Members of the Class of 1967:

In 1754 Horace Walpole created the word "serendipity" by spinning a fairy tale of the three princes of the Kingdom of Serendip. The legend held that when the princes of Serendip went on a journey, something unexpected happened, and they found valuable things not sought for. Thus, a serendipity is a bonus that men and nature pay those who can see beyond their noses. What you find may be far more useful or delightful than what you were looking for.

The discovery of penicillin by Fleming was a serendipity. Some plate cultures of staphylococci had become contaminated with mold and the protozoa around one colony had died. This was not an uncommon experience, but Fleming saw the unusual in the usual and discovered penicillin.

Many of our greatest discoveries have been serendipities: Evans' steam engine, Bell's telephone, Good-year's vulcanized rubber, Roentgen's X-ray, and hundreds of others. A mind set for serendipities can lead you to develop "peripheral vision", to expect the unexpected, to see with the third eye, the eye of imagination. As you travel life's way, do not let your focus become so narrowed that you do not see the flower at the side of the road or the beautiful vista just ahead.

MAY I WISH FOR ALL OF YOU THE GIFT OF SERENDIPITY!

When speaking of the potential of adolescent boys and girls, one is likely to consider their potential for learning or developing positive social attitudes that will in turn serve as building stones on which adult competence can rest.

But for some reason there are students who overlook the fact that they possess unrealized potential. They are the students who do not achieve up to their measured ability, consequently, they become the marginal element and tend to lose their identity as people in their own right. The school, by assuming a positive attitude toward these students, can assist immeasurably in instilling confidence within the group. The end result is the realization that these marginal students possess the potential to become good technicians, craftsmen, secretaries, or just plain workers.

By fulfilling this accomplishment, the school deserves the right to be labeled a good educational institution.

Nixon darts through gaping hole opened by hard blocking Tartan Linemen.

Spezza hauls in long aerial behind West Allegheny Defenders to hit pay-dirt for Carnegie.

Tarton coaches pace the sidelines during anxious moments at West Mifflin South.

CARNEGIE'S HUSTLE PRODUCE EFFECTIVE

Hard blitz by Sol results in big loss for the opposition's quarterback.

Modecki's quarterback sneak is stopped after a short gain, but not before he picks up a valuable first down.

Aston is piled up at the line of scrimmage as Carnegie Linemen look on helplessly.

Tackle John Chapman is honored for his good work on Senior Night.

Aggressive Tartan Defenders stop Fort Cherry quickly for no gain.

Halfback Mark Spezza is downed short of the goal in his valiant effort to put Carnegie on the scoreboard.

AND DETERMINATION PLAYING

Flying tackle by a speedy Tartan halts the bid for a TD by a West Allegheny ball carrier.

Nixon is finally dragged down after a productive sweep around right end.

SENIOR FOOTBALL PLAYERS, MAJORETTES, COLORGUARD AND

"That's good, Sol, right through the stem."

"That's my boy Mark!"

"Don't try too hard, Corba."

"You didn't think Gube could do it, did 'ya?"

Underclassmen look enviously at Seniors.

CHEERLEADERS ARE HONORED AT LAST HOME FOOTBALL GAME

Head Majorette Bobbie Jo fights back tears.

Senior cheerleaders end second quarter.

Nine Senior bandmembers line up for a picture.

Joe, you've never been so serious.

"Gosh, John, that hurt!"

"And to think I helped bring Panda into this world."

C.H.S.ers live it up to the beat of "Wipe Out!"

Mike keeps the beat moving.

Pete and Steve harmonize on "Silhouettes."

PANDEMONIAMS HELP

Cousin Bruce loves those prints.

GOOSE JR. AND THE HARLEM

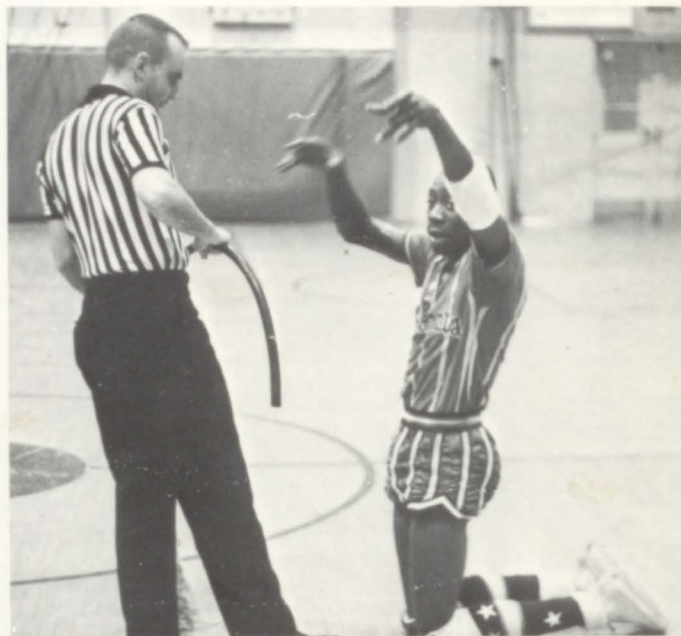

"The Goose" clowns for the fans.

Mr. "V" is dumbfounded by a Diplomat move.

Mr. Perhosky closes in on a Diplomat.

"The Goose" pleads with the referee.

The faculty chases "The Goose."

HARLEM

The Diplomats poke fun at Mr. Gittings.

DIPLOMATS THRILL LOCAL FANS

"How bad are we beating them now?"

"But Ref, I didn't touch him."

Mr. Capozzoli is out-talled.

Mr. Perhosky lets go with a two hander.

COACH BOUYOUCAS' ALL-STARS BITE DUST BEFORE SELL-OUT THRONG

The faculty makes friends with the Diplomats.

