

ADMINISTRATION VOYAGER 1961

The Class of 1961 will enter a more challenging and competitive world society than any heretofore. You are moving into an age which will demand an ever-increasing degree of training from those who aspire to success. Yesterday's education is often barely adequate for tomorrow's needs. Only the dedicated student, who earnestly pursues the most advanced training for which he is endowed, will be prepared for leadership in the complex world of the future.

We hope that most of you will realize that further training beyond high school is rapidly becoming essential for eligibility to desirable occupations. A college degree today is approximately equivalent to a high school diploma of one generation ago. Go forth to institutions of higher learning and to technical training schools to secure for yourselves passkeys to vocational opportunities.

We wish to express our appreciation for your excellent academic record and for the many services that you have rendered to your school. We are confident that you will serve your community and country with honor to yourselves and your school.

Kenneth L. Logan

Secretary — Miss Delores Dombroski

Miss Barbara Williams
Secretary

Class of 1961—

As you graduate from Carnegie High School, the best wishes of the faculty and administration are extended to you. In you we have tried to instill scholarship ideals, attitudes of responsibility, and cooperation. It is our hope that you have learned well these attributes. Apply them in the future and success and happiness should be yours.

—Wade Whitlatch

JUNIOR HIGH VOYAGER 1961

In our Junior high school, we have offered the seventh and eighth grades a well-rounded general education in preparation for the ninth grade when the students have a choice of electives which will eventually lead to some specialized education or vocational goal.

We hope the general and specialized education offered our students combined with the social and physical educational programs has made the past school term profitable as well as enjoyable. The faculty and administration of Harding Junior High School have striven to prepare each student for the future years and hope that the experiences of the past year will be a firm foundation for the future.
