YOU HAD TO BE THERE

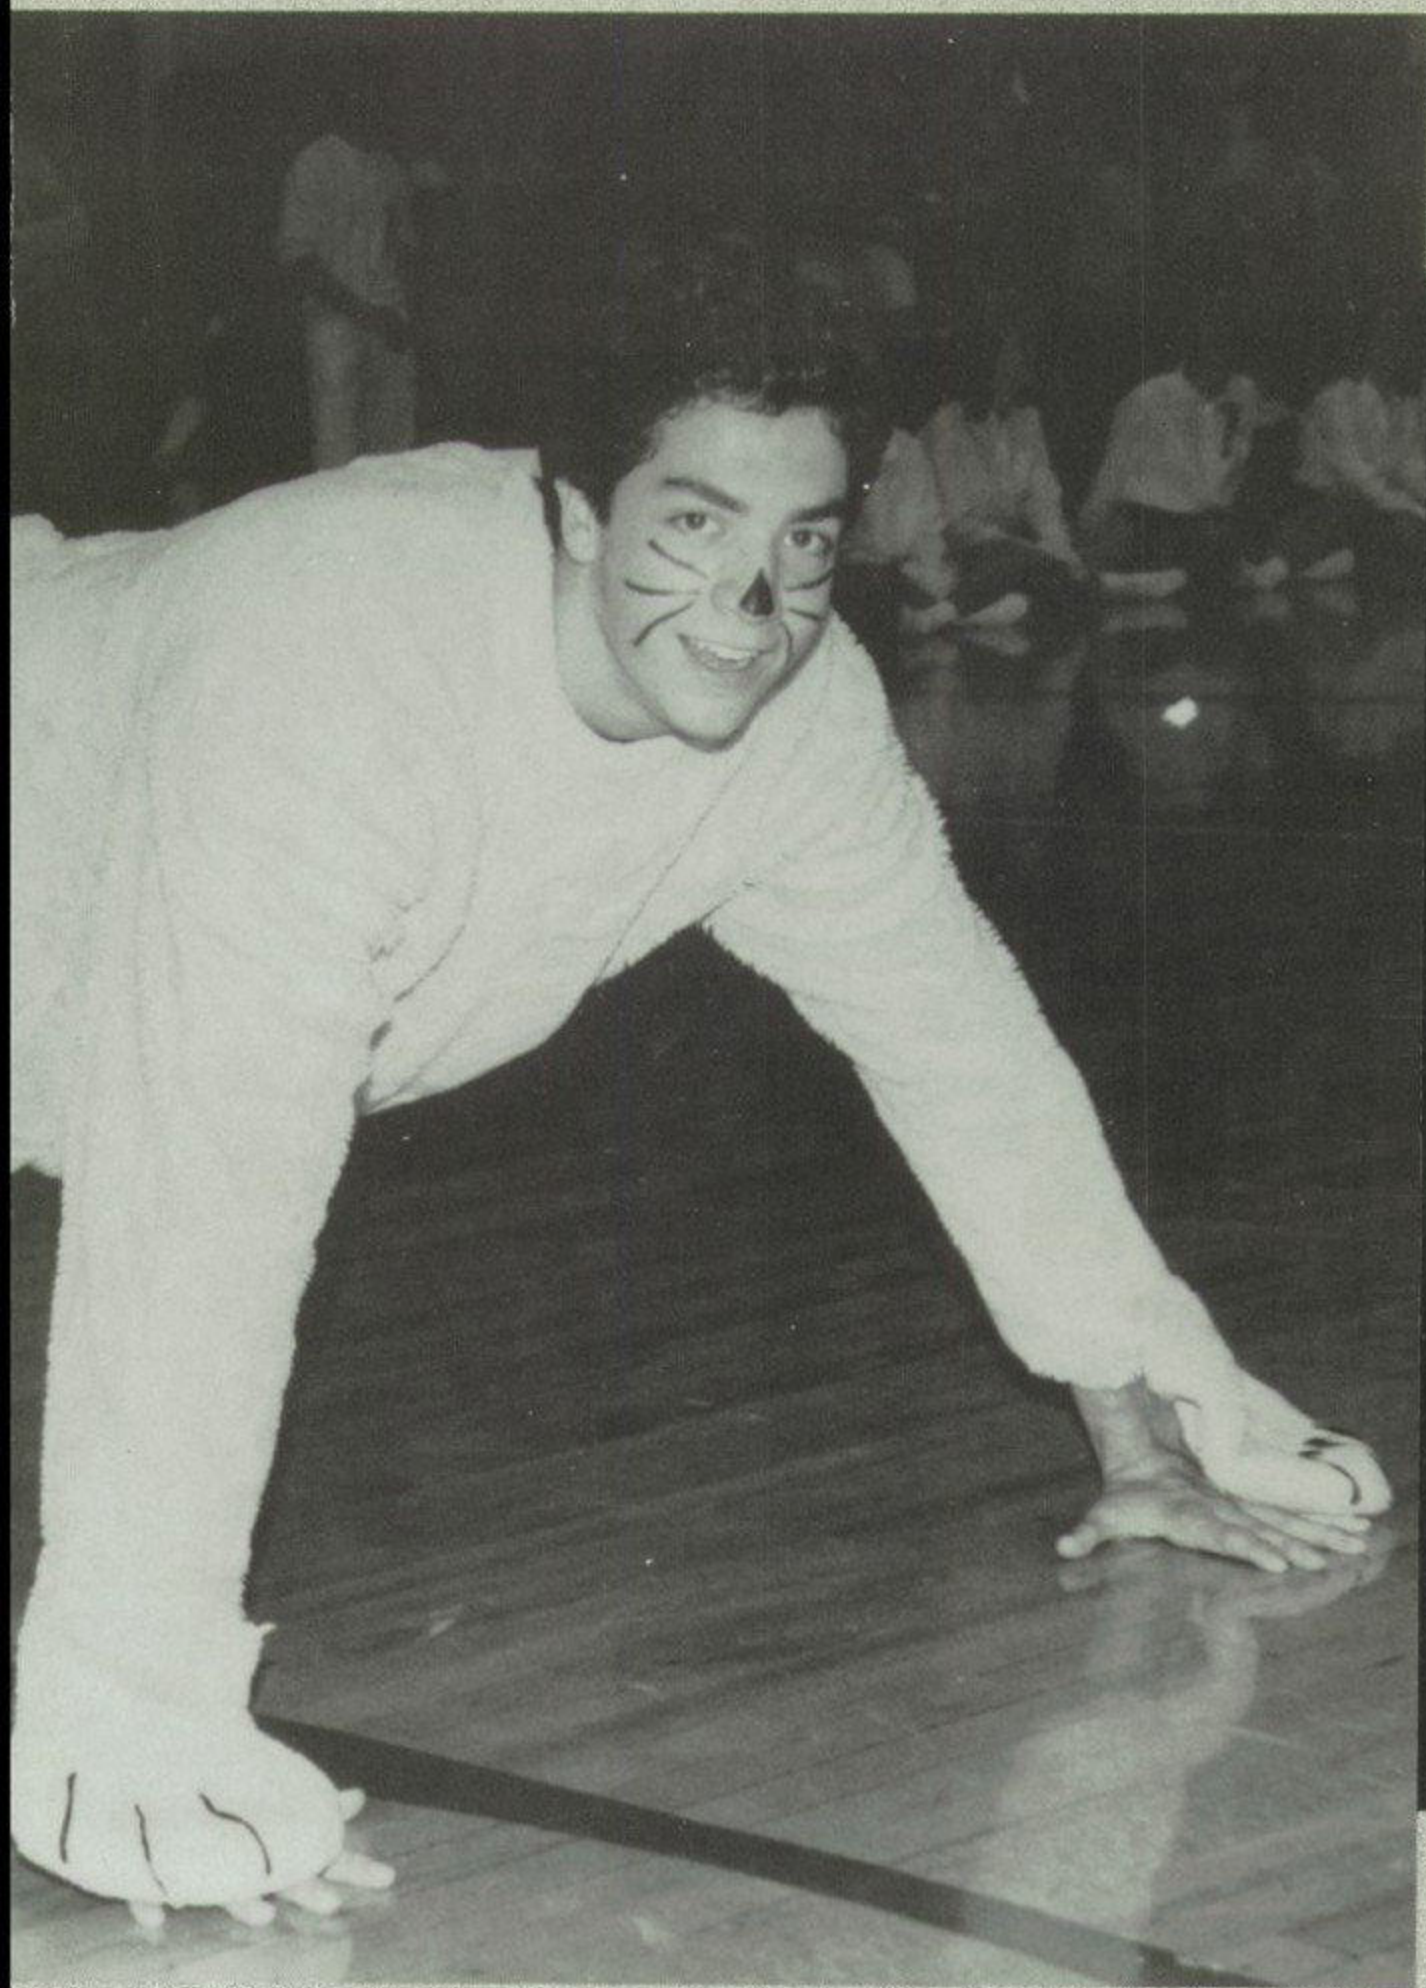

You had to see it to believe it. The first day of the 1987-88 school year, students gasped in amazement when they first stepped off the bus. They walked onto level concrete. Gone are the days of slippery blacktop which during the icy, winter months laid claim to countless flying books, scraped up knees and elbows, and frozen tears. Now appeared new trees, benches, bushes, tennis courts, and a softball field. These additions gave the students an opportunity to appreciate Carlynton. Did our school undergo a personality change as well as a physical change? The students wondered.

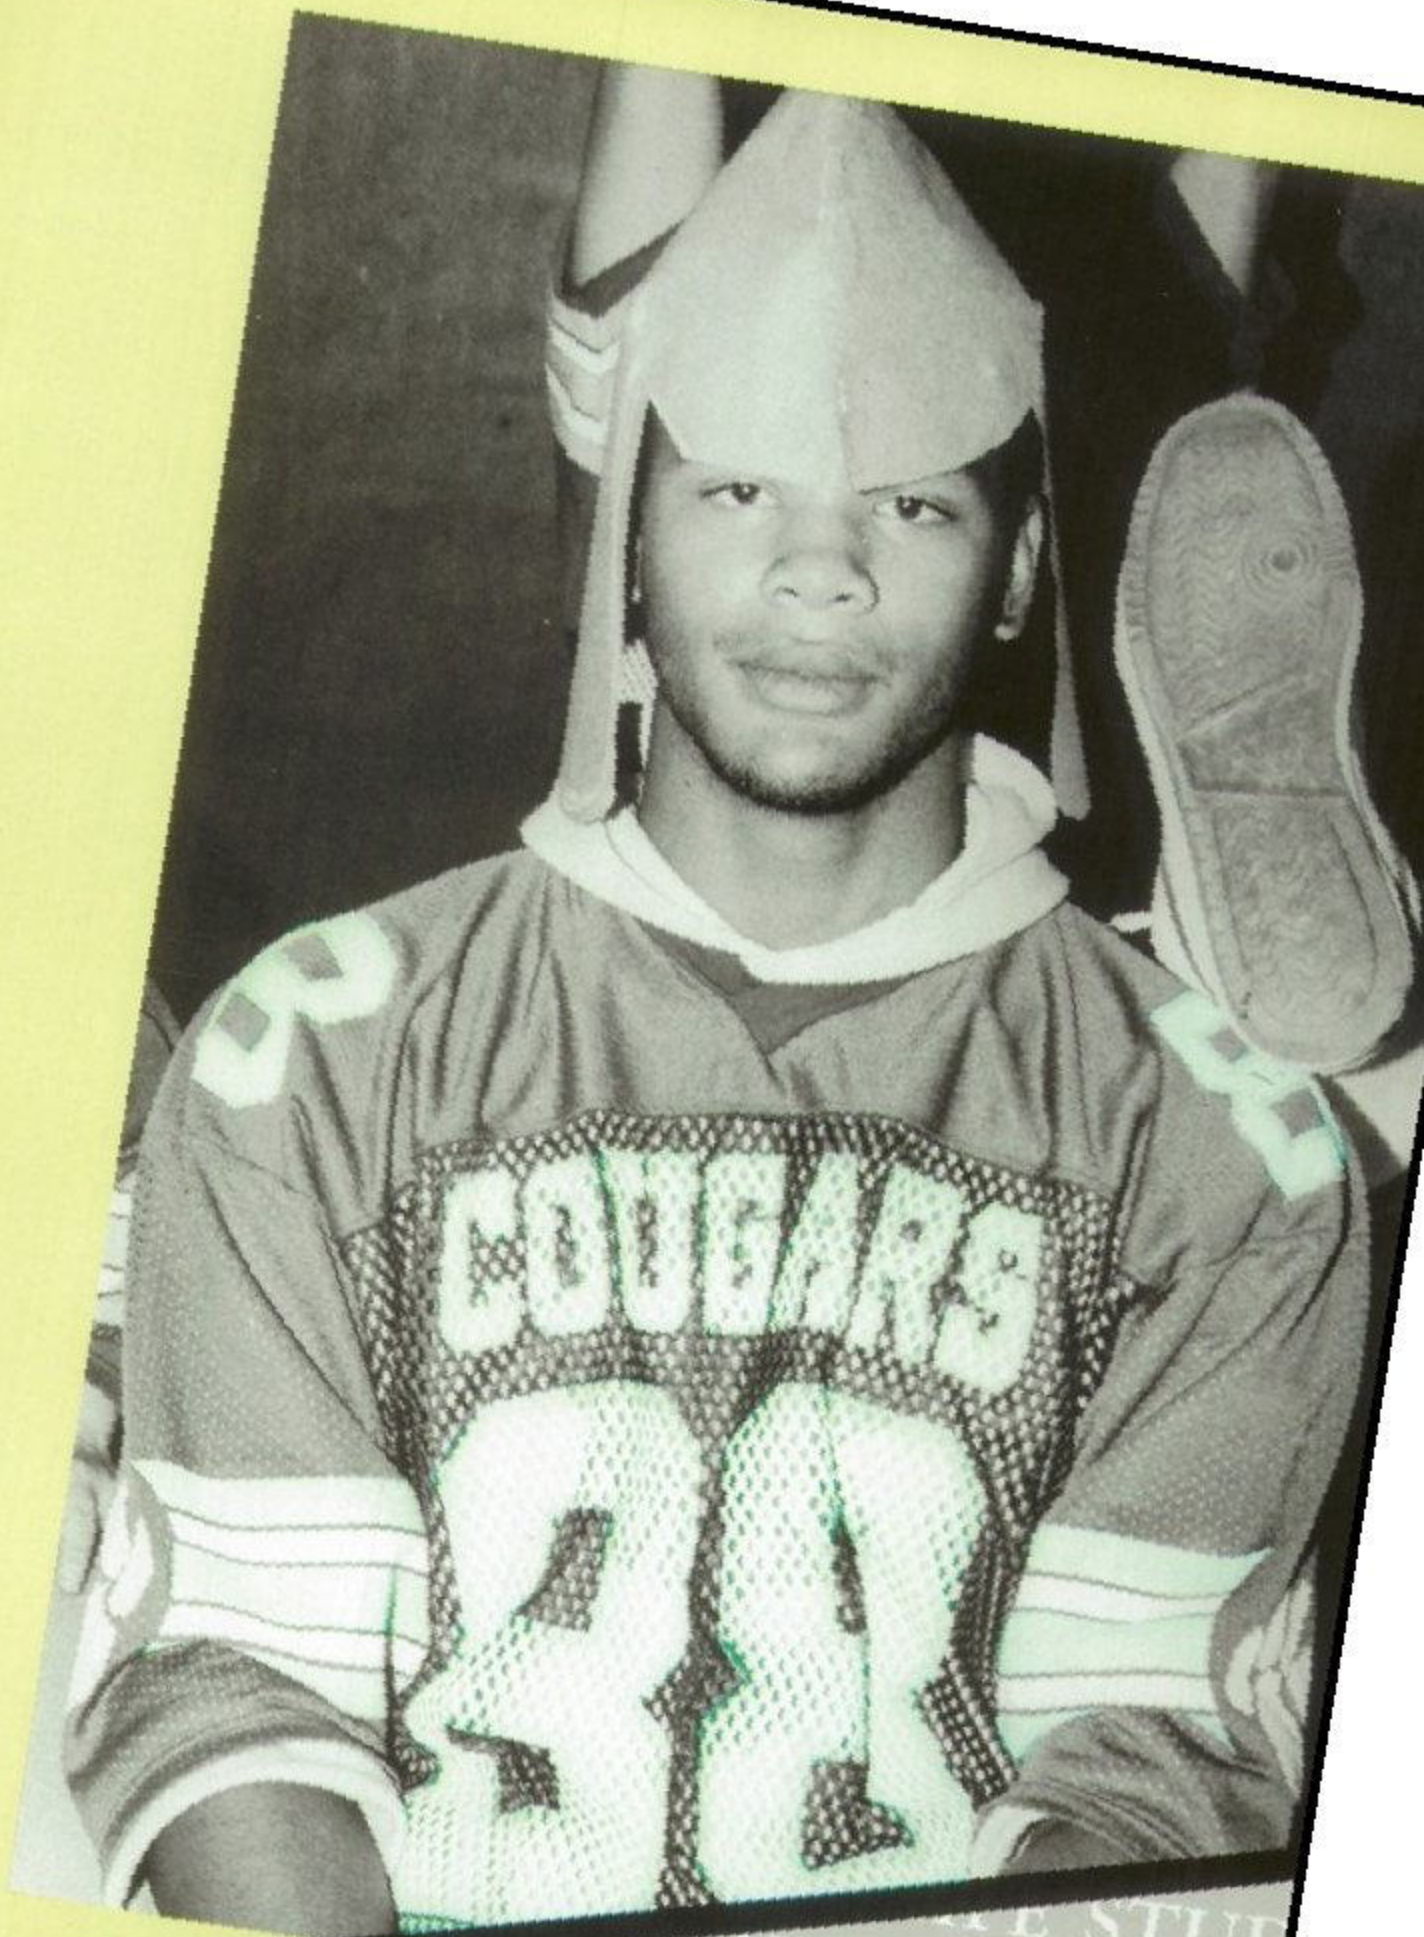

You had to hear it to believe it. We had heard about it at the end of last year, but we all said, "No, it can't be." But it was. Three closed lunches. Hall passes to leave the cafeteria. Longer days — longer classes. Chapter five. No doubt, these were unpopular restrictions; they demanded respect from the students. It was there. The students understood and acquiesced. You had to feel it to believe it. The football team was on the road to a winning season for the first time in three years. "Four and zero, six to go!" could be seen and heard throughout the halls. It was obvious that our fans were psyched. Our cheerleaders led the way by proving themselves in two first rate competitions.