The old water bucket trick works again.

I'm not going to play against him."

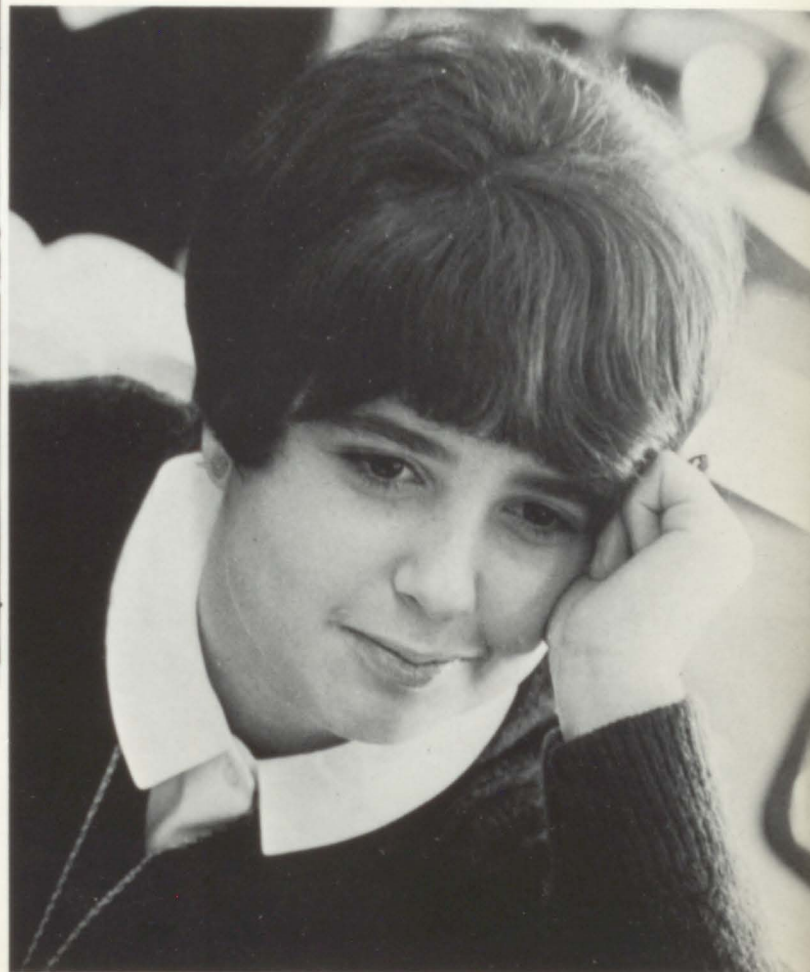

Linda can really give that drop dead look.

Kathy doesn't let anything interrupt her lunch.

Sue can't understand a thing the teacher is saying.

Angie trudges through another fourth period.

MANY FACES MAKE UP CARNEGIE HIGH

Malley displays the latest fad—wearing glasses on top of your head.

That coy smile of Bill makes him a ladies' man.

Wide-eyed Susan grins at the camera.

Linda's flattering pigtails give her that little-girl look.

Did all the milk choke you, Sandy?

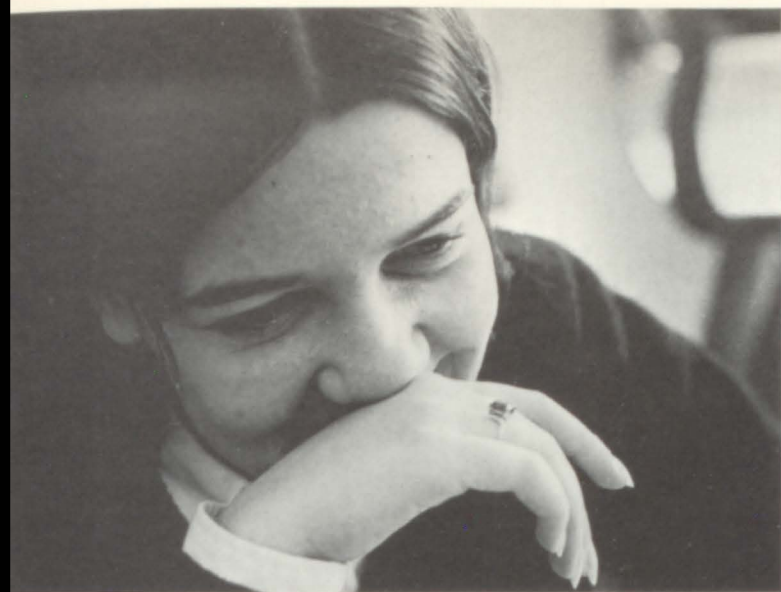

Jodie really likes those hamburgers.

Mary Ann is always laughing at something-or-other.

Dan's another shy guy.

Collette smothers a giggle.

Well, Carol, we can finally see both eyes.

That apple should be for the teacher, Marianne.

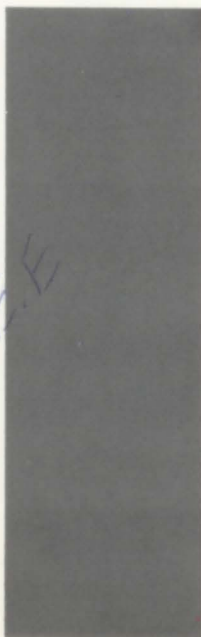

Karen sure carries a load.

Message to the Students:

It is my sincerest hope for each of you that your learning will never cease; that each future day will provide those challenges and opportunities from which you may continue to grow academically, socially, and morally.

Have convictions and opinions, but base these convictions and opinions on a strong, solid foundation of knowledge. Have the tenacity which may enable you to "stick with" and "hold on" to that which you believe to be true.