Believe it. This 1987-88 Reflections will capture the spirit of a special year. We see it; we hear it; we feel it; Now we invite you to believe it.

LIVE, EAT, BREATHE CHS

Responsibility, perseverance, and dedication are not characteristics commonly found in a high school student. In few students, however, they are evident: editors, officers, presidents, captains, scholars. The majority of students are not born leaders, but this does not mean they don't possess the right stuff. In them, we find natural talent paying off with every pin, basket, and A+.

Anyone who has committed to an activity understands the endless hours. During summer camps, the football team practices until 8:00 p.m., the band until 4:00 p.m. During their seasons, the basketball and wrestling teams put 15+ hours a week. Typists for school publications are at school until 6:00 p.m. One feels as though he is holding down a part-time job at school — of course, without the salary or weighted grades for compensation.

During the school days as well as after hard workers fill Carlynton halls. They are the scholars, and not just the gifted. They are the ones who actually study during study halls and concentrate while doing three hours of homework a night. If these students aren't on a team, it's probably because they hold down a part-time job, working 10+ hours a week.

These are the dedicated. To all those who give the extra effort, we salute you!

Left — "Too many cooks spoil the soup" is an old adage that came true at band camp this year. Because this was their first year without a choreographer, the Cougarette workload was shared by all. In the middle of the first day, captain Kim Pfeffer decided to go it alone. Kim worked very hard and did an excellent job. Thank you, Kim?

THE TIME OF YOUR LIFE!

"Give me a C!"

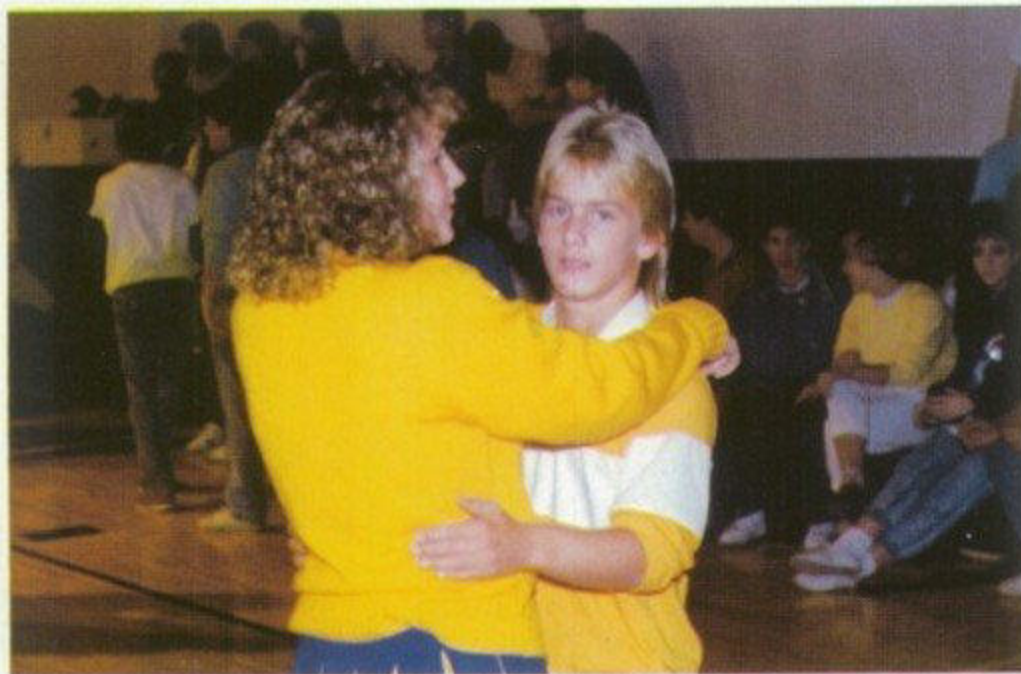

Go Cougars! There is nothing like school spirit to warm the soul on a cold night of football. Spirit even makes soggy socks in the pouring rain more tolerable.

This season the Cougars drew great crowds. The team was so exciting that some of the working students would sneak away from Roy Roger's or Little Ceasar's Pizza to catch a glimpse of the hot action.

Of course, the night did not end with the game. Some journeyed to Pizza Hut; others, in far greater numbers, stampeded the doors to the elementary school gym for a dance. The style of the dance was free. There were jumpers, bouncing out of control, swishers that twisted and curved, and side steppers whose favorite was "The Bird." Then there was slow dancing, there is something unforgettable about the song, and occasionally stepping on your partner's toe.

Memories last: the perfect pass, a beautiful sack, the agony of an injured player, Mr. Moskovitz on the loud speaker, the dance after homecoming. Free after the game? Let's dance!

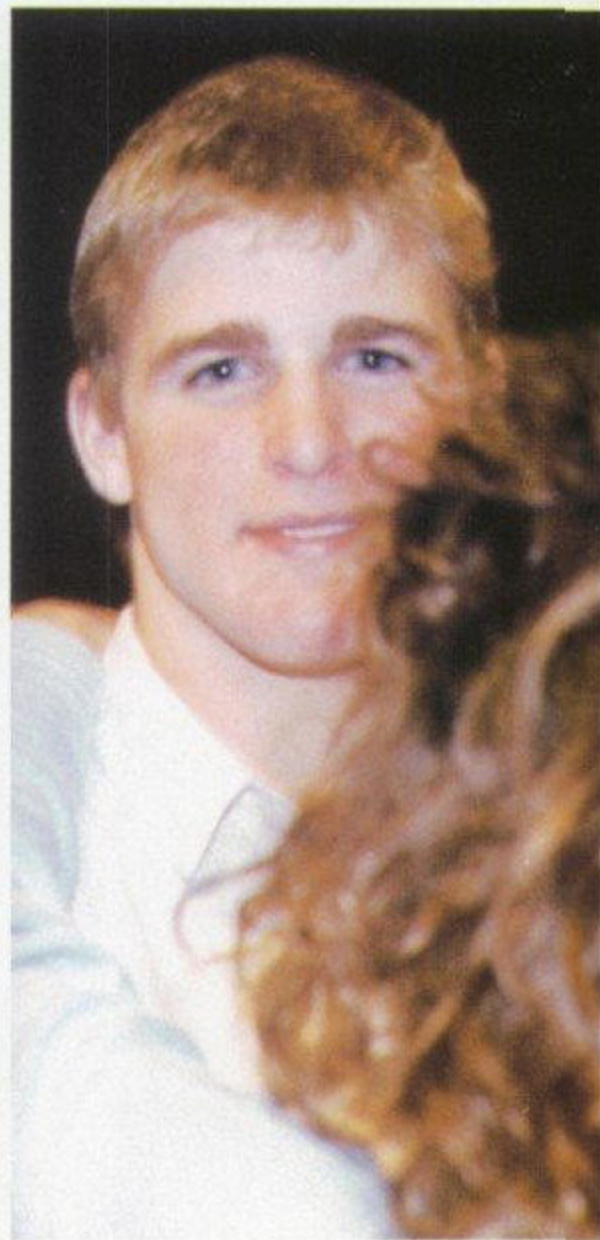

Above — Tall, dark, and handsome? Not yet, but for now Keith Warner doesn't mind a taller date.

Right — Bob Crowell was lucky in that he was at the head of the line to get into the dance. The dances, sponsored by the Quarterback Club, were extremely popular with the junior high, but the senior high was well represented each Friday night. The football players' attendance at the dances was mandatory.

YOU'VE GOT THE SPIRIT

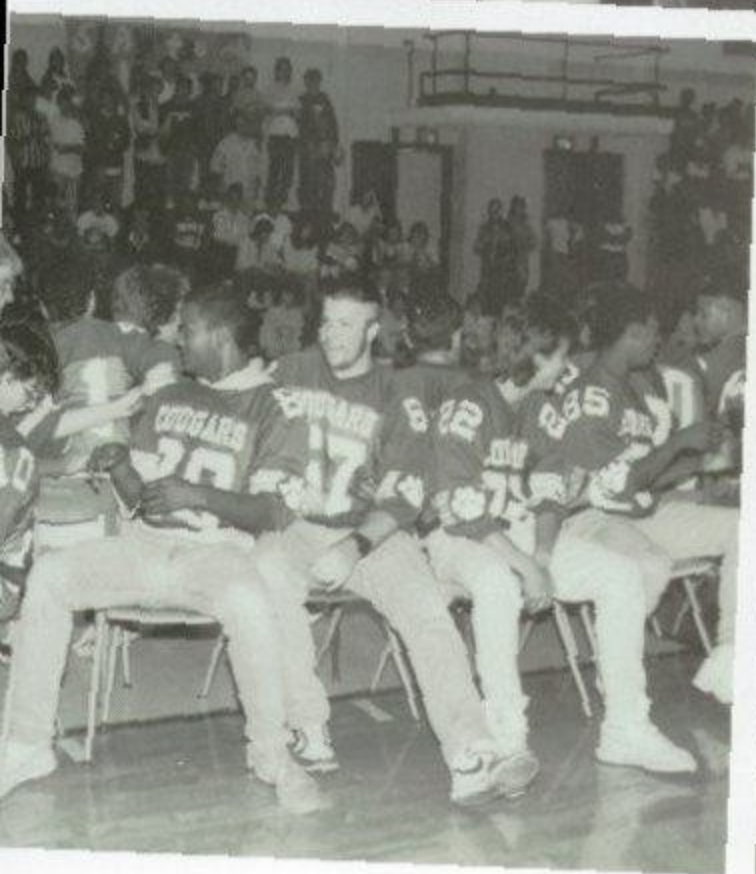

"Mom never told me P.E. would be like this," cheered Michelle Mizia as she looked out onto the gym floor and saw the most spectacular gold and green sight in the world. Sorry Michelle, but this is not gym. Welcome to your first pep rally. Cheerleaders defying gravity as they jump and cheer, mascots doing push-ups to the excited chants of "Green, Gold", and Cougarettes, Majorettes, and Silks performing to songs played loudly and proudly by the band are only a few of the sights Michelle saw. Through this, CHS students are finally realizing that our pep rallies are nothing to yawn at anymore. Gone are the days of toilet paper flying through the air and of students using pep rallies to escape school. Do we miss those days? No. Pride is making a return and it's great to have our Cougar spirit back. "We Suddenly more and more people are finding out that green and gold doesn't clash. From gold football stickers to green paw marks on faces, a new trend of pride has begun.

The pride in CHS is starting to reflect in everything we do. The school is changing from uniform and boring to bursting in pride. However, we still have a long way to go. The final change is up to the students. The time has come for us to look around and say, "Cougar Spirit!!"

Right — In their performances at pep rallies, Cougarette Captain Kim Pfeffer and senior Cougarette Lori Flynn show our school how to "jam". Whether dancing to a song played by the band or by Triad, CHS' premiere rock group, these girls really know how to kick up a storm.

MONSTER MACHINES

We were not a bunch of animals. It was the machines. They were the monsters. They would lay silent and still, awaiting an unsuspecting adolescent, then attack, gobbling up the victim's loose change.

This was the only complaint about the vending machine room, the latest and greatest addition to the CHS cafeteria.

Health trends increased with the sale of "White Lite", but the desserts were still sought after. The new Hostess cake Choco Bliss was the best seller. The apple strudel also sold well.

A touch of class. The new table and chairs set up as opposed to the old benches, along with the rock mural painted by Jim Pascoe and Jack Cardello gave the cafeteria some dignity. (Good thing, since we weren't allowed to leave it!)

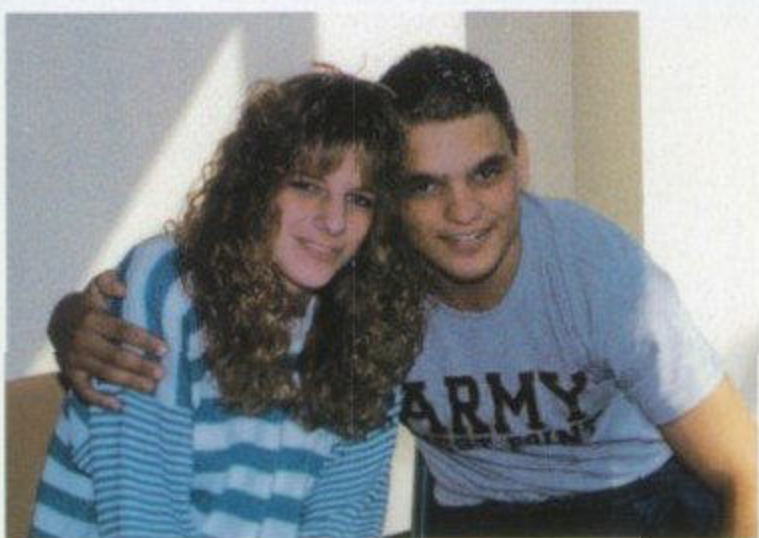

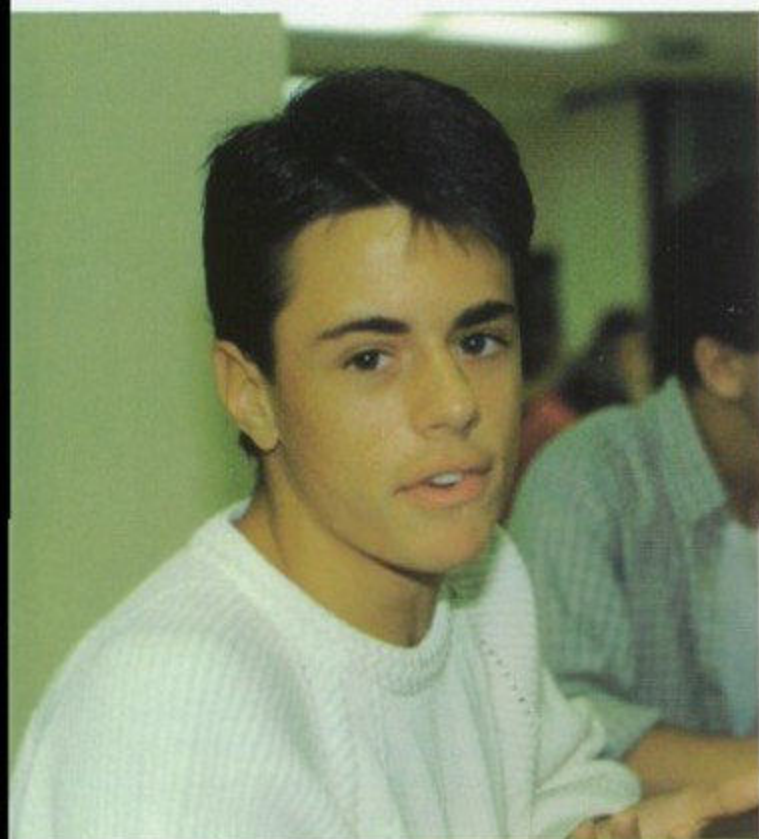

In spite of this haute couture, teenagers are still teenagers. We often turned our noses up at fresh fruit and vegetables, but devoured pepperoni pizza and fried chicken sandwiches, which were the year's best sellers. If for some reason, we didn't want fast food, we could always buy a sandwich, ham and cheese being most popular, or bring our own.

INS AND OUTS

Women are gooing over Gucci, the biggest name in purses. Girls, beware of how you sit: the mini skirt is back in a big way. It can be worn straight and tight, or full and fun, just keep it short. This season the hair is full. Best is long flowing tresses, and for added style pull them back in a bow (black).

Denim is the best for guys and girls. Be covered from head to toe. Jeans can be bought stonewashed or frosted. If nothing else, a jean jacket is a must (preferably Levi's).

Unless in the gym, leave your Reeboks at home. Go with style wearing Converse hightops in a multitude of colors — red, green, purple, or the years leading colors of peach and khaki. Otherwise, Bass shoes replace ordinary docksiders.

Men, listen up. In 1988 you have two choices for style: Euro-prep, the short hair — Cotton sweater — Bass look, or the opposite Rock look, the hair so long — ripped jeans — Motley Crue look if you want to be "IN".

So, if you want that cover-model hip look, start adjusting your wardrobe to keep up with those fads.

HAUNTED SCHOOL

"Jennifer, we are now seniors" was the message Jen Tobin found on her locker the morning of October 30, 1987. She shook as she realized the day she had been waiting for since seventh grade had arrived. Was this not the beginning of another end?

"I feel silly," was the phrase of the day for every dressed up senior. No matter how weird you looked, there was always someone funnier. We thought it was great to see how the hamburger fit through the door, and how the Christmas present climbed steps.

"How did they think of that?" was a question asked by every teacher. The creativity put into the costumes was typical of the class of 88.

Captain Zippo running through the halls, a Hare

Krishna recruiting new members, a stick of butter, and some unidentified yet handsome costumes invaded CHS that day. Was this a Kodak moment? Obviously! After all, the yearbook used 5 rolls of film alone. Everyone wanted tangible memories of this unique day in the life of a senior, and photos were a popular choice.

PROUD PARENTS, 88!

Could it have been colder? On November 6, 1987, it was 15°F. As I looked into the stands, I saw huddled masses bundled in blankets, thick jackets, and battery operated socks. People were drinking stale hot chocolate, but no one cared about the taste. All that mattered was it was warmer than they. I was wearing my Cougarette uniform which consisted of a short skirt, thin jacket and thinner boots. I didn't feel cold. It was my Senior Night, and I wouldn't have minded rain or snow.

asked if he ever got tired of watching Senior Nights after sponsoring senior classes, Mr. Torcasi stated, "Not at all. Each class is highlighted by its own individuals. Each is unique."

Can Senior Flag Janet Kosakowski remember ever receiving so many flowers? Tradition says it can only happen on Senior Night. In fact, one flower-buyer had to settle for a day-glo dandylion and kiku fern due to lack of supplies. When else are green carnations more popular than red roses?

WHO'S THAT GIRL?

Another year, another graduating class. Another Homecoming Queen, another set of class colors. Another Senior Night. Another Senior Pep Rally. So, what makes 1988 any different?

"Lean to the left! Lean to the right! Peel your banana, and UH! Take a bite!"

The Carlynton Cheerleaders have a reputation. A good one; they are a good squad. But look again — did they forget to shave on November 6? Did they put their make-up on in the dark? And I thought Jenn and Cath were the captains! Is that . . . Bob and Dan? In skirts! With pom-poms!

What made the Nov. 6 pep rally so special was its participants. Okay, I admit it. I'm a senior. I like my class, and I thought my senior pep rally was the greatest. Why? The encore of "Banana"! What will Dave's kids say?

The senior cheerleaders are in charge of organizing the pep rally, and this year found Jenn Brubach and Cath Glaser at the helm. Reports Cath, "The guys really wanted to show off. They worked hard. We gave them chants to take home and practice, and they obviously did."

The Cougarettes, Major-

ettes, and Cheerleaders practiced for 2 days at lunch. The girls didn't require practice. They were scheduled to perform a sort of Olympics. The relays included games such as lifesaver/toothpick transfer and balloon-between-legs hop. "The girls' activity didn't work out as well," comments Cath.

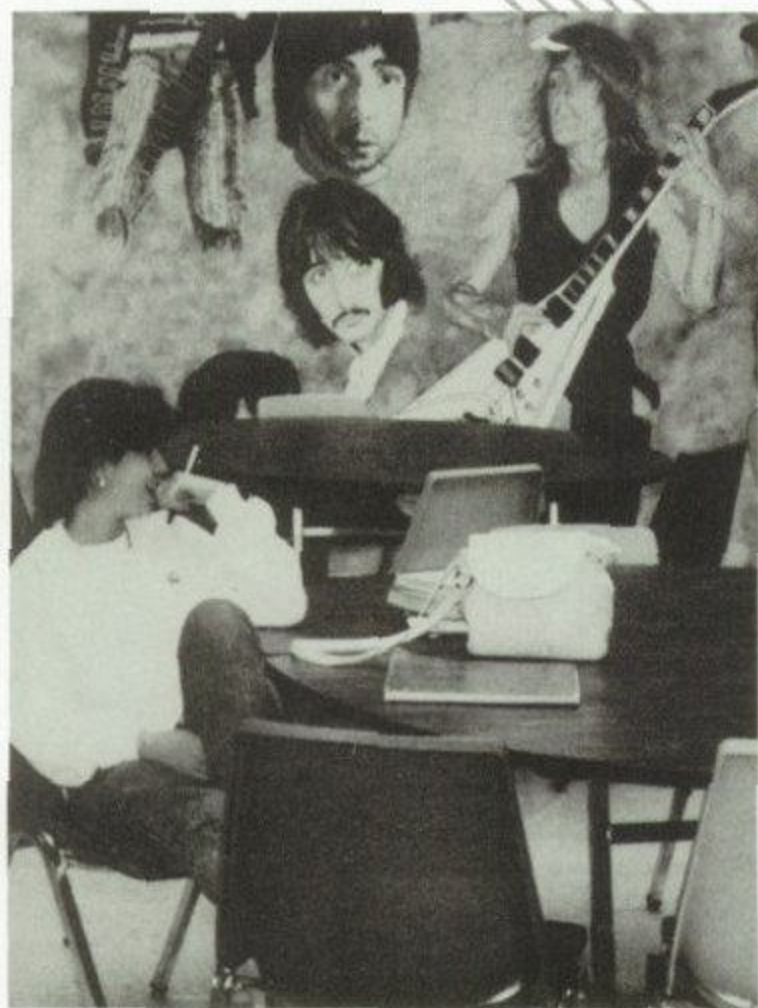

"The Senior Pep Rally is so much fun because it was the first time I really felt like a senior. It was our first real senior activity," tells Minal Dave. "It was a good time but I'm glad I don't have to date those cheerleaders!"

CAFETERIA COMFORT, BY PASCOE, INC.

It all began in September 1986. The Art Department received a request from the Administration that something be painted on the cafeteria wall; something "homey", not school related since we already had green and gold stripes encircling the walls and paw prints covering the halls. This mural was to make the cafeteria more comfortable for the students. Mr. Muraco took the request to junior Jim Pascoe, who said if it were up to him, he'd paint rock stars. Thus, the rock mural was born. Jim began by making a list of all he thought should be immortalized on the wall. The list included such classic greats as Bruce Springsteen, The Who, The Beatles, and Aerosmith. Jim's pencil drawings were transferred to the wall by transparency, and this took until Christmas 1986.

Jim contracted Giac Cardello for help in the spring of '87 when the work was the heaviest. Then, the duo put 20 to 25 hours a week into the painting. For all their efforts, the artists receive no grade and no credit. It's all extra-curricular.

The two took a break during the summer, and came back (PLEASE SEE "ARTISTS" p. 139)

HOMECOMING 1988

It is late enough in the season that nightfall brings not only the dazzle of the stars but also chilly toes by the time Homecoming comes.

The feeling is different as one enters through the gates. Yes, the field is decorated in the senior colors of dark and light blue.

Festive balloons bob in the wind and the stands are filled with little girls and boys, their eyes wide with admiration of older students. They are filled, too, with parents and friends, who look on the activity with pride.

Half-time comes; Homecoming ceremony begins. Homecoming is for everyone, but it is a right of passage for seniors. By now students have seen all the alumni. Seniors see them differently; they will soon be the alumni. Seniors are eager to join their graduated friends, yet still clinging to the security of our Alma Mater. With that thought our attention is again focused on the field.

We hear the trite questions over and over: "I wonder who will be Queen!" and "She's the prettiest." Suddenly it means so much more to us. These girls are more to us than a pretty face.

IT'S A SMALL WORLD AFTER ALL

Often the world seemed in such a hurry, passing by the changing times, places, and relationships that would remain with us forever, affecting the rest of our lives.

Ah, the security of every day life. Knowing you'll come to school, know almost everyone; everyone will know you. Being in one district since kindergarten allows for a certain amount of insurance, but sometimes that insurance is cashed in early, for instance, when a family moves and changes schools. That is what happened to Dana Carey who moved to Jacksonville, Florida right before her senior year. Carlynton misses Dana, as she was to be Cougarette Captain and much more; but we wish her luck and she'll always be CHS, Class of '88.

A new friend came to us this year — she is Daniela Koch, from Hamburg, West Germany. Dany immediately captured the heart of a school. She chose to become an exchange student because she wanted to experience new things, and she picked America because of an American student at her school. Amy Saracena has danced her way across Italy, and Melanie Grandjacques has family in France. Great! But, there's no place like home.

WORKING FOR THE WEEKEND!

Expenses, expenses. NO one realizes the extent of the expense until one acquires a steady...

Shannon Sray, football manager, stood on the sidelines keeping a close watch over her boyfriend Mike Nicoletta, a Cougar defender. Shannon waited for the end of the game, so she and Mike could get together with friends Lisa, Eric, Marla, and Ed; then the fun, and the cost of fun, would begin.

The friends piled into Mike's '75 Olds. Destination: Pizza Hut. There they order 2 large Pan Pizzas with the works ($13.95 @) and 2 pitchers of Coke ($2.95 @). The jukebox swallowed up another $2.00. After dinner, Mike suggested they got to the post-game dance ($1.00 @), but first, Mike had to fill the tank with gas ($20.00).

The next evening, our couples decided to go to a movie at Cinema West ($4.25 @), plus a medium lemonade and box of M&M's ($3.25 @).

The following week, our heroines asked their heros to the Sadie Hawkins Dance ($2.00 @). Photo packages added up to another $19.00. After the dance, our couples head for King's Restaurant, famous for prevolone sticks ($2.50 @), chocolate shakes ($4.50), and sandwiches ($2.95 @).

Our couple's expenses were not only on weekends. Mornings sometimes found them at Mr. Donut ($3.00), and school lunch ($2.00 @).

One of the privileges of being a steady is his class ring ($100.). Another is the Prom, which can run totally up to $400 for gown, tux, tickets, ... One cannot attend the Prom without going to Kennywood the next day for the school picnic ($20-80).

Of course this article is meant to represent a typical teen's expenses, not only Shannon and Mike's. All of the pictured students are working so they, too, can eat out, shop, go out...

TOO MUCH TIME ON MY HANDS . . .

Studyhall first period, a fate worse than death. You stare at your schedule in disbelief. Not wanting to waste time, you try to think of electives to put in its place. Unfortunately, underwater basket weaving, artificial toad mounting, and sock darning are the only ones open first period. So, now what? Don't dismay. In fact, cheer up, sport. CHS' student body is coming to the rescue with new and innovative ideas to cure your studyhall blues.

Senior Class Favorites . . . Christy Masco and Dave Horak.

Some people are born with a silver spoon in their mouth, others are born with pigskin leather in their hands. Pigskin? Yes, pigskin, at least that's the way it was seventeen years ago when Most Athletic Christy Masco and Dave Horak were born. This dynamic duo has since eaten their fair shares of Wheaties and spent more than their fair share of hours in the gym, in the locker room, on the field, and on the court to rise to their current stardom.

Christy has the distinction of being the only Senior on the Girls' Basketball Team, and Dave holds the honored position of being the coveted Quarterback. Athletes have always commanded a certain amount of respect in Carlynton; hats off to these two stars!

Senior Class Favorites . . . Lisa and Bob

Long ago in a kingdom far away, there lived a frog and a princess. Not together, of course, the frog, named Sporto lived in a murky pond, and the princess, named Lady Lisa, lived alone in an old castle across the land. Each was sad.

One day Lady Lisa decided to go for a walk. Before long, she found herself at the pond way across the kingdom. She stopped to rest there, and Lady Lisa soon heard a faint whimpering cry from underneath a lily pad. As she got up to investigate who or what was making the noise, Lady Lisa slipped on a pebble and landed SMACK on Sporto the frog. Her lips met his, and Sporto suddenly turned into dashing Bob Malcolm.

Needless to say, Lady Lisa Ruddy and Bob "Sporto" Malcolm lived happily ever after. (They were even voted Carlynton's Most Attractive pair, 1988!)

Daydreamers

Heidi and Eric

Senior Class Favorites . . . Heidi and Eric (to the tune of "Sittin' on the Dock of the Bay")

"Sittin' in 1st period sun, I'll be sittin' when 7th comes. Watchin' the students come in, and I'll watch them go back out again . . . Sittin' in the seat of my desk — wastin' time."

"Left my home in Crafton; headed for Carlynton High. I have nothin' to study, no grades are gonna come my way. Sittin' in the seat of my desk — wastin' time. Looks like nothin's ever gonna change; oh, Principal, everything remains the same . . . I can do what ten teachers tell me to do, so I guess I'll remain the same . . ."

"Sittin' here restin' my bones; this teacher won't leave me alone. Five miles I've roamed, just to make this desk my home . . . Sittin' in the seat of my desk, wastin' time . . ."

Congratulations to Heidi and Eric, Class of 1988 — Daydreamers!

Best Dressed

Sheila and Shawn

Senior Class Favorites ... Sheila Pachel and Shawn Ebbert.

Perry Ellis, Laura Ashley, Adrienne Vittadini, Ralph Lauren — Do these names mean anything to you? They do to Best Dressed Sheila Pachel and Shawn Ebbert. Looking great is second nature to these two. When in doubt about what is true fashion or fad, check out Shawn and Sheila.

You had to be there when Sheila was six. On any given day while all the other kids romped through the neighborhood, Sheila could be found in the attic trying on grandma's old clothes.

Across town, Shawn was forced into fashion. While his friends played with their trucks in the mud, Shawn's mother dragged him school clothes shopping. Tell us the truth Shawn, aren't you glad you listened to your Mom?

Class Flirts

Christy and Dave

Senior Class Favorites . . . Christy and Dave.

"Oooo," the young, naive girl squealed, "Look! It's . . . Dave Schepner," she says dreamily. "He's so smooth. I just wish I had one class with him. Sigh." Such is the fate of all females left to the whimsical ways of Most Flirtatious Dave Schepner. King of Cool, Prince of Passes, Salutatorian of Suave, only few females remain unaffected by the charms of Dave.

Curly blond locks, thick black lashes, short flirty minis — Christy Masco has all the ingredients that go into flirtatious fun. Christy has always been the life of the party and caught up on all the latest gossip. Guys, beware! Christy can turn even the sturdiest of rocks to putty.

Whatever it is, Most Flirtatious Dave Schepner and Christy Masco have an irresistible air about them. Seniors, be strong!

Most Intellectual

Jen and Rich

Senior Class Favorites . . . Jen and Rich

Most Intellectual: an unusual "disease" that two seniors contract every year.

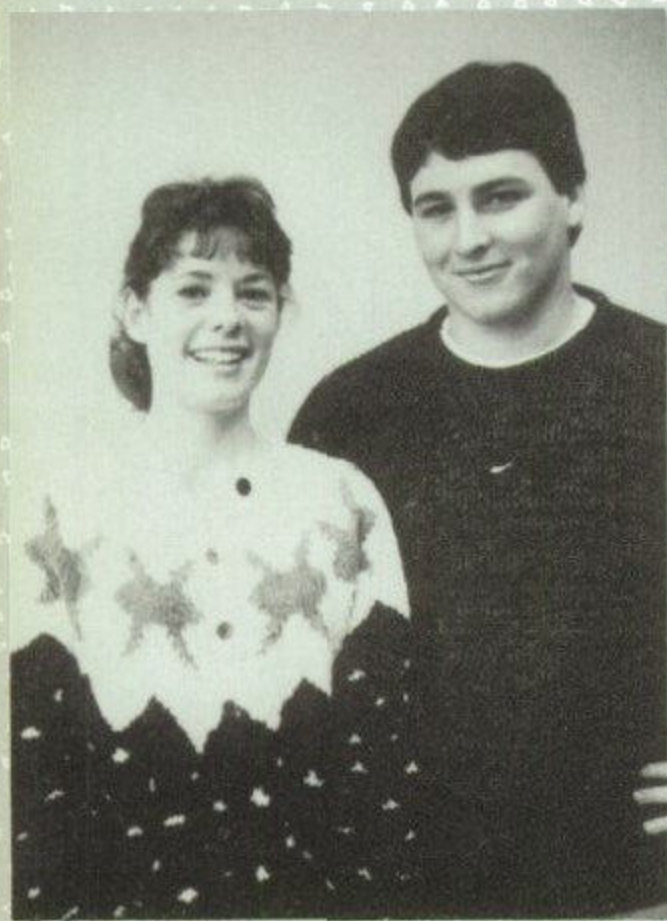

The "victim" may contract these symptoms:

- *never caught without a programmable calculator
- *amazing grades
- *that "do not disturb — I'm in deep thought" look
- *studying for next week's calc. test this Friday night

Diagnosis: We highly suggest you let the condition develop. It can be of benefit to you if you've been caught staring blankly at what Mr. Jones wrote on the board, or find yourself getting a pink precipitate when it should be blue. This year's lucky victims: Jennifer Tobin and Richard Nahouraii. Congratulations and best wishes for a bright future!

Teachers' Pet

Debbie and Steve

Senior Class Favorites . . . Debbie and Steve Business tycoon Mrs. Apple, chem god Mr. Bricklemeyer, and gym master Mr. Ferrone were out student shopping one day. They had checked out all the malls and specialty shops, all the department stores and discount warehouses, but no luck. Nowhere could two good students be found. "Times have changed," our teachers sighed. "Kids today just don't want to learn . . ."

Then, out of the corner of her eye, Mrs. Apple spotted an unusual window display. It featured a new kind of student — eager, enthusiastic, punctual, practical. The students' names: Debbie Solt and Steve Crown. The teachers decided to give them a try, and bring them to Carlynton. In no time at all, Debbie and Steve took the school by storm, and won 1988 highest honors: Teachers' Pet.

AMS

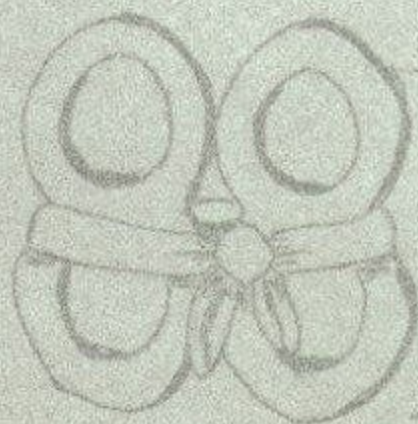

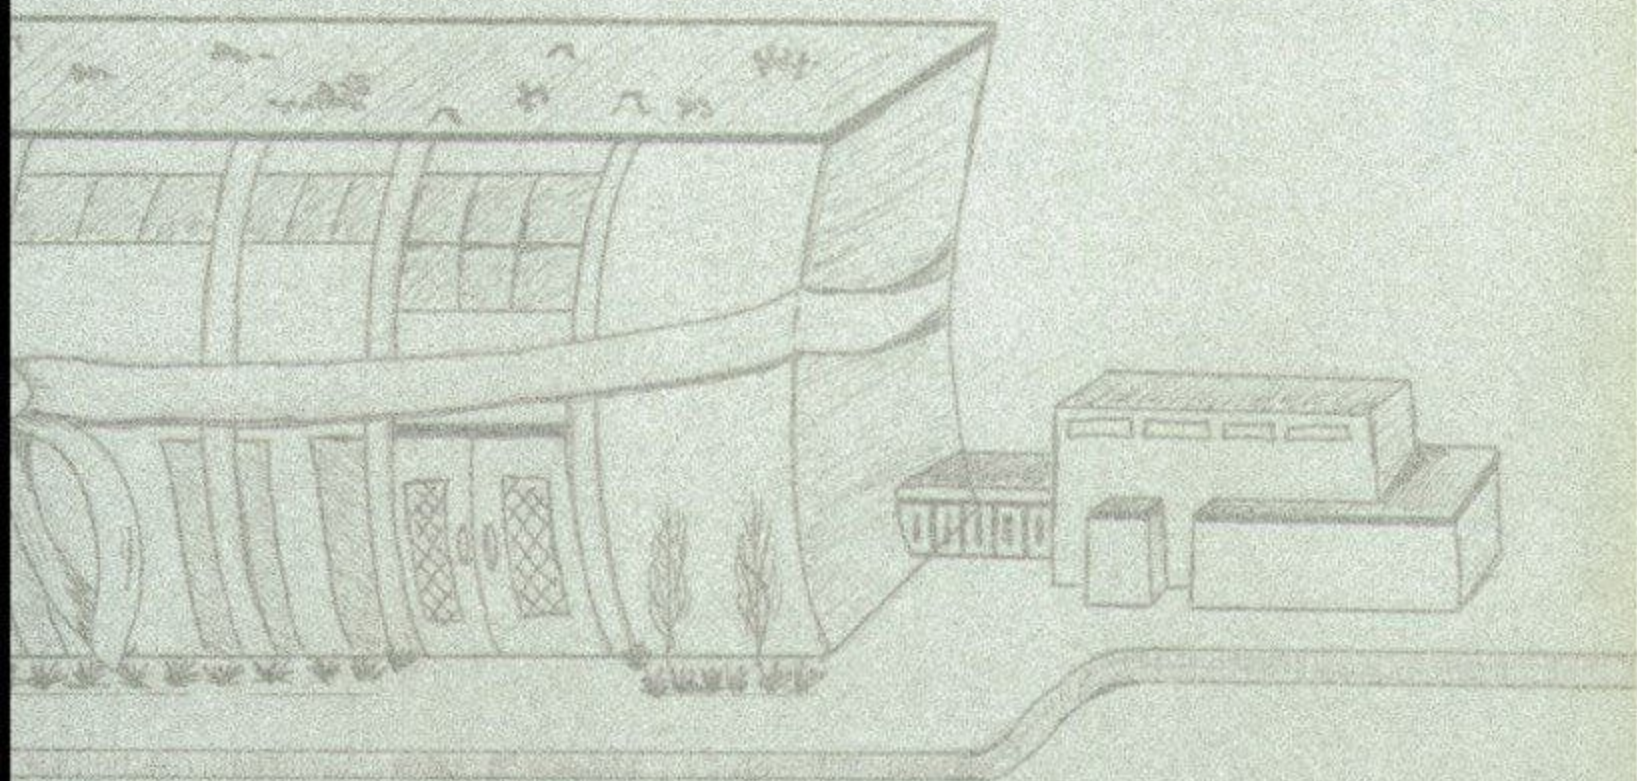

Football games, Burger King
Green and Gold on everything Friendly dances and a kiss good-bye breaking curfew and a happy sigh.
Lunch time laughter before a trig. test
The daily headache from lack of rest.
A group of friends not yet known apart
Who have loved each other from the very start.
High School certainly is a special place
Where past and future run an equal race,
Where friendship and love are one and the same
And breaking hearts is a ruthless game,
Where words are said without thinking them through
And all mistakes come back to you.
High School is a home for three good years
With lots of smiles and lots of fears.
The friends we've made
The love we've shared
The magic we've felt
And the people who've cared
We say good-bye, for we must go on
But these years will be valued
In our lifetime song.

Thank you CHS,
and good-bye.

James Pascoe

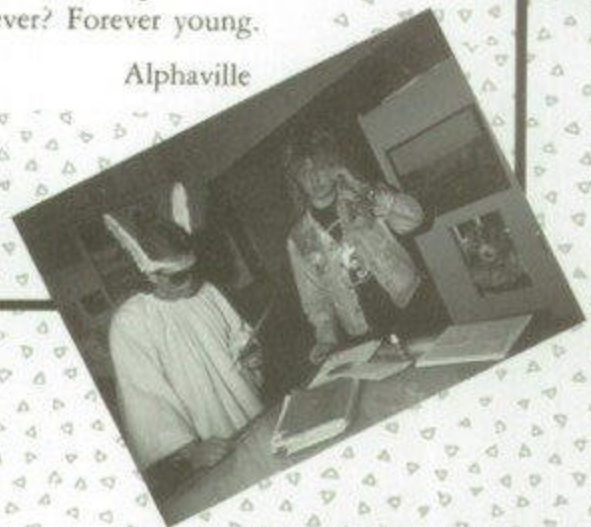

Let's start in style, let's dance for a while
Heaven can wait, we're only watching skies
Hoping for the best and expecting the worst
Are you going to drop the bomb or not?
Let us die young or let us live forever
We don't have the power but we never say never Sitting in a sand pit, life is a sharp trip
The music's for the sandman
Can you imagine when this place is one?
Turn about and face, listen to the sun
Raising our leaders and getting in tune
The music's played by the madman.
Forever young, I want to be forever young.
Do you really want to live forever? Forever young.
Some are like water, some are like the beach,
Some are the melody, some are the beat.
Sooner or later we will all be gone
Why can't they stay young?
It's so hard to get old without a cause
I don't want to perish like a fading horse
Be like diamonds in the sun and diamonds are forever
So many things could happen today
So many songs we forgot to play
So many dreams reaching out from the blue
Won't you let them come through?
Forever young, I want to be forever young.
Do you really want to live forever? Forever young.

"Friday night at 8:00? Wait, let me check," Kelly said as she checked her date book. "I'm sorry, but I have plans then." Guys, don't take it personally if Most Popular Kelly Keeley can't find time to go out with you — besides being a Cougarette and F.B.L.A. officer, Kelly is Homecoming Queen, 1987-88. It isn't difficult to understand her popularity once around her; Kelly is a friend to everyone.

The luck and charm of the Irish have always been with Most Popular Bob Malcolm. Notorious for being sensitive when the rest of the world is unkind, Bob has racked up the friends. Being the perpetual underdog, Bob has shown us there is always hope.

Kelly and Bob didn't win their titles for nothing; thanks guys!

Senior Class Favorites . . . Julie and Len

"Dr. Sylanski, there are two patients in Dental Room A." Oh no, he's getting closer. What will happen next? "Good afternoon, Julie and Len. How are those fabulous smiles? Well, Julie, you're first." He examines her pearly white teeth. "Oh, too bad, two cavities. You're next, Len." As the doctor examines Len's magnificent molars, he notices a huge cavity on his front tooth. "Drilling is an absolute must." While Dr. Sylanski pulls out the novocane and drills, our hero and heroine Julie Leedstrom and Len Bogats shrink back in absolute terror. Will their smiles become frowns forever?? Aaargh!

Wake up, Julie and Len! It was only a demented dental dream. This grinning couple will forever be remembered as Carlynton's warmest smiles.

Most Likely To Succeed

Laura and Rich

Senior Class Favorites . . . Laura and Rich

Success is an elusive quality — it has many meaning and aspects. One thing that is for sure, however, is that successful people have an air about them — a certain charisma. It may be confidence; it could be benevolence. Whatever it is, the Carlynton Senior Class of 1988 is sure that Rich Nahouraii and Laura Zivkovich have "it"; Rich and Laura have what it takes to be a success.

Laura and Rich have proven themselves in both their academic and nonacademic pursuits. Laura, a National Honor Society member and a National Merit Commendee, has been a Varsity Girls' Tennis letter winner for four years. Rich, a National Merit Finalist and President of the Honor Society, has played the drums in Carlynton Band since ninth grade. He is planning a career in medicine. No matter where they are, Laura and Rich are sure to be a hit.

Most Talented

Heather and Jim

Class of '88, come clean! If you think catching 1st run bus twice a week is something to be proud of, consider it an accomplishment to get a D+ or stick wet paper towel to the ceiling, you obviously don't know CHS's most talented duo, Heather Bailey and Jim Pascoe.

Heather has a flair for ballet. We've watched her progress through only one year in the talent show. Heather's other fortes include acting and writing (for the yearbook!)

Jim's specialty is art. We've all seen the masterpiece he created from a cafeteria wall! You've probably also heard this band Triad, which has performed at a pep rally and in the talent show this year.

Not only are these two artists, they are both National Honor Society members. Congratulations, Heather and Jim!

Most Talkative

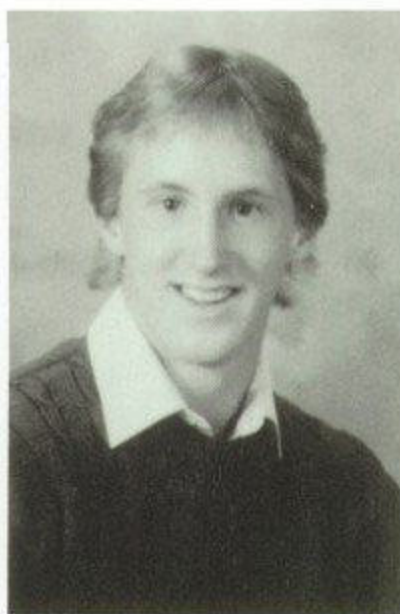

Jen and Matt

"Tape! Quick, where's the tape?" It's a sad state. Another student driven into a mad frenzy by the constant chit-chat of Most Talkative.

"Fermez la bouche! Halt den mund! Cierre la boca!" This year it's official: Most Talkative's Matt Sembrar and Jennifer Swenn have gone international. Are there no language barriers left in the world? Who would have ever thought that these two would rise to such heights? After graduation, Matt became Mr. Tyson's chicken auctioneer. Thanks to Matt, Tyson's chicken has been sold all over the world ("It's haute cuisine and good, too!"). And what of Jen? Jennifer had the amazing good fortune of marrying multi-billionaire Donald Trump after talking her way into his heart. No doubt this peppy pair will put their talking talents to great use!

Dear Parents,

As graduating seniors of Carlynton High School, we are looking back on what has been the most trying year for all of us. We have faced the realities of college and leaving high school. Our class schedule was packed with Biology, Chemistry, Calculus, French or Spanish 4, and English A.P. — complete with a twenty page term paper and essay exams. We had arguments with you on growing up. (For example, "I'm 18 years old and I'm old enough to vote. I think I'm old enough to have the car until midnight.") Also, you had arguments with us about not growing up. (For example, "Mom, what do you mean it's time for me to get a job and buy my own clothes?") Taking the above facts into consideration, WE DESERVE A GRADUATION GIFT! HOW ABOUT HAWAII?

Only a "handful" of people at CHS are affected by the serious writing disease of LEFTHANDEDNESS. Try coping with life in a world full of RIGHTHANDED people. A lot of strange things happen to LEFTHANDED people. For instance, as a LEFTHANDED person, I sometimes feel like driving on the other side of the road. (Maybe that's because Mr. Gearing taught me how to drive and he's LEFTHANDED, too. No, maybe it's because I'm a bad driver. Who knows?) Also, people used to think that LEFTHANDED people were evil. I don't know if that's true but, on last Halloween and on a few Friday the 13's, my eyes did glow and I had a strange urge to boil a frog gut caldron. What I'm trying to say is this . . . LEFTHANDED people are people, too. So, the next time you see one of us struggle to finish a test in a desk built for RIGHTHANDED people, give us a break. We try, but sometimes life is not that simple. Hey, have you hugged a LEFTHANDED person today?

Applying Yourself

Seniors Learn the Application Maze

Senior year in high school is synonymous with college applications. All seniors have been aware of this fact since junior high, but many wait until the last minute to begin the seemingly endless process. Why? Some say they just didn't realize they were seniors. Others became too busy with being a senior, and still others weren't sure if they even wanted to go to college. Once the decision is made, the adventure begins.

Actually, it should all start long before the senior year, for sure in the junior year. That's when you should have 10 schools picked out, according to Mr. Jones. How do you pick 10 out of 3,000 colleges and universities across the U.S.? Good question. Some deciding factors include size, location, reputation, and cost of the school. Students can try to pick a school on a possible major, but high school kids rarely know what they want to do with the rest of their lives. As a junior, students take the P.S.A.T., and from then on, applications become business. Not a day goes by from January of junior year until January of senior year that an applicant's mailbox isn't bombarded with college literature. It's so easy to stack it all in a corner over the summer, then...

Senior year arrives, and the fun starts. The S.A.T. that counts, the applications, the essays and details on the applications, the application fees, the financial aid forms...

But, alas, that infamous day, April 15 does arrive: is it a thick envelope?

Procrastination

I don't feel like writing this . . .

This copy is already late, does it really matter if I type it today? I don't want to, I'd much rather call Amanda. Maybe I'll just watch ten minutes of Guiding Light and then I'll get back to this. Of course, I also need to clean my room. I have successfully put that off for three weeks in a row . . . oh, I don't feel like it. I also don't feel like doing my homework, but then I never feel like doing homework, and I never will, so I guess I just won't do it. After all, I'm a (senior, junior, sophomore . . .) and I only have (one, two, three) years left. Maybe if I write in my journal I'll feel like attacking my sociology paper . . . but then again . . . (Three hours later) It's getting late and I haven't done one single thing. I could always write that one last college essay, or fill out that employment application for McDonald's, but, no, I don't think I'm in the mood. I am in the mood for a snack, however. What's in the fridge? . . . I really should be doing some homework. Can I help it if he called? I mean, what was I supposed to say, "Sorry, can't talk now, I have to figure out how many grams of acid to add to NH_4OH to get its pH down to 2.67"? Besides, I have a studyhall tomorrow. I can do it then . . .

JUNIORS' DECORATIONS

A cool breezy day Friday, Oct. 23 did not keep the Junior Class from making homecoming a night to remember. Everyone gathered early at Honus Wagner Field for a days work. No time was wasted as Mr. Povlick, the Junior Class Sponsor gave assignments. They got right down to work; some put signs on fences, some filled the dark and light blue helium balloons, some hung streamers, and some made the memorable arch.

This was not all the work done by the committee in preparation for homecoming. Days upon days were spent making signs and decorating the placement steps after school.

It wasn't all hard work, however! The crew amused themselves by teasing the officers' G.I. Joe headsets, and presenting a mock homecoming for rehearsal. Later that evening, when the lights came on and the crowds filled the stands, the committee could plainly see their hours of work had paid off.

HUG A JUNIOR!

As a general rule, upperclassmen don't give underclassmen the credit they deserve. Even though they have been there themselves.

Juniors have more responsibilities than they had counted on. They have realized that it is the junior year that counts. Juniors take SAT's for the first time, and PSAT's for the last time to see if they can qualify for a National Merit Scholarship. They quickly learn that if they don't pay attention in class and do the assigned homework that there will be no chance for an "easy A." Juniors must earn their grades, and teachers don't baby them anymore.

Juniors have more than academic responsibilities, however. Sports, clubs, and organizations have a great need for junior participation to ensure their involvement as seniors. All the big social responsibilities belong to juniors, such as homecoming and prom.

Juniors contribute a great deal to the overall school year, and the step from 10 to 11 is not an easy one. Next time you get the chance, give that junior a great big hug.

"ALMOST PARADISE"

Traditionally, attendance in school on prom day is at its lowest. Junior and Senior girls often take all or part of the day off. Last year's prom was no exception. Girls caught up on valuable sleep, had their hair and make-up professionally done, or did last minute shopping.

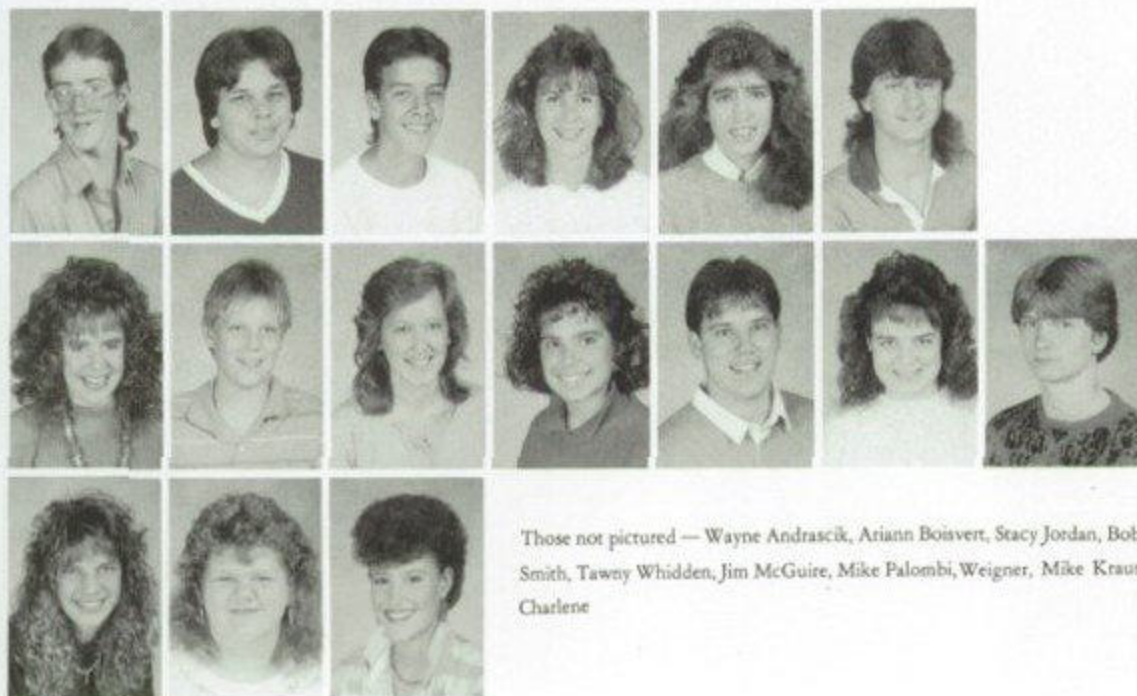

1987 prom, themed "Almost Paradise" was held at the Creentree Holiday Inn on May 20. The tickets were $65.00/couple which included dinner. After, the lights went low as the mood set in when the Jentz Band, followed by a D.J. took the stage.

Upon arrival, couples chose 5 senior girls for Prom Queen and her Court. At midnight, the 1987 Queen, Amy Mulligan, was crowned.

Although the prom did not officially end until 2:00 a.m., the one o'clock hour saw many limousines arrive to take couples to parties, or to Mt. Washington, a favorite, as a festive end to an unforgettable night.

A FRESHMAN FABLE

Sitting around the house in my Levi's (favorite jeans), which I bought at the mall (favorite hangout), I was faced with a huge decision. Family Ties or Growing Pains (favorite T.V. shows), which one should I watch? After a long debate with my remote control, I decide that Bugs Bunny (favorite cartoon) would be a more entertaining choice. Suddenly the telephone rang; it was my girlfriend. She was watching the Guiding Light (favorite soap opera) and called me during the Bud-Lite commercial with Joe Piscopo (favorite commercial). She wanted to know what was up. I told her, "I Got My Mind Set On You" (favorite song). She did not believe me. She informed me that her uncool preppy friend, Robert Lance, wanted to take her to the Whitesnake (favorite group) concert. "Baby," I pleaded, "Stand By Me" (favorite movie). She told me to get lost and hung up the phone. It's Friday night, and I'm left alone with the Road Runner and Tweetie Bird. Hmmmmmm "Isn't that special?" (favorite saying).

Jr. High Football

Taking third in their section and a final record of 4-2 shows the determination of the Jr. High Football team. Although they lost to West Allegheny and Canevin, the team showed promise in defeating Northgate, Quaker Valley, Sto-Rox, and Avonworth.

The Cougars' difficult schedule included three homegames, played at Honus Wagner Field, and three away games, including rival Canevin, Quaker Valley, and undefeated West Allegheny.

The players and coaches felt the season went "extremely well." One of the most outstanding players is Curtis Adams. He broke his own records in running for over 1,200 yards. He and the two other captains, Ken Wilson and Louie Nagel, led the Cougars through all their match-ups this 1987 season.

"Long practices and great coaching helped to make the team what it is," says manager Mindy Miller. "Most people don't realize what players have to give up." Adds one player, "You have to give up a lot of things like MTV after school. But really, it's worth it."

8th Gr. Life: Typical?

*The following articles, written by two eighth graders, are to show how untypical a "typical" eighth grader is.

The life of an 8th grader can be very interesting, to say the least. People begin to notice 8th graders, who change drastically. When an 8th grader is in 7th grade, they feel sorry for the 8th graders because they have no identity: 7th graders are the new ones, 9th the oldest of junior high, 10th are finally senior high, 11th begin to plan life, and 12th are the top. However, an eighth grader does have a place. This year with the new lunches, 8th graders are the oldest of their lunch. Eighth graders have more responsibility and more homework. "I've noticed my parents have expected more of me; this is the year to 'grow up'," says Nikol Hamer.

Clothes are not to be forgotten. Everyone has their own style. We have t-shirts, jeans, sweaters and teenies for guys, and most girls wear pants and sweaters, or miniskirts. "Most all eighth grade girls love miniskirts!" cheers Nikol.

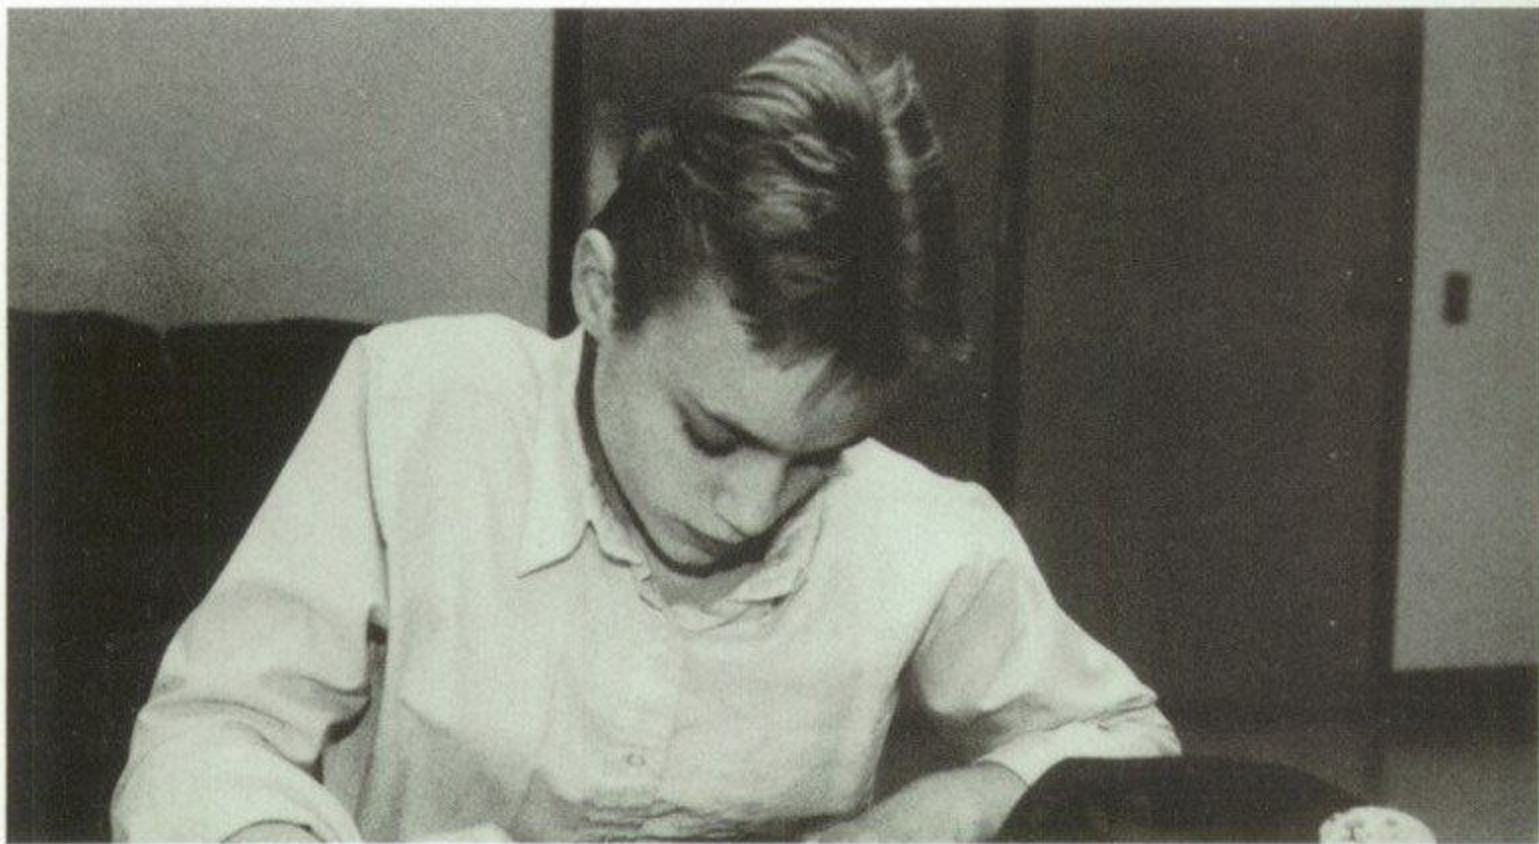

Is that typical? Maybe so, or not, but it's Class of 92!

Typical? 8th Grade Life

For some people, 8th grade life has something left to be desired. They think they can close their eyes and it will go away (and it will if you're a heavy sleeper!). However, to "Most eighth graders, school is something that takes up 40 hours of the week," comments Kevin Donnelly. "It's really not much different than 7th grade, except 8th graders get stuck with more 'responsibility', which really means more homework." One of the biggest fads is clothes. Clothes are a reflection of a person's attitude. Tee-shirts, jeans, and Reeboks are popular in the eighth grade, but so are sweaters, polo shirts, and doxsiders, the exact opposite. "Confused people wear sweaters and jeans, and many 8th graders seem confused," adds Kevin.

A sure thing is that eighth graders enjoy their weekends, vacations, and summers. On weekends, an average 8th grader would go to the football game and dance in the fall. On somedays guys will play football somewhere, and girls shop. All of a sudden it's 10:00 p.m. Sunday night and no one has done their homework! Typical? Class of 1992!

MISSING: CLASS OF 1993!

LOST: One 7th grade male wearing jeans, sweatshirt, tennis shoes. Last seen walking around second floor, looking for third floor stairwell.

Jonathan Glance was a victim. He was told a 3rd floor existed and believe it. He wandered aimlessly for 45 minutes searching for his World Culture class which he thought was up there somewhere. My diagnosis is that Jonathan suffers from an incurable disease: "Getting Lost".

The classes aren't as hard as finding the rooms for 7th graders. Whoever said getting there is half the fun lied. Being late means detention, and if that is fun, I want out!

Maps don't help and neither do seniors. One 7th grader asked directions to the chorus room. The senior's reply: "It's on the third floor!" Thanks a lot. One would think by now a SENIOR would know there is NO third floor!

What's the cure for "Lost"?

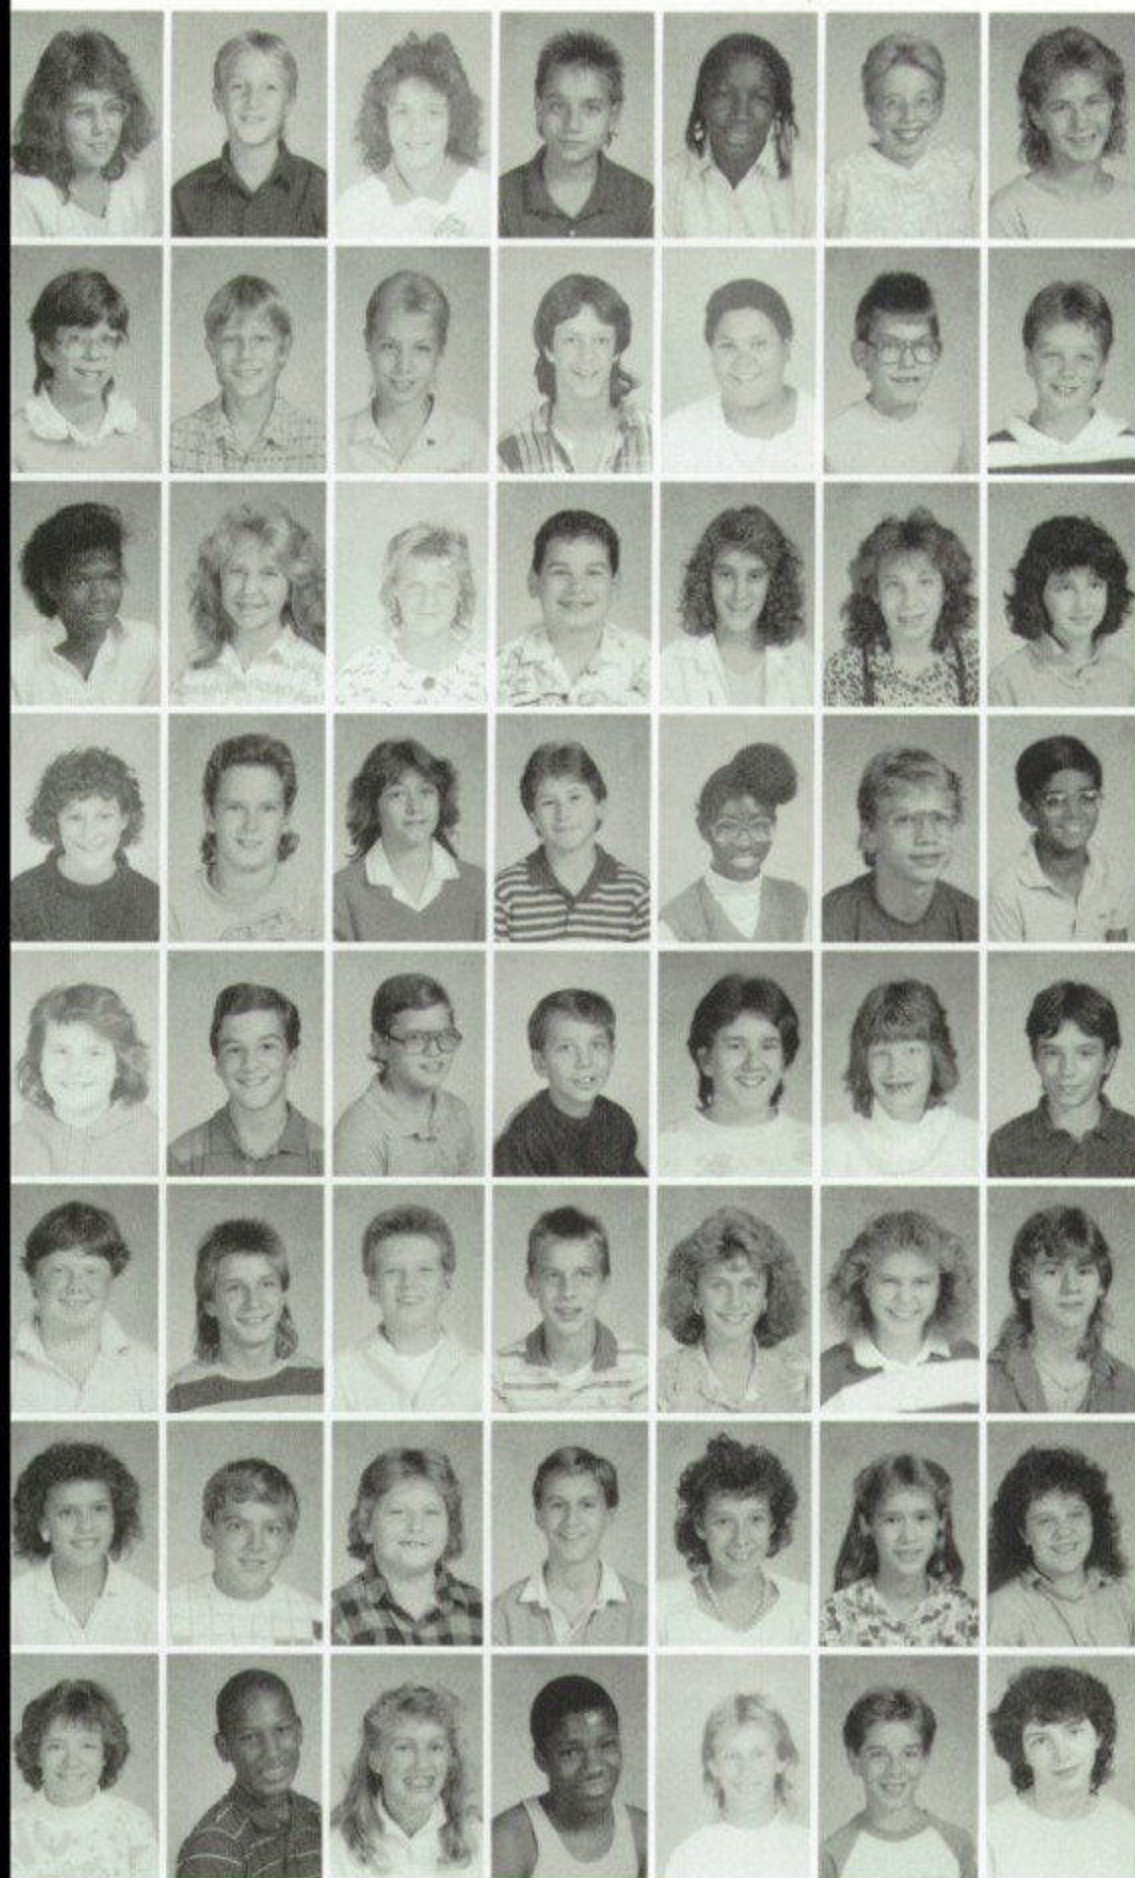

Some students have resorted to putting big, brightly colored stickers on his/her particular locker. How about painting arrows on the floors?! It may help Jonathan, he's still lost!

A Little Respect

"RESPECT" — Aretha Franklin. Okay, we've had enough abuse! So we're silly, but we happen to like seventh grade! According to seniors, we're immature and pressureless. We've heard it all: no SAT's, applications, calculus, or Bio II. Our only worry is getting home to watch Guiding Light . . . Or is it?

Maybe pre-algebra isn't as hard as calc., but it isn't as easy as 6th grade math. You see, our classes are difficult, too. The change from elementary school to the high school in junior high is harder than you upperclassmen may remember. It's a challenge, and a seventh grader deserves credit.

And what about dating? That's no picnic, either. Remember the 3 H's: happy, hurt, humiliated? Happy because we are liked, hurt because seventh grade boys aren't always what we want them to be, but we're willing to wait, and humiliated because, well, when was the last time your mother drove you to the movies?

So you see, we don't mind being seventh graders. Next year we'll be in eighth, maybe a little more "grown up", but for now we toast the seniors and wish them well in their old age and maturity.

Left — Eric Stokes' offense gave the team 4 goals this season. Defensively, senior goalie Joe Dominick had 9 shut-outs this year, with a 1.8 goal per game allowance. Joe and senior teammate Shawn Ebbert were named to the All Stars team, with Tom Mattei at honorable mention. Below — Danny Miller shows that bigger doesn't mean better.

Pride Pulled Them Through

Practice and pride were the keys to the 1987 Boys Soccer Team. Though the Cougars had a record of 4-9-1, youth and spirit are on the Cougars' side. With the loss of only 8 seniors, most of the team will remain intact, including leading scorer Bill Patterson.

Soccer is a very demanding high school sport, physically and mentally. "Gary's Boys" put 12 hours a week during the school year in, and 3 weeks of camp in the summer, including 1 week at Bethany at a cost of $200/player.

Any young team requires community support, and the Cougars have come up with quite a bit. Although game attendance is low, soccer fans are loyal and loud, contrary to fickle football fans.

Soccer is a sport of commitment; seniors this year are the first to have committed 3 years.

Carlynton's Courts Complete

Wimbledon pales in comparison to Carlynton's new home tennis courts. Well, not exactly, but home is where the courts are and for the first season that meant the high school. The teams used to travel to their home matches, which was the Western Area Y.M.C.A. The new courts at a cost of $35,000, were ready for the Sept. 28 match vs. West A.

Hopefully the new courts will add a spark of life to a fading team. With 5 of 7 players graduating, the team will be left in the hands of Maryerin and Marissa.

The five graduating seniors are: Melanie Grandjacques (1st sing.), Jen Swenn (2nd sing.), Laura Zivkovich (3rd sing.), Chapin Cimino (1st doub.), and Nima Patel (1st and 2nd doub.). Tennis, anyone?

Cougars Crush Crusaders!

Think back to what you were doing the last two weeks of August. Baggin' those rays? Getting a new "look" for school? That's what the Varsity Football team was doing. Well, not exactly. Sometime, in between practices, weight training, and learning plays, players found time to get a shave... a head shave, that is.

At football camp '87 it was obvious that one thing most players had in common was their (lack of) hair. Bozworth had popularized the shaved head, and the look was catching on fire as quickly as the defender's temper. The partly shaved head stood as a warning to the opposition; no more Mr. Nice Guy. Nice was a word unknown to players this year. Time for a change.

The season was to start against South Park. The Cougars prevailed in this opener, 27-13. The team went undefeated through the first four games. Echoes of disappointing past season records faded away, replaced by enthusiastic cheers of support.

The streak was finally broken by Stro-Rox, who went on to win the Conference Title. This was not about to hamper the momentum, however, because this was the season to crush the Crusaders of Canevin, our arch rival. This victory alone was worth more to our school than all others.

The crushin' Cougars ended the season with a winning record of 7 wins, 3 losses. Good luck to all graduating seniors.

W.P.I.A.L. Section 13 Winners!!

Slammo! That's how the 1987-88 Carlynton basketball season began and ended. The Cougars began the season with a very (to say the least) positive attitude, and not much to anyone's surprise, kept it throughout the entire season.

With a section record of 16 to 3, the Cougars were lookin' fine and headin' to the playoffs. The first game against Laurel was no problem, the boys showed them exactly what they were made of and took home another victory. Now for Wilkesburg. They were not so easy, but not rough enough. The chanting of "Can't beat Carlynton!" seemed to be holding out and hopefully it will come true. The team is giving CHS something to be proud of.

W.P.I.A.L. "AA" Second Place Winners!

The Girls' Basketball Team, which was two games out of first place at the mid-point of the season, rallied to win their last nine games in a row. This run, highlighted by close victories over Mr. Alvernia and Northgate, enabled girls to claim a tie for the Section Championship and a berth in the WPIAL Championship for the fourth consecutive year.

Looking back on the season, however, one realizes the dedication that these student/athletes give to the sport. The countless practice hours, missed Christmas and Thanksgiving vacations, and long nights on the road are only a few sacrifices. It's not all fun with the games, and one would hope that the success of these girls be measured not only by a season record.

Mind Over Matter

The Battle: a one on one six minute contest to see who is the fastest, strongest, and most skilled athlete. The name of the game: Varsity Wrestling.

Our Cougar Wrestlers this season consisted of a complete team of returning lettermen, led by Seniors Eric Pendergast, Aaron Dhanse, Mike Fienner, Manager Wende Wright, Juniors Dan Conley, Jason Knox, and Sophomores Chris Mangum, Brian English, Terry Scott, Tom Aitken, and Eric Kaminski. The finished the season with a 10 and 4 dual meet record and a 5 and 1 Section record which qualified the team for the WPIAL AA play-off rounds.

Wrestling takes skill and determination to become a wrestler.

One must have mental strength as well as physical along with the comprehension of the meaning of the sport.

Special congratulations to Coach Yost on his 100th victory and Junior Dan Conley for being Regional Champion and State contender.

The pressure mounts as he steps onto the starting block. He's nervous but not afraid; for fear is disaster. There is only one thought running through his mind as he looks down at the lane before him: victory.

This is Swimming, a sport of speed, technique, and endurance.

The Carlynton "Bananas" Boys' and Girls' Swim Teams, under Coach Larry Curry in his final year and Asst. Coach Jean Pruner, both finished great seasons with section wins over Northgate. The girls finished with a 14-3 record and the boys with a 12-4 record. For a few of the best, the season doesn't end there. WPIALs saw appearances of Keith Brown, Matt Ravenstahl, Giac Cardeallo, and Dave Schepner. Special congrats goes to Dave for finishing 7th in the state in the 500 free.

"I Say #, You Say 1!"

"I say GREEN, you say GOLD!" We heard this chant at every football game, basketball game, and even every wrestling match. The 1987-88 Cheerleading Squad was back, and better than ever.

The 1988 season for the cheerleaders began shortly after the 1987 season ended. Summer camp can be the most dreaded part of a CHS cheerleader's life. That's when, in the hottest part of the summer, 13 girls went to Carnegie Elementary every day, practicing, learning, laughing and sweating. There were plenty of crashed mounts (Airborn Chrissy: "Oh! Do I have to catch her, too?"), plenty of injuries, and lots of fun. Soon pride fills the air, and the season is ready to start.

Soon the cheerleaders are practicing for competition. To cheerleaders, competitions means hurt wrists, bruised knees, twisted ankles, undone homework, and countless trips to Rocky. But it also means pride, like at South Hills, where the girls placed first, again. Then came the Shaler competition, which wasn't to be as easy. Sponsor Lori Dadala says to the girls, "You have to smile, give it your all, and I know you can do it!" Do it they did, bringing home another first place trophy.

The cheerleader's success rubbed off on all the Cougars, making 1988 one of the best ever.

Cure for Couch Potatoes

After a full day at school, it feels so good to be home on the couch, with the soaps. On the comfort. Then, it begins. The Doritos in the kitchen call out my name. "We're here!" Then my stomach enters the picture. "If you don't feed me now, I'm talking." And talk it does. "GROWL!" My mom walks into the living room where she finds me hiding behind the sofa. "Hi, sweetheart. How was your day? The Doritos are in the kitchen." Et tu, Mom? I can't take the torture anymore.

I get up, grab the Doritos, and return to couch potato heaven. My gaze falls upon a fashion magazine. "This week's cover model is Lena. She weighs 105 lbs and loves chocolate ice cream." Nice. I'll start my diet tomorrow.

Losing weight and keeping fit are popular, yet difficult, hobbies. What do non-athletic Americans do to keep in shape? They resort to LEISURE SPORTS. Leisure sports are good forms of fun exercise like jogging, walking, dancing, aerobics, skateboarding, surfing, etc.

Trying to lose that ice cream inch? No problem. There is a leisure sport for you. If you live dangerously, you may try aerobics at a health spa. That will cost big bucks, so you can always tune in to Joannie Greggins or Richard Simmons on your set. If "cottage cheese thighs" don't turn you on, couch potato, then turn your t.v. on to "Morning Stretch".

So, you're not talented enough for dancing and sweating in tights is not your bag of tricks? Don't despair. If your knees are strong, then jogging could be for you. All you need to get started are jogging shoes, a sweatband, open road, lungs of steel and plenty of determination. Determination means joggers at 5:30 a.m. in January going six miles. Need more be said?

So jogging's too tough. How about walking and hiking? (No, not talking about walking to the t.v. when the remote control is lost and hiking around the house to find it.) Walking is probably the easiest way to get fit and anyone can do it. Fight that flab! Remember — No pain, no gain!

Promising Publications

"Ten cents! Ten cents! Get your Cougar Times here! Hot off the press!"

She may not be Lois Lane, but Debbie Winsor is a dedicated Cougar Times editor.

Debbie is one of three rotating editors including Dana Phillips and Kelly Lawton. They can put up to 15 hours a week into the production of the paper, which is assembled entirely in school. "The quality of each issue varies," comments Debbie. "It depends on the season. When Dana and I have swimming, the paper isn't as good as when we have the time to put into it."

Along those literary lines, some expressions don't come easily, namely Expressions, Carlynton's new literary magazine sponsored by Mrs. Petronsky. Expressions is put out by GATE students, although anyone in grades 7-12 is encouraged to contribute. The magazine takes special cooperation from the art and English departments. "It's a matter of what comes in. The caliber depends on what students do that year," tells Mrs. Petronsky. "Nothing is required."

HOW SWEET IT IS: FUND RAISERS

"Candy bars! Anybody wanna buy a candy bar?"

"Ugh," you think. "Who would want that sweet chocolate at 8:00 a.m.? Well, I did miss breakfast. No, no, all that sugar would make me spaz and I have a trig quiz next period." You watch person after person make their purchases, and you weaken. "I'll just eat half," you think. "Okay, okay! One box M&M's please."

You've done it. You've broken down. After all, it's only fifty cents, and it's rumored that chocolate gives the feeling of being in love . . .

It's a fact of life at CHS; candy sales mean big bucks. Every club sponsor, class sponsor, and team coach knows it. Sold by the French club, Bike candy bars make the most money. Who can resist such variety as Caramel, Krunch, Almond, and the new 100 Grand, a best seller?

Candy sales are an easy way to raise money for a club, usually to fund a field trip. "The easiest place to sell is junior high lunch," comments one salesman. "It's easy to sell anyway. I don't want any because I have to smell it all day. The only problem is losing the money!"

Mixing Business With Pleasure

"What could Drama and FBLA possibly have in common," our reader thinks, "and why are they on the same page?" Well, it's like this . . .

There is no Business like Show business. Not quite, but Future Business Leaders come close. The preparation for an important business speech is similar to that of an actor's or actresses' monologue. Each needs to be practiced and rehearsed until just the right intonation will project just the right attitude.

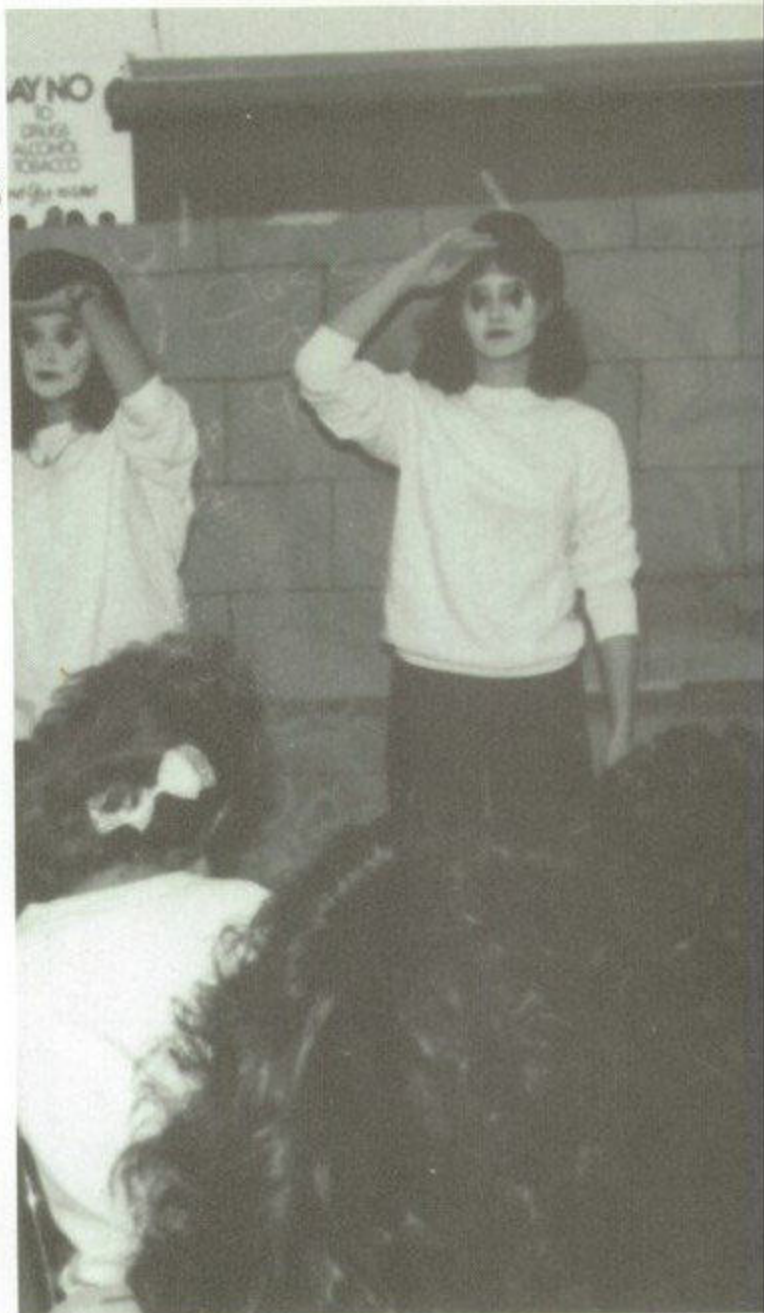

Clothing for an interview must be chosen as carefully as a costume for a theatrical performance, because clothes make a statement. For instance, Debbie Solt, officer of FBLA, would have a hard time trying to convince the Chairman of the Board anything if she were wearing Dawn Gibson's mime suit.

The nervousness before a timed writing, when one forgets which finger types "?" certainly compares to the nervousness of a performer before the curtain goes up and she cannot recall her opening lines.

In a way, we are all actors. Everyone plays a role to get what he or she wants, even Lee Lococca. Of course the lives of a Thesbian and Business Leader are different, but they both play important parts. And the show must go on.

three weeks before the start of school year 1987-1988 to begin working again.

Progress was slow during the fall of '87 since both artists were now seniors and had enough to do with the huge project of the mural. By Christmas painting was in full swing again. In addition to the mural, Jim works every day after school at NUS Labs and keeps a 4.0 GPA. Giac is a member of the swim team.

Tells artist Jim, "To me art takes inspiration. I can't just work on the wall for 45 minutes. By the time I'd get set up it would be time to quit. Like when I'm working on someone's face — one time I got so caught up that I didn't leave school until 11:00 p.m."

Another mural being painted on a school wall is that of a French street scene on the French room wall. This project is moving slowly! The scene was drawn by the French 4 students of 1987, and being painted in '88 by Daniela Koch and Chapin Cimino. "I wanted a project I could do but not every day," states Dany.

There's no doubt that the new art is a welcome sight.

Left — Cathy Veltum is more than a student. She's an artist, too. Cathy helped to paint the murals in the art room, like Calvin and Hobbes.

Club Day Means Short Periods!

"Hurrah! Club day!"

What does club day mean to students at CHS? "Shortened periods!" states Matt Ravenstahl gleefully. Others, however, revel in the pure enjoyment of a chance to be social, in a club. Club sign-ups were late this year, so the first meeting wasn't until October, when officers were elected and fund raisers discussed (see "Fund Raisers" page 135). "Clubs are a good activity besides school work," says Melanie Grandjacques. Regis Turske adds, "Club period gives relief of everyday pressures of academic studies."

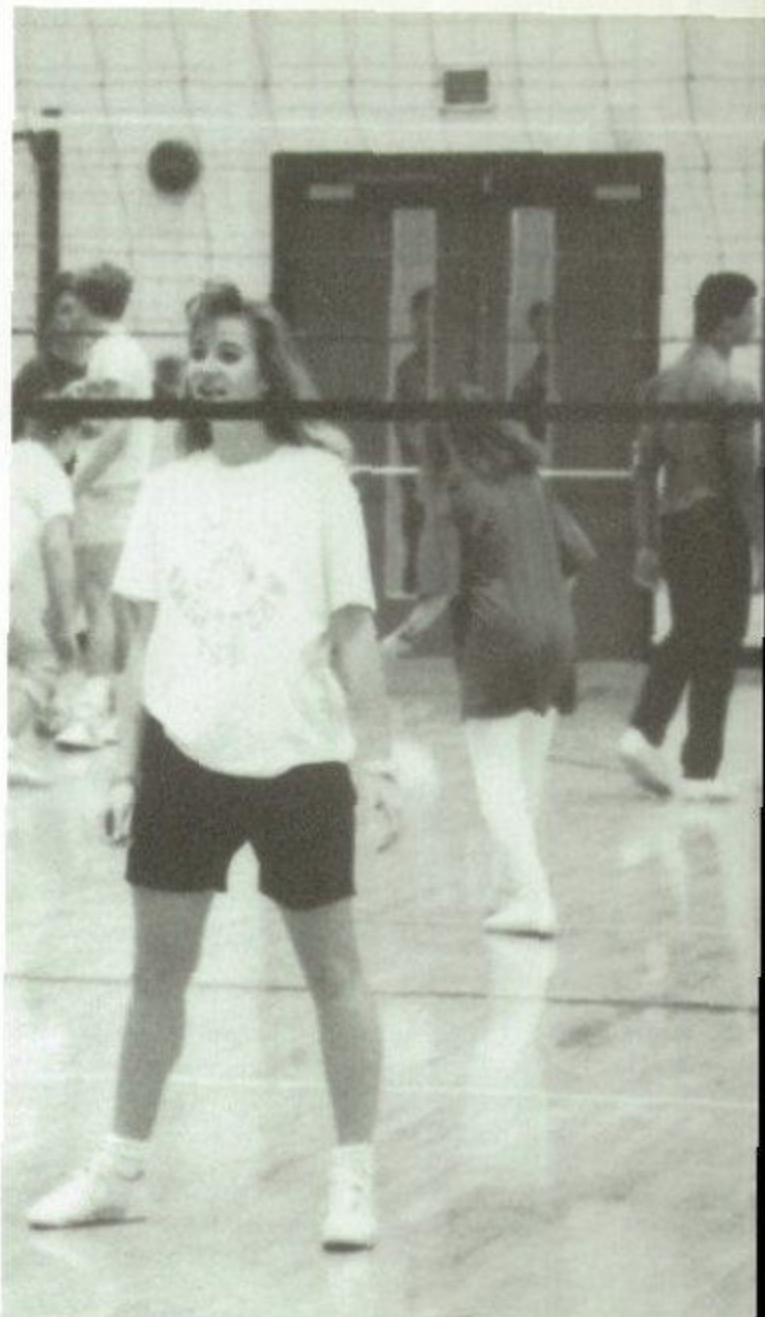

Some clubs have sprung up from academic classes, such as the language clubs. Others have formed because of lack of a class, like photography. The most popular clubs are the athletic ones, like volleyball and ski, both sponsored by Miss Ripple.

Club sponsors are moonlighting CHS teachers. When asked why she took on a club, French sponsor Mrs. Cumo reports, "It's fun to get to know the students in a different way than in the classroom." Mrs. Cumo's French club takes an annual spring or fall field trip to Washington, D.C. each year.

At Carlynton, there is a club for everyone.

Right — Jenn Brubach in her ready position at the ever popular volleyball club. There are four games going at once in the gym.

Band Ram: (noun)

1. One who . . .

... can meet all deadlines, learn new music and routines on short notice, and still perform in a professional manner.

Band camp started late this year. "Great," grumbled all who really cared, "this will throw everything off and with a little work, we may be a little worse than last year." The signs were ominous: no time, no instructors, and people dropping from the band like flies. Those who decided to stick with it faced a year of disappointment. Or did they?

After Campus's carnival and Pollock's platoon, the band decided the third time had to be the charm. The school board had hired the right man for the job. Mr. John Lapato turned a bunch of confused kids into a producing organization. (Continued. Please see band on pages 144-145.)

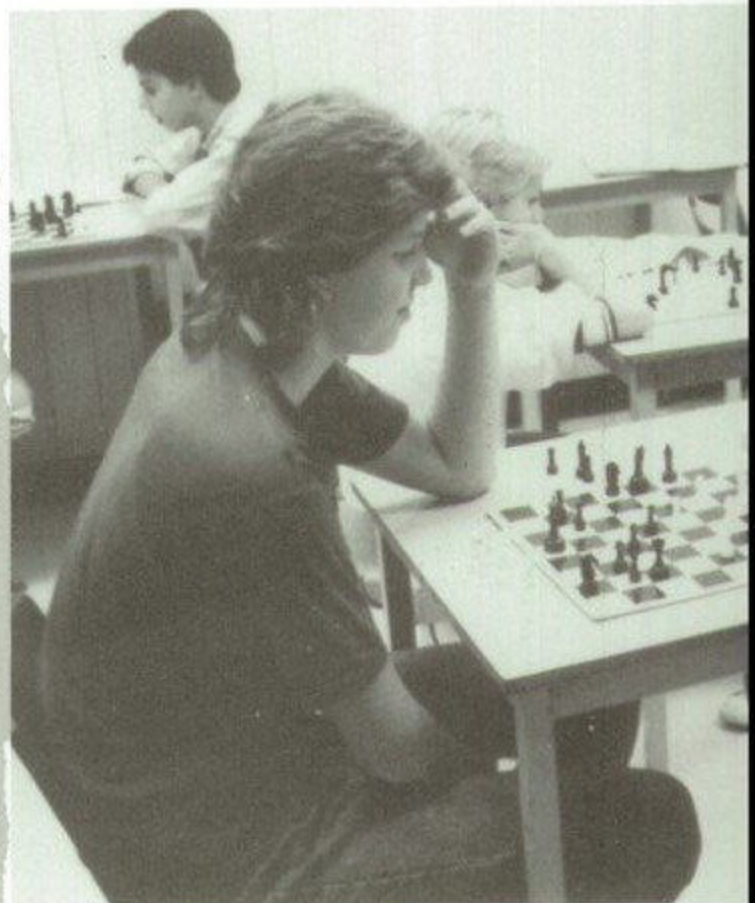

Below — Chess is a game of mental strength; a meeting of minds. This mind ponders his next move to beat his opponent and became a chess king.

Below — It takes two to play chess as well as to tango. It also takes a sponsor — Mr. Gearing. Chess club is unique that it is the only one open to grades 7-12.

Carlynton Golden Cougar Marching Band

In 72 hours 72 rammers learned music and routines well enough to march in the Kennywood Fall Fantasy Parade. That was the beginning of good things to come. In October, at the Clarion Autumn Leaf Festival, the Band took first place in the competition parade.

With the victories of the marching season behind them, the concert band, as well as the auxiliary squads, began to get ready for the spring trip to Toronto, Canada, and the "competition."

Technically, the season's over, but the memories of a successful year will live long in the heart of each rammer. Congratulations and Good luck.

LEADERS

They walk into the room. Immediately everything is in control. They are present. Everyone's attention is held by their command. New ideas are expressed, problems are foreseen, and possible solutions are stated. It's easy to see that nothing will go wrong; they are prepared for everything. They are the leaders of the school. Our leaders.

Recognizing all of our school's leaders would be difficult, because, for good or for bad, there are many. Each group is unique and each defines leadership in his own way. The three groups of leaders featured on these pages are among the elite in our school. The National Honor Society, Senior High Student Council, and Senior Class Officers are noted individually for their outstanding skills, qualities, achievements, and honors. The student body looks up to them for tutoring, the Blood Drive, and organizing class fund raisers and activities. Leadership is one quality that they share.

FUTURE LEADERS

In our caffeine packed Pepsi generation, everyone needs a hero. While Superman may not be provided in each high school as a role model for its students, there are leaders to be admired and trusted.

Future leaders/leaders of the future. People often fail to realize the degree of importance this title carries. It is not a term to be taken lightly, because these younger people will grow to have the abilities to lead people of all ages. They will be expected to solve the difficult problem, to find a way out of the sticky situation, to keep everyone sane during times of utter decadence.

However, with the responsibilities come the bountiful rewards. For their extra efforts, these people will be thought of first when an achievement of their class is mentioned. They will have chances to participate in seminars and workshops to learn about people. They will get special scholarship opportunities, and likewise, advantages throughout their lives.

And I don't mean the trip to Gettysburg and back; not that that wasn't memorable, it certainly was, but I'm talking more about the total YEARBOOK EXPERIENCE: meeting people with names like

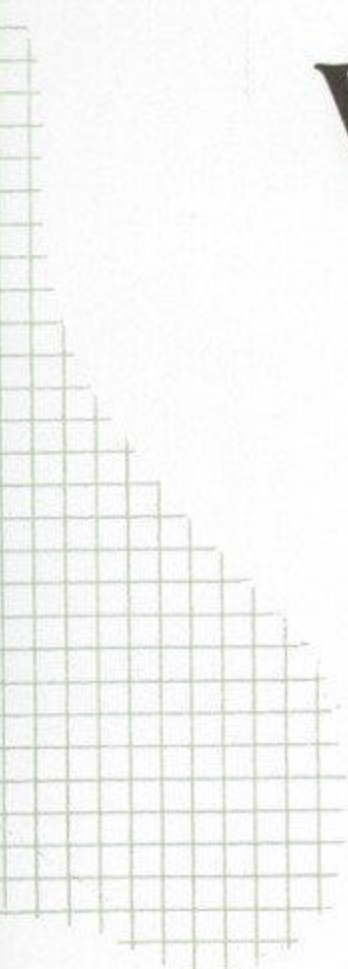

What a TRIP

Colonel Savedge, cropping, flopping, and cover shopping, giving up a few sports and failing a few calc. tests, and befriending late nights janitors and other nocturnal creatures of the school just to name a few.

Through it all, from opening theme copy to final editorial copy, from August's energy to December's depression and March's mayhem, I cried a little and learned a lot, and I know for sure you had to be there. Even though at times the frustration seemed insurmountable (like trying to take the senior class picture on the Monday after the Knight's Inn fiasco), I wouldn't have missed being here and doing this for anything.

A few people proved indispensable in this yearbook project. I must thank: Jennifer Tobin, Nicole DeAugustine, Mrs. Babis, Mrs. Apple, and Heather Bailey.

I want to apologize for omitting any pictures or names, but Dorothy lost a few things in her tornado too, and some people chose not to participate.

Your Image Is Our Business

GET THE BEST PORTRAIT POSSIBLE

Now is the time to be selective, hire the best photographer you can—that's us—you won't ever be unhappy owning a fine portrait of yourself.

ADVENTURESOME OUTDOOR POSES

Be yourself, look and feel relaxed in our outdoor posing areas. Bring a friend, bring a pet, car, bike... anything you'd like that will make your portrait more fun and personal. We'll provide a variety of poses that will make your final selection more fun.

TRADITIONAL STUDIO POSES

We deliver. Deliver traditional studio poses that help you remember the serious side of your high school years.

YOU DESERVE THE BEST

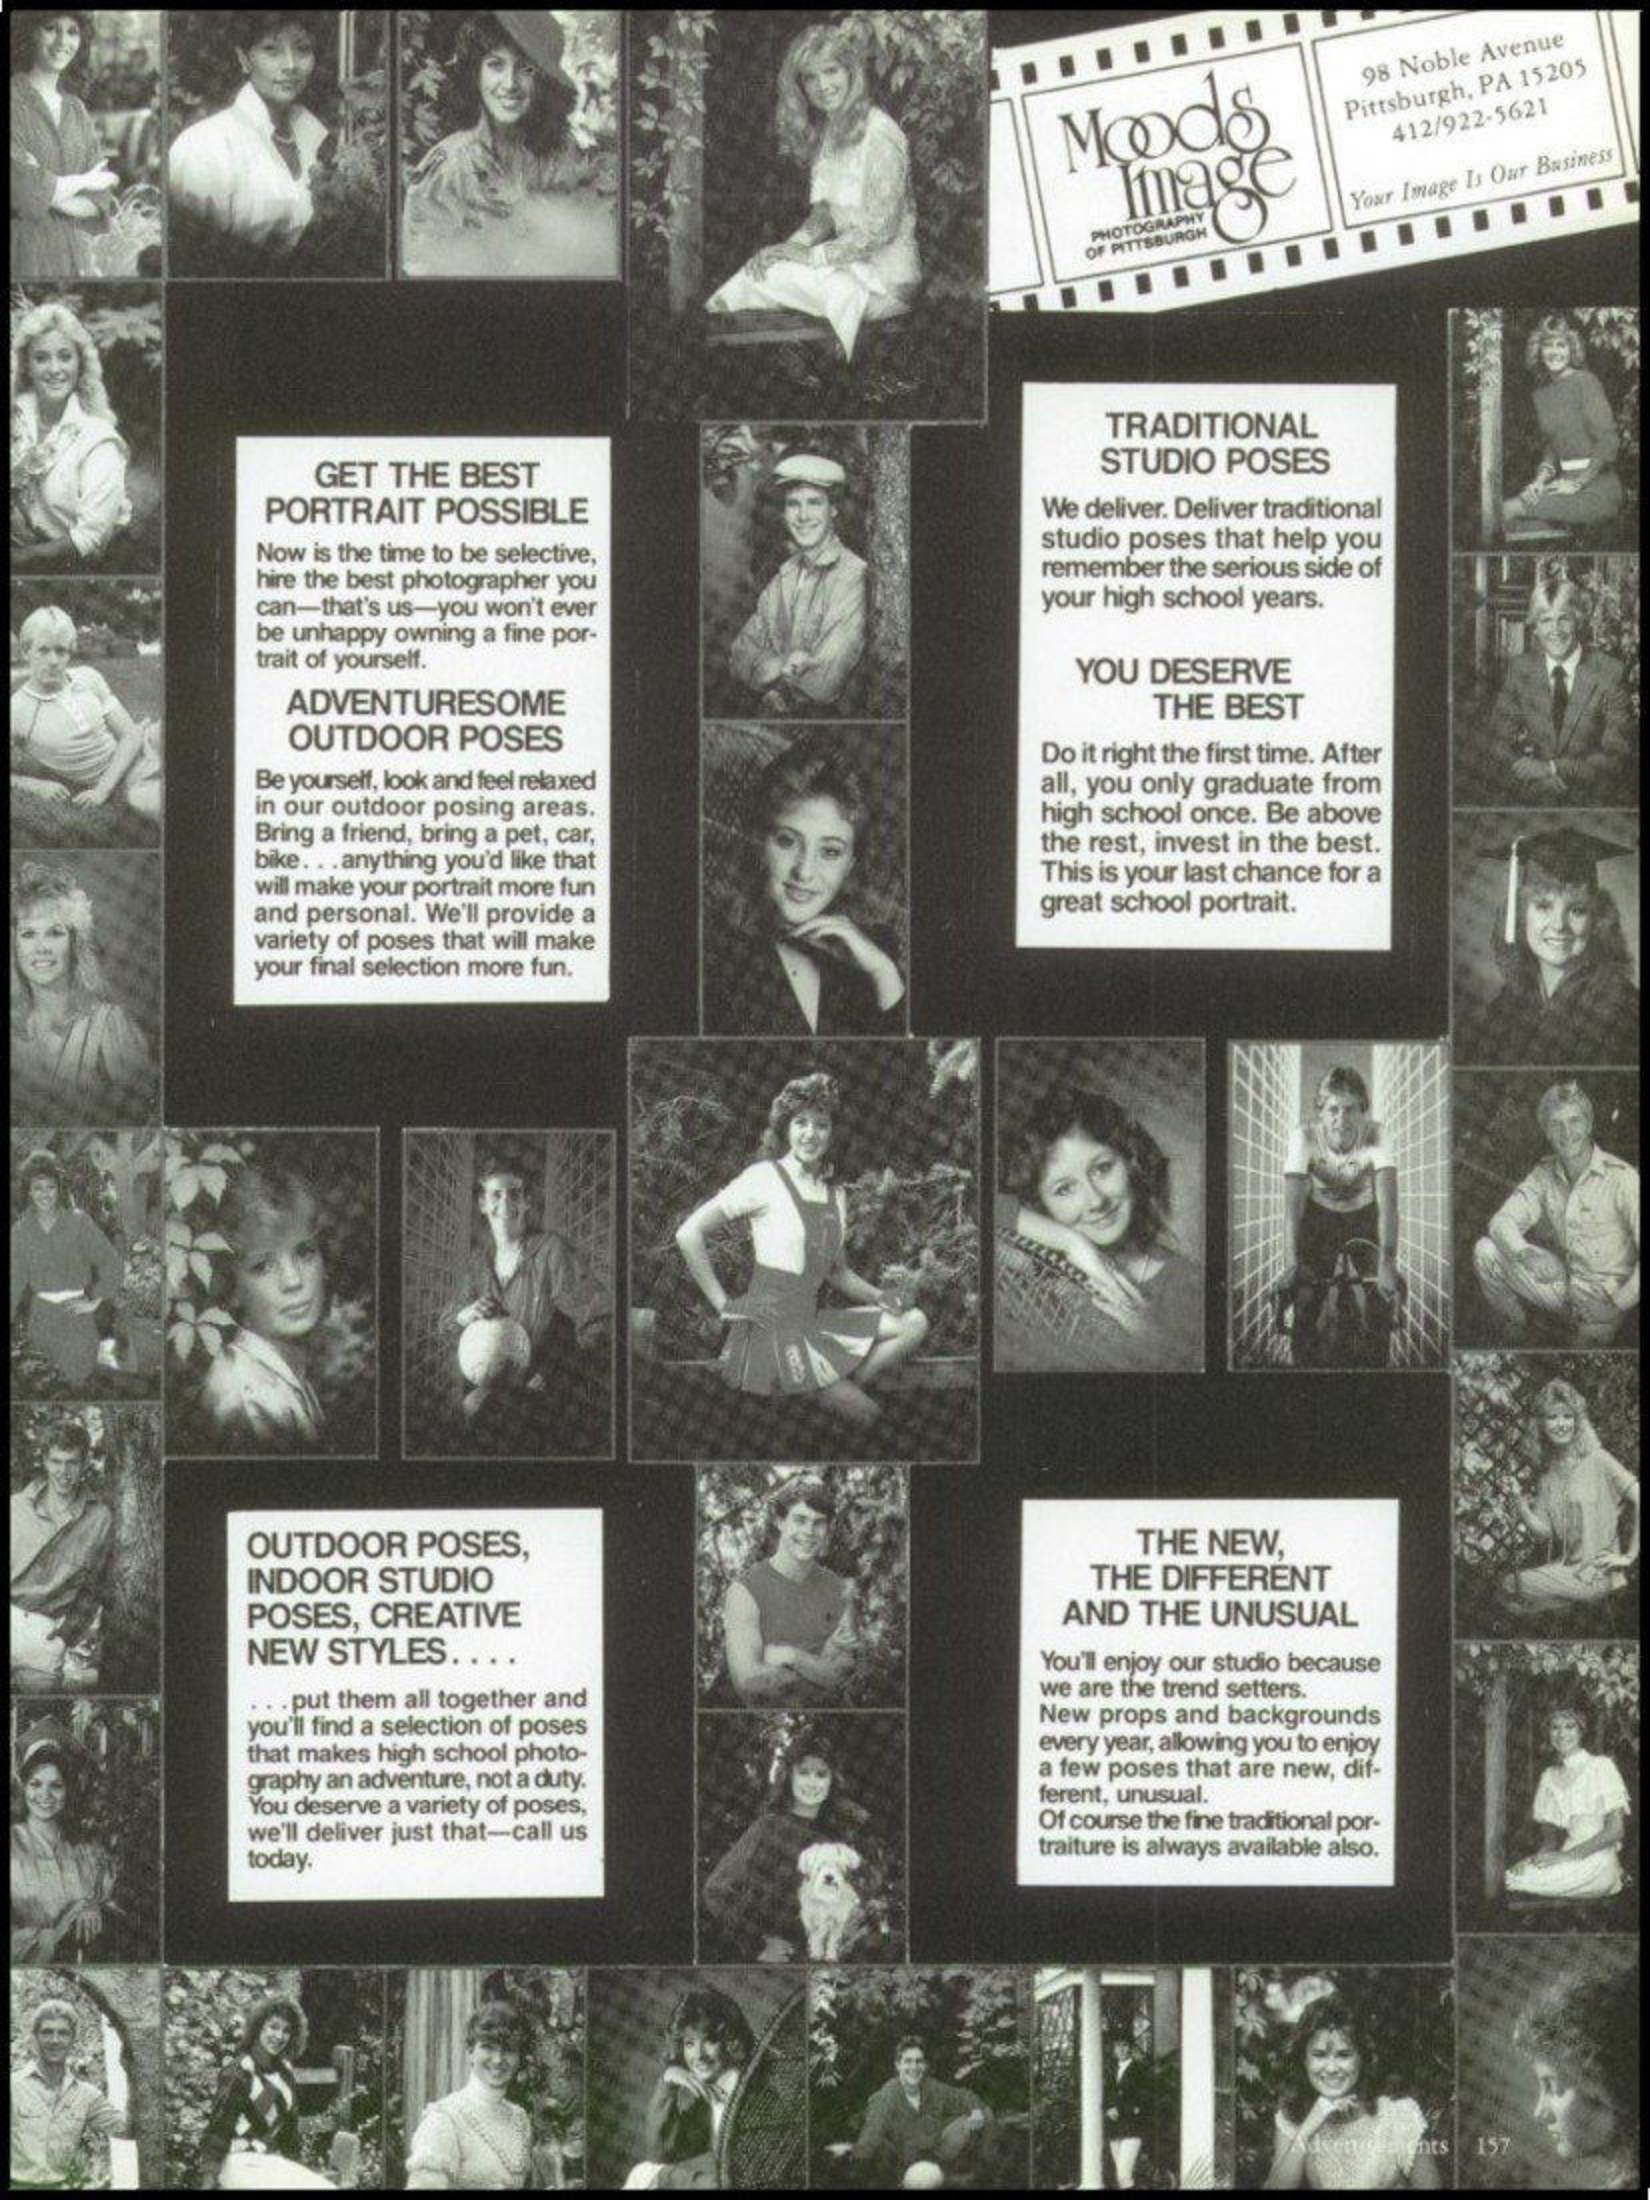

Do it right the first time. After all, you only graduate from high school once. Be above the rest, invest in the best. This is your last chance for a great school portrait.

OUTDOOR POSES, INDOOR STUDIO POSES, CREATIVE NEW STYLES . . .

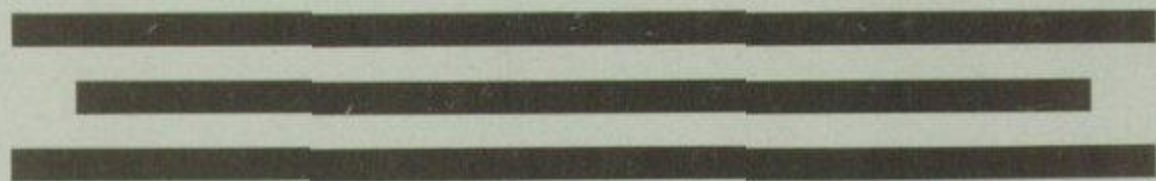

. . . put them all together and you'll find a selection of poses that makes high school photography an adventure, not a duty. You deserve a variety of poses, we'll deliver just that—call us today.

THE NEW, THE DIFFERENT AND THE UNUSUAL

You'll enjoy our studio because we are the trend setters. New props and backgrounds every year, allowing you to enjoy a few poses that are new, different, unusual. Of course the fine traditional portraiture is always available also.

The Springtime of Life

Above — Nurse Helen Weber retires this year after 18 years of service to Carlynton.

Mrs. Jean Martin & Mrs. Helen Weber

Some say it is the autumn of their lives, but for these two women, springtime has arrived once again.

Madame Martin, "Ah! Bonjour! Comment ca va? Oui, et vous?" Anybody who had Mrs. Martin for French I will remember those words she greeted us with everyday for the rest of their life. Mrs. Martin always referred to her students as her friends. Being a ninth grader, that was astounding. Before then, teachers were teachers; Mrs. Martin was our first teacher to also be our friend.

Knowing that CHS will miss her next year, we wonder what she will do in her spare time. With children and grandchildren in Hawaii, we will expect to see Mrs. Martin next time with a deep, tropical tan. Nous vous manquons, Mme. Martin. Bon Courage et adieu.

"I don't feel too well today, Mrs. Weber. I think I have typhoid. Can I go home?" Helen Weber knows better. What will the student body do without her? Band-aids, Pepto, clean bathroom . . . But what will she do without us? Sneezing, coughing, girls running in and out of her clean bathroom . . .

After coming to the aid of CHS students for so long, Mrs. Helen Weber will surely be missed.

One Liners . . .

To my favorite saxophone — Thank you for making my senior year the best it could possibly be. I'll never forget decorating the Christmas tree, "Our Christmas Vacation", The Ground Round and the many wonderful times we spent together. "I live for your love" and as always "I get weak"! "I had the time of my life"! I hope you top "his" SAT scores and I hope you get everything you want out of life. Good luck, Lancelot! Guenevere

Magnum — I'm always here and I'll always love you! — Cam.

Baby junior Mindy — I'll miss you next year! I leave the Cougarettes to you — HAVE FUN! I'll be sure to send you my cookies and potato chips from college. Don't sit alone or else you won't get any extra food. I love ya — JAT REJECTS AT THE END OF THE ALPHABET — no more Mr. Povlick. What will become of us? I'll be sitting by y'all at graduation. Looking forward to the long wait (Zivkovich) — love, your fellow reject.

Kim Pfeffer — My favorite Pee-Wee Herman fan! "I know what you are but what am I?" Never forget Cougarette hassles and our Florida trip! "Let's get physical"? (ha-ha) Thanks for the memories and here's to our brilliant futures! Love, JAT

Chapin — Take a valium, and to think that I brought all this on by one innocent recommendation to E.McG. Great Job you've done, congrats. love ya, Ex-editor

Tree-house (The romantic adventures of Nina Patel) I hope to someday write that novel, but until I do you must promise to keep me updated on the additional chapters. This is not an ending to our "since nursery school" friendship, it is a beginning. Do you want to go see Pinocchio? Love, Jen Chrissy Dee — You are my only little sister I'll ever have and I wanted to take this opportunity to tell you something that I never have before . . . I LOVE YOU . . . forever — n.

Colleen Str. — You have more than the rest of them, too; I was going to be the tin man, but maybe I should've been the scarecrow (Colleen Calculus) I love you, Chast.

Jen — Here's to Tom Selleck and Harrison Ford, to Boy George and Rick Springfield, to best-est and best-est-est friends, to Tom and Rich, to La Marseillaise on a kazoo, to comfy donut buddies, to pillow surgery, to Jim Joe Bob and my career as a lunch lady (of course if I can't find the derivative of the rotting meat and Jim Bob Joe can't calculate distance vs. displacement), and to writing a book in the Library of Congress before the age of 19. Don't become Linda . . . I love you! (P.S. Can't forget Beth and Lujack, and the real Senior Bus)

McGov — We made it and I still have my face! If I ever see another M & M, I will puke! (Yes, that's in my vocabulary too!) Don't worry, I'll never marry a Quaker. Thank you for everything; Good-bye cruel world!

McGov — Don't let your horse friend sit in your new car! Thank you for the unique YEARBOOK EXPERIENCE and the 23 lbs I gained from M & M's. Whoosy.

Minal Dave — Hey guess what? We never went to Chuckie Cheese with Vik and Nick! We must do that sometime. I want to wish you the best of luck in your Republican doctor career. I hope you someday get the car and the President of your dreams. I has been a weird year but I'm glad you were there to help me through the rough spots. Good luck with Vik. Love, Jen

Shawn, Tom, Len — SR Duda; Red Renault Devil; "Wait! I can't see anything!" (rearview mirror); secrets at the park; VIP; summer strolls; Thanks for always being there. Love CM

Amy — Mom! I made it through thanks for the help! I'll never forget you! My name on the door! I'll visit! Love Kathie

The 1988 Reflections of Carlynton High School, 435 Kings Highway, Carnegie, PA, 15106, was printed in offset lithography by Herff Jones Yearbooks, Gettysburg, PA, 17325. The local representative is C.T. Miller and the customer service adviser is Jon C. Lundell.

The press run for 1988 was for 400 copies with 184 pages. The paper used was a 100# Bordeaux gloss sheet.

The cover is a custom design on an Almond leathertext material. Applied to the material is an orange foil, a navy blue silkscreen paint and a clear silkscreen varnish. The covers were mounted on 120 point printers board at the Herff Jones cover plant in Montgomery, AL, 36108. The book is Smyth sewn in sixteen page signatures, trimmed to an 8½" x 11" size, rounded and backed with decorative head and foot bands.

The endsheets are a blue EX-11 textured colortext stock.

In addition to the high carbon jet black ink used throughout the book, there is one flat of process four color.

Type used in Garamond with bold, italic and bold italic emphasis faces in 10 point for captions and 12 point for body copy. Headlines appear in 24 and 42 point Garamond Bold.

No portion of this book may be reproduced in any form without the expressed written consent of the Carlynton High School yearbook staff. For further information, contact the Reflections yearbook Office, Carlynton High School, 435 Kings Highway, Carnegie, PA, 15106.
